HITLER LINES UP HUNGARY IN WAR ON COMMUNISM

Budapest Will Join Anti-Moscow Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's drive to the east, with the object of isolating and encircling soviet Russia with Nazi allies, made another great gain today. Hungary accepted the invitation of Germany, Japan, and Italy to join them in their anti-communist pact.

This pact, which binds the signatories to keep each other informed on international communist activities and to act jointly on "necessary measures of defense" against communism, originally was entered into by Germany and Japan on Nov. 25, 1936. It was expanded on Nov. 6, 1937, when Italy joined.

Hungary to Sign Next Week.

Count Stephen Csaky, Hungarian foreign minister, is expected to sign the pact on his arrival in Berlin from Budapest next Tuesday for a two day state visit. It is also believed that he will soon announce Hungary's intention to leave the league of nations.

"Hungary reinforces the powers of order, which hold together against Jewish bolshevist destruction and to an ever increasing extent determine world politics," said the official Nazi newspaper, Der Angriff. "The strengthening of the anti-communist pact must be especially welcome in view of the influence the Jewish bolshevist attacks have on the official American policy."

Boersenzeitung, organ of the German armed forces, declared:

"The bolshevist setback in Spain has induced the communist Internationale to shift its activities to other quarters of the world. We need only to refer to the communist activities in America, where the tentacles of the communist Internationale reach into the antechambers of the highest government officials."

Criticize Roosevelt Program.

Referring to Bela Kuhn's communist regime in Hungary in 1919, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said:

"Nations which have been spared similar experiences perhaps fail to understand the issue at stake. Especially in America, a pathological campaign is waged to dim the minds of the people. Perhaps such nations must first undergo similar experiences before they are cured."

President's Roosevelt's rearmament program and his statements that the United States must be prepared against sudden attacks are described by the German press as a "dangerous playing with fire."

President Roosevelt "tries to create a war of fear to make the American people ripe for his plans," one newspaper said. "This game is not new, but always dangerous, especially when it is dishonest, as in Roosevelt's case."

There was much speculation as to what effect Hungary's adherence to the anti-communist pact would have on Rumania.

Strengthens Rome-Berlin Axis.

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The adherence of Hungary to the German-Italian-Japanese pact against communism will give added strength to the Rome-Berlin axis, which is the working agreement of the two great European Fascist states. The influence of the axis, with the support of Hungary, will now extend from the Baltic to the Mediterranean and from central Europe to the gateways to Ukrainian wheat and Rumanian oil.

Hitler has been represented as being convinced that a concerted attack by Germany, Poland, and possibly Rumania upon the Ukraine would give a death blow to the soviet union and the bolshevist régime of Dictator Stalin.

Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, apparently is not ready to give Hitler unqualified assurance of support, but the fact that Hungary, Poland's special friend, is joining the anti-communist pact may make Beck more willing to join Germany.

Hungary's adherence to the pact also may have far-reaching effects on Rumania.

King Carol II. of Rumania has been under heavy pressure from Germany to come more closely into Berlin's economic orbit.

Conceivably, if Rumania should insist upon remaining aloof, and if the drive toward the east should continue nevertheless, Hungary might be rewarded by the axis powers by their support of Hungarian aspirations in Transylvania, which Rumania gained from Austro-Hungary after the world war.

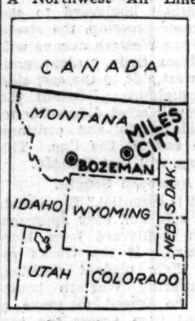
PLANE CRASHES IN MONTANA; 4 DIE IN FLAMES

Take Three Bodies from Wreckage.

Miles City, Mont., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A Northwest Air Lines passenger plane en route from St. Paul, Minn., to Seattle, Wash., crashed in flames tonight on snow covered creek bottoms two miles west of Miles City, carrying to death the four on board.



Scene of crash.

Those dead were:

Mrs. Clara Morris, wife of a Northern Pacific railway conductor at Mandan, N. D.

Richard S. Zahniser of Billings, Mont., division superintendent of the Consolidated Freight lines.

Co-Pilot Raymond B. Norby of Minneapolis.

H. V. Hewitt, a company employé from Parkwater, Wash., left the plane at Miles City.

Delayed by Weather.

The plane, flying trip No. 1, was due at Miles City at 8:35 p. m., Chicago time, but arrived late. It was held here because of snow and adverse weather conditions.

L. H. Bliven, manager of the airport, who witnessed the accident said:

"The plane made a normal takeoff. I watched its course for a distance and when I turned my head for a moment, then looked again, I saw a flash of fire which flared up about a mile directly west of the airport.

"I went to the scene and found the plane had dropped into a coulee in the Sunday creek bottoms about a mile away from where I saw the plane burst into flames. It was demolished and the occupants must have been killed instantly."

Travel Over Icy Roads.

Salvage crews led by Coroner Ralph H. Gray, after traveling over icy roads, reached the scene of the wreck late tonight. While hundreds of persons were restrained at the airport from going to the twisted wreckage, searchers dragged three charred bodies from the débris. The fourth body had not been recovered.

The Friday the 13th crash, first airliner wreck of 1939, was almost concluded for the pilots when they met death. The dispatcher at Spokane, W. D. Markey, said Pilot Chamberlain and Co-Pilot Norby were to have ended their stretch of flight at Billings, around 100 miles air line from the crash spot.

On Jan. 10, 1938 a Northwest Air Lines transport plane crashed on a snow covered peak high in the Bridger range of the Rocky mountains, fourteen miles northwest of Bozeman, Mont., killing ten persons.

Prominent in Music Circles.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara Morris, a passenger on the Northwest Air Lines plane that crashed tonight at Miles City, Mont., was the wife of a Northern Pacific railway conductor. She has been prominent in music circles.

LEARNS FATHER HE MOURNED IS ALIMONY DODGER

For more than seven years, Mrs. Edith Kraemer has been telling her son, William, that his father was dead. At intervals they would place flowers on a grave in a Chicago cemetery and she would tell the boy that his father was buried there.

All this while, however, police were looking for the father, Henry, now 30 years old, who left his wife in 1931 and has failed to pay $5 a week support money as ordered by a Chicago court.

Yesterday Henry Kraemer faced Judge Philip J. Finnegan. He had been seized at 2010 Bissell street, during a brief stay in Chicago. He now is $1,650 in arrears. Despite his plea that he has been on relief and has no money, Judge Finnegan sent him to jail for six months for contempt of court. Mrs. Kraemer then explained to her son that the grave on which the flowers have been put is an uncle's, whose surname is Kraemer.

SELL FIRST BANANAS IN MOSCOW STREETS SINCE THE WORLD WAR

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Bananas were sold on the streets of Moscow today for the first time since the world war.

Thousands of young people who never had seen a banana before lingered to marvel at the exotic fruit. They stood in line to buy samples at 7½ rubles a pound—about $1.50 at the official exchange rate.

The only bananas available previously in Moscow were those imported by embassies and legations.

Some years ago a few dozen were rushed by plane from Berlin to save the life of a monkey ill in a zoo, but the fruit arrived too late.

British Actress Given Scarlett Role in Movie

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The two years' guessing contest as to who will play the rôle of Scarlett O'Hara in the motion picture version of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind" was ended tonight with the signing of Vivien Leigh, English actress, for the part. It will be her first Hollywood movie.

Selection of Miss Leigh, after every actress in Hollywood had been considered for the rôle, was announced by David O. Selznick, president of Selznick-International studio, which will make the picture.

Production in technicolor will begin within two weeks, with Clark Gable cast as Rhett Butler, Leslie Howard as Ashley Wilkes, and Olivia De Havilland as Melanie. George Cukor will direct the movie, using an already completed screen play by Sidney Howard and Oliver H. P. Garrett.

Selznick Explains Choice.

Seeking to forestall possible criticism over the selection of an English actress for the rôle of Scarlett, Selznick pointed out that the southern aristocracy of civil war days was proud of its British ancestry and that he and Director Cukor felt Miss Leigh in a bustle and straw bonnet would make an exact duplicate of the imaginary Miss O'Hara.

Miss Leigh's appearance in "Gone with the Wind" was made possible through an arrangement with Alexander Korda, English producer to whom she is under contract. The arrangement stipulates that she shall be under exclusive future contract to Selznick-International, providing that she is permitted to make one picture a year for Korda.

Already Has Accent.

Miss Leigh, who is visiting in Hollywood, first attracted Selznick's attention more than a month ago. She is 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 103 pounds, and has green eyes, reddish brown hair, and even Scarlett's pointed chin. She already has acquired a southern accent, which, studio officials said, is not much different from her own natural one.

In real life she is Mrs. Leigh Holman, wife of a London barrister and the mother of a daughter, Suzanne, 5 years old. She was born at Darjeeling, India, twenty-five years ago and is of French and Irish descent.

Educated in Europe, Miss Leigh appeared in numerous stage plays in England and more recently in "Fire Over England" and "Storm in a Teacup." Korda pictures, and "A Yank at Oxford," produced by M-G-M in Britain.

FIVE MILLION SUBWAY NICKELS DISAPPEAR; 14 EMPLOYES OUSTED

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Fourteen employés of the Independent Subway system have been suspended as the result of an investigation into the disappearance of five million nickels from subway turnstiles, it was disclosed today. It is reported that the thieves, with the help of employés, stole the nickels by disconnecting the meters from the turnstiles and then fishing out the nickels that failed to register.

POLICE SUSPECT THIS THIEF WILL CHANGE HIS JOB

Police last night sought an automobile thief who can't stay in the straight and narrow path. He can't drive the cars after he steals them.

Yesterday he stole a truck at 221 North May street. Then:

He crashed into a car driven by Fred Knopf of 2937 North Kolmar avenue. Jittery, the thief backed up, knocking down a lamp post. He shot forward again, striking Knopf's car a second time. Once more he backed, tearing down a fence. Then he backed obliquely, pushing the wall of a garage over six inches. Completely bewildered, he asked passersby to call police. Then he ran away.

They said when they arrived that they suspected he'd given up his career for something more in his line. "Square peg in a round hole, you know," they said.

Now Mrs. Brown is keeping the mail in her automobile, using the car as a postoffice. Mrs. Cowart posted $200 bail and awaits a hearing. The building is in two pieces.

HOUSE CLIPS 150 MILLIONS OFF BILL, THEN PASSES IT

HOPKINS ADMITS WPA CORRUPTION IN PENN ELECTION

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's right-hand left wing adviser, today concluded his three day act of confession and repentance before the senate commerce committee. He left a record in which Mr. Hopkins as secretary of commerce repudiated Mr. Hopkins as WPA chief.

The committee delayed action on recommending the confirmation or rejection of Hopkins' appointment pending the printing of the voluminous record of the testimony, but there is little doubt that the nomination will be confirmed.

Professes Deep Regret.

Ostensibly Hopkins was as contrite today when he called certain WPA political activities in Pennsylvania reprehensible as he was Wednesday when he said activities of the WPA in the Kentucky senatorial primary campaign were so rotten that he should have fired the whole administrative force.

Again he admitted, professing deep regret, that his own partisan political speech making while he was relief administrator was improper. He said it was a mistake for the senate not to pass the Hatch amendment, forbidding political activity by WPA and PWA supervisory employés, to the 3¾ billion dollar relief and pump priming bill last year.

Denies Causing Fight.

Hopkins denied that he inspired the opposition to this amendment. The man who led the fight against it was President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley, Democratic leader of the senate and beneficiary of the WPA activity in the Kentucky primary campaign last summer.

Hopkins said he would go as far as any member in the senate in strengthening the corrupt practices act to take the relief administration out of politics, or vice versa, and advocated extending civil service to all administrative employés except a few in policy making positions.

So eager was the new secretary of commerce, a former registered Socialist, to make a good impression on the Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats that he scorned the gratuitous efforts of two New Deal yes men to minimize his culpability as WPA administrator.

Assumes Blame Himself.

Senator Lister Hill [D., Ala.] and Senator James M. Mead [D., N. Y.] suggested that Hopkins' importance in the WPA picture had been exaggerated and that the local officials had been primarily responsible for the political abuses.

"I'm not going to make any excuses about any one else having legal responsibility," Hopkins told the yes men.

Hopkins' strategy fits the situation. The WPA is a thing of the past for him, and he is playing for confirmation as secretary of commerce.

Conservative Democrats and Republicans have less interest in the office of secretary of commerce than in changing the whole system of relief administration to eliminate politics and waste and cut down expenditures. They were so delighted with the ammunition Hopkins gave them for use in the relief controversy that they will gladly reward him with confirmation.

Quizzed by Johnson.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson [R., Cal.] did most of the questioning today, using the report of the Sheppard campaign expenditures committee as it related to the Pennsylvania general election campaign.

Hopkins at times defended the WPA, blaming the Pennsylvania Democratic organization for putting pressure on workers and supervisors. Senator Johnson called attention to the Sheppard committee finding that WPA officials sold tickets for political meetings and directed WPA trucking contractors to political headquarters, where they were forced to contribute $100 each. Hopkins readily admitted that these activities were reprehensible.

Senator Johnson said the Sheppard committee had found that an atmosphere of fear prevailed on the WPA projects and declared that such a situation was disgraceful.

"I thoroughly agree with you, senator," replied Hopkins.

G. O. P., Unpurged Democrats Vote Cut, 226 to 137.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The house tonight passed and sent to the senate a resolution appropriating 725 million dollars to finance the Works Progress administration from Feb. 1 to June 30. The final roll call vote was 397 to 16.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] turns thumbs down on biz WPA fund. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

A coalition of Republicans and unpurged Democrats functioned efficiently to defeat administration attempts to raise the total of the appropriation to 875 millions, the amount requested by President Roosevelt in a special message eight days ago. The members turned down an amendment carrying the higher figure by a vote of 226 to 137.

This approval of a slash of 150 millions from the President's estimate of WPA needs constituted one of the most stunning reverses suffered by Mr. Roosevelt in his spending program since he took office.

Tack on Amendments.

In addition to indorsing the 17 per cent cut in the President's estimate, the house tacked onto the appropriation a number of restrictive amendments, some of which were also regarded as slaps at the administration. These amendments included:

1. A provision that aliens shall not be employed by the WPA. The agency has hitherto refused to distinguish between citizens of the United States and aliens in awarding jobs to applicants.

2. A restriction in WPA wage differentials to 25 per cent. Under this amendment the agency would be forced to pay practically the same wages to northern and southern workers, whereas differentials as high as 1,000 per cent now exist.

3. An amendment providing that no salary may be paid to a WPA employé attempting to influence the vote of another employé.

4. A provision which, in effect, sets aside an executive order by President Roosevelt blanketing under civil service 35,000 administrative employés of the WPA.

The two main contests involved the administration's attempt to raise the appropriation to 875 millions and the Republican minority attempt to appropriate only 350 millions at this time to carry the WPA until April 7. Both were unsuccessful.

Treats Deficit Danger Lightly.

In the President's budget estimate he had treated lightly the danger of deficit financing and urged continuance of huge spending. The house's action in slashing his demands for WPA funds was interpreted as a direct rebuke to the chief executive.

About 100 Democrats joined with the Republican minority to roll up the majority against the 875 million dollars appropriation. With congress only nine days old, the anti-New Deal strength, at least in regard to the administration's fiscal policies, has solidified, the vote indicated.

Only Ten Nos on Final Vote.

The final roll call vote found almost unanimous approval of the 725 million dollar figure. Against the 397 votes in favor of this amount, only ten Republicans and six Democrats cast their votes in favor of a still lower appropriation.

Representative Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.] led the administration's fight for the President's request. He was assisted by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn and House Whip Pat Boland who exercised their strongest means of persuasion to swing Democrats into line. They threatened and promised, but found a large bloc of Democrats, most of them from the south, unalterably opposed to acceptance of the 875 million dollar figure. The old cry of "stand by the President!" failed to produce the effect it once had upon the legislators.

The slash of 150 million dollars from the President's estimate represents a reduction of 17 per cent, which, according to appropriation committee members, will probably be applied to other spending bills to be submitted to congress by the President.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] offered the Republican minority amendment containing the two month appropriation. It was defeated, 214 to 154.

Taber argued that this procedure would give congress time to consider the work relief program and work out a definite plan for distribution of funds and the elimination of abuses disclosed by congressional investigating committees in the last year.

The amendment did not secure the approval of Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], who led the band of rebellious southern Democrats in the fight against Mr. Roosevelt's 875 million dollar request. Woodrum conceded the need for a program to cleanse the WPA of political activities, but did not think two months would be sufficient time to arrive at a solution. He promised to support a movement to reform the work relief agency when the house considers appropriating funds for the WPA during the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Wage Rider Hits Officials.

The amendment concerning the wage rates to be paid to WPA workers threw consternation into officials of the agency. Offered by Representative Malcolm C. Tarver [D., Ga.], the amendment was carried by a vote of 171 to 138 with the Democratic-Republican coalition again functioning effectively.

Tarver declared that the wage differentials now prevalent on the WPA rolls amounted to as much as 1,000 per cent in many instances. WPA workers in the south were being paid 30 cents an hour for the same kind of work for which workers in the north were receiving $3 an hour, he asserted.

If this amendment passes the senate, the WPA will be forced to lower the wages of northern workers and raise them in the south until there is not more than a 25 per cent difference in the wage scales. WPA officials asserted that such a provision would cause the pay rolls to be cut drastically.

Restriction Against Aliens.

The restriction against aliens on the WPA was approved by a close vote of 164 to 156. Since the inception of the agency, the inclusion of such a provision in appropriation bills has been suggested each year in congress, but hitherto has been defeated by the leadership.

All attempts to raise the WPA appropriation to a higher figure than 725 millions were defeated. Representative John M. Coffee [D., Wash.], offered an amendment, sponsored by the Workers' Alliance, communistic organization of WPA workers, to raise the amount to one billion 50 millions of dollars. It was shouted down by a voice vote.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, American labor party member of New York City, then proposed an appropriation of 915 million, the figure approved by Mayor F. H. La Guardia. It was overwhelmingly defeated, 199 to 21.

The White House battle for an 875 million dollar appropriation found Representative Cannon in open conflict with Representative Woodrum. Cannon pleaded with Democrats not to align themselves with their ancient Republican enemies but to support their leader. The headlines would interpret a refusal to appropriate 875 millions as a stinging rebuke to Mr. Roosevelt, he declared.

Age Limit Removed.

Woodrum, replying, asked Democrats to decide the question not upon what the headlines might contain, but upon their judgment as to what was the proper amount.

Representative Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.], sought to defeat the amendment preventing President Roosevelt from putting the 35,000 administrative employés of the WPA under civil service. The jobs of these employés, many of whom have been accused of using relief funds to influence votes in the recent campaign, would thus have been made permanent even if the WPA should be disbanded. By a voice vote, the house spurned Ramspeck's proposal to strike out the amendment.

Another amendment, approved by a voice vote, set aside a recent WPA ruling that persons over 65 years of age and women with dependent children should not be given places on the work relief rolls. The theory of the WPA was that these persons should apply for old age and mothers' pensions. The house repudiated this theory.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN.

MURPHY TELLS OF 'ULTIMATUM' IN C. I. O. STRIKE

Seeks to Clear Himself of Sitdown Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Frank Murphy, new attorney general of the United States, today pulled from his brief case a hitherto unpublished and unheard of document which purported to justify his conduct as governor of Michigan in the C. I. O. sitdown strike crisis two years ago.

The document, dated Feb. 9, 1937, purported to be an ultimatum delivered by Gov. Murphy to John L. Lewis, dictator of the C. I. O., threatening the enforcement of a Circuit court writ to evacuate the General Motors plant in Flint, Mich., unless an immediate peaceful settlement could be reached. The strike was settled the next day and the ultimatum was not made public.

Committee Votes Approval.

Following the appearance of the new attorney general and the production of his white rabbit the senate judiciary subcommittee which heard his testimony voted unanimously to recommend his confirmation. The subcommittee previously had taken such action, but the hearing was reopened at Murphy's request that he be permitted to present evidence to combat charges that he had coddled C. I. O. strikers.

Murphy has been accused of violation of his oath of office to execute the laws of Michigan by refusing to permit enforcement of the court order calling for the evacuation of the automobile plants, which admittedly were held unlawfully by sitdown strikers.

The purported ultimatum was intended, when produced today, to exculpate the former governor, although he did not use it in his unsuccessful campaign for reëlection, when his toleration of the sitdown strikers was a paramount issue.

Company Forced to Give In.

Another extraordinary, unexplained aspect of Murphy's new defense is that the ultimatum supposedly brought about a peaceful settlement of the strike as a result of its effect upon C. I. O. Dictator Lewis, while the fact is that General Motors and not Lewis capitulated.

The strike was settled when the company agreed to recognize the United Automobile Workers' union as the collective bargaining agency for its members. This was the sole issue in the controversy.

According to Murphy's story to the senate judiciary committee, only one witness heard the purported ultimatum delivered to Lewis, and that was James G. Dewey, a concillator from the department of labor at Washington. The automobile company presumably knew nothing about the ultimatum.

Murphy said he took Lewis, who was negotiating with the company representatives, "into another room" and there read him the statement at 9:15 p. m. the night of Feb. 9.

Fails to Fix Deadline.

The statement itself fixed no deadline for the settlement of the strike or the evacuation of the plants, but Murphy said he told Lewis that he would make it public the next day if an agreement had not been reached by then.

The ultimatum was given to Lewis four days after the court order had been issued. In the meantime Murphy had refused to authorize enforcement of the order, either by the National Guard or by sheriff's deputies. When the sheriff telephoned the day the writ was issued, requesting either additional deputies or state militia for execution of the order, Murphy said he told him to "delay action over the week-end, as a settlement appeared to be imminent."

Murphy had aided the sitdown strikers at the outset of the controversy by forcing the General Motors officials to negotiate while their strikers retained possession of the plants.

Murphy, in a prepared statement to the committee, defended his conduct on the ground that the laws were executed "in the manner best calculated in my judgment to serve the original and the ultimate purpose of all laws—to preserve public order and insure public safety."

Wins Support Order

Mrs. Ethel Restagno as she appeared when pressing fight for $10 a week from her husband, Frank.

He was temporarily insane when he struck his wife and now he wants her to come back home. This was the plea before Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday when Frank Restagno, 25 years old, a baker, appeared on the complaint of his wife, Ethel, 24 years old, who asked $10 a week temporary support, pending action on her bill for separate maintenance. "But," interposed Attorney Victor Frolich, "temporary insanity has no standing as a plea in a civil case." Judge O'Connell held that this was true and ordered Restagno to pay.

POLICE DISAGREE; BROKER FREED ON TRAFIC CHARGES

Martin S. McCarthy, 2759 Eastwood avenue, Evanston, a grain broker, was freed of two trafic charges in the Evanston Municipal court yesterday when policemen told conflicting stories about his arrest. Judge Harry H. Porter ordered a directed verdict of not guilty on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and a charge of driving on the wrong side of the street was dismissed.

A mistrial in the case was ordered six months ago when it was discovered that Policeman D. Lowell Peterson, a witness, had talked to one of the jurors. Yesterday Policeman Peterson testified that McCarthy was intoxicated at the time of his arrest, at Ridge avenue near Cleveland place, on June 1. However, Policeman George Gunnerson, the other arresting officer, said there was "a reasonable doubt." Judge Porter censured City Attorney Crittenden C. Jarvis for improperly preparing his case.

EXPECT COLDER TOMORROW ON HEELS OF SNOW

Much colder weather tomorrow was predicted last night by Forecaster C. A. Donnel. He added that today either rain or snow may be expected.

Yesterday the first snow of the new year amounted to 1.9 inches. It was general throughout the state, but snowplows kept all roads open. Snow was also reported in North Dakota, southwestern Wisconsin, northeastern Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan, Washington, D. C., and New York.

The weather map showed that either rain or snow occurred over most of the country from the Pacific northwest to the southeastern seaboard. Only the southwest and some parts of the deep south escaped.

GETS $27,500 VERDICT AFTER VIADUCT CRASH

A $27,500 verdict against the city was awarded yesterday to Arthur O'Connell, 58 years old, manager of the Post and Paddock club at Arlington race track. The verdict was given by a jury in Judge John P. McGoorty's court. O'Connell had sued for $75,000 damages after he was injured on Sept. 28, 1936, when the car in which he was riding struck an abutment on the Clark street viaduct over the North Western railroad tracks north of the river.

His companion, Mrs. Grace McLaughlin, 37 years old, was killed. O'Connell's counsel, Thomas M. Morris, charged that the abutment was unprotected by lights or warning devices.

3,000 C. I. O. MEN STORM MEETING OF AUTO UNION

Martin Backers and Foes Jam Board Room.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Thousands of belligerent members of two factions of the United Automobile Workers of America today stormed the union's headquarters where the international executive board was meeting in an effort to settle the greatest internal war in the C. I. O. group's troublous history.

Arriving first were hundreds of supporters of Homer Martin, whose reign as president of the U. A. W. A. is threatened by the board. He recently was shorn of the editorship of the union newspaper and his power to suspend the officers of any local following his charges that the union is controled by communists.

Late in the afternoon hundreds of anti-Martin men arrived. It was estimated the two groups of demonstrators totaled 3,000.

Police Guard Building.

Detachments of police and deputies were on hand, apprehensive of a clash, but there was no disorder other than shouting and milling about.

Several hours after nightfall both groups left the building by different doors, walking out through lines of policemen.

Those protesting the restriction of Martin's powers poured into the headquarters building this morning, dismaying the members of the board who were meeting for the fourth day. Their force was augmented by many of the 2,000 employés of the small car plant of the Packard Motor company who left work for the demonstration, forcing the factory to close.

Ford Employés in Crowd.

Also in this group were members of the Plymouth local of the U. A. W. A., whose president was suspended Saturday night by Martin on the charge that the unit is communist controled. The board overruled Martin and reinstated the president. A number of Ford Motor company employés also were in the pro-Martin crowd.

Denied use of the elevators, hundreds of demonstrators walked up ten flights of stairs to the floor where the U. A. W. A. offices are located. They unhinged doors which had been locked in a futile effort to halt their advance.

The Martin supporters demanded an audience with the board, whose members remained behind locked doors. They finally gained entrance and jammed the board rooms, the halls, and adjoining stairways.

Take Over Elevators.

The anti-Martin men began arriving in the afternoon. They took over the elevators and forced their way into the throng of Martin men on the eleventh floor.

Martin, who had not attended today's board meeting because he said his foes had posted guards throughout the building, telephoned George F. Addes, international secretary-treasurer and an anti-Martin leader.

"You get your men out of the building and we'll get ours out," Martin told Addes.

The building eventually was evacuated under an agreement that a delegation of 18 Martin men would be permitted to appear before the board tomorrow, that each of the two factions could station one guard at the street entrance to the building and one on the eleventh floor, and that today's demonstration would not be repeated.

DRIVER STRICKEN AT WHEEL; DIES AS CARS CRASH

A motorist lost control of his car, apparently after being stricken with a heart attack, and was killed yesterday in a collision at Doty and Kensington avenues, near Lake Calumet.

The victim was Patrick Carey, 65 years old, 357 East 70th place. His wife, Katherine, 56 years old, and Otto H. Dahlman, 58, of 1528 East 76th place, driver of the other car, were injured.

John Proch, 30 years old, was fatally injured last night when his automobile was struck by a Soo Line passenger train at the Grand avenue crossing in Franklin Park. Proch, who lived at 3331 Edgington street, Franklin Park, died in the Westlake hospital.

Peter McKenna, 55 years old, 7551 South Paulina street, a mail man, died in the Peoples hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland and Archer avenues. The driver was Fred Schneider of 1941 Garfield boulevard.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday fifty-two persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these forty-one were killed in Chicago, where 751 were injured in the same period.

ROOSEVELT SAYS PRIVATE PLANTS TO BUILD PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today said that his 331 million dollar airplane expansion program can be carried out almost entirely with facilities now at the command of the aviation industry. Government plants will be expanded somewhat to build experimental planes, but all service planes are to be built in private plants.

The President's statement doomed a proposal, which had been advanced in some military quarters, for the erection of government airplane plants alongside private plants for the construction of army and navy planes.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference he believed that the planes can be manufactured in existing private plants although some of them may have to work two or three shifts.

New anti-aircraft weapons and armament for the planes will be turned for the most part, he said, in government plants, such as the naval gun factory at Washington and federal arsenals at Watervliet, N. Y., and Rock Island, Ill. Some weapons will be manufactured in private plants.

BEGIN $1,840,000 WESTERN AVENUE PROJECT MONDAY

New Canal Bridge to Top Street Improvement.

Work on a $1,840,000 improvement program for Western avenue from 31st to 35th streets will begin Monday, city engineers announced yesterday. The project, which includes construction of a new bridge over the drainage canal, revamping of the Marshall boulevard-Western avenue intersection, and a grade separation for Western avenue and Western boulevard, is expected to be completed in two years.

The drainage canal bridge will be the most expensive and most important item in the program, according to Arthur Engh, engineer for the board of local improvements. It will cost $750,000, be twice as wide as the present steel extension, and will aid in speeding up trafic. The roadway for motorists will be 60 feet wide. The one for street car tracks will be 46 feet wide.

Old Bridge to Be Razed.

The old bridge is to be dismantled as soon as a rerouting of street car tracks on a temporary bridge to the west is completed, Engh said. A Public Works administration grant of $778,000 and $1,062,000 from the city's share of motor tax fuel revenue will finance the entire project.

From Marshall boulevard to the 33d street grade crossing, the street car tracks along Western avenue will be shifted from their present position on the west side to the east side of the thoroughfare. Beneath the viaduct they will cross diagonally to the west side again and continue thus to the end of the line. The grade crossing will cost $700,000.

Safe Approach Sought.

"This shift is essential," Engh said, "to allow a safe and easy approach into Western boulevard from Marshall boulevard. If the tracks remained in their present position, motorists entering Western boulevard would be forced to make a sharply angled turn across the car tracks. This would make driving less safe and cause considerable loss of time."

To speed the work various sections of thoroughfare in the vicinity will be closed for the entire period of construction and heavy trafic rerouted to California avenue. Western boulevard, from 31st to 35th streets; California boulevard, from 27th to 31st street, and Marshall boulevard, from California boulevard to Western avenue are the sections to be closed.

U. S. Fleet Starts Through Canal on Way to Atlantic

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Bound for extensive maneuvers in the Atlantic and Caribbean, battle forces of the United States fleet started transit of the Panama canal early today from the Pacific ocean end. Mine sweepers formed an advance guard to clear away any possible obstacles to safe negotiation of the forty-seven mile canal route. Canal authorities are maintaining a twenty-four hour schedule to hasten transit of the fleet.

BROWN DEFENDS U. S. NEWSPAPERS AGAINST ROOSEVELT ATTACK

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—James Wright Brown, publisher of Editor & Publisher, today said it was a libel on newspapers of the country for any one "to try to create the impression that our newspapers are edited from the counting room."

The publisher, addressing the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, referred to President Roosevelt's recent article written for the sixtieth anniversary of the St. Louis [Mo.] Post-Dispatch.

"But I must be fair to Mr. Roosevelt," Brown commented. "At the recent annual members' dinner of the National Press club the President said: 'There is no finer, more sincere group in the world than the newspaper men of the United States.' But doesn't it hurt your pride to find the President embracing every opportunity apparently to emphasize the little imperfections of the press?"

BARS ADMISSION OF FORGERY PLOT AT MORAN TRIAL

Defense Cites Agreement Made with State.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Defense attorneys at the "Bugs" Moran $500,000 forgery trial yesterday blocked the efforts of the state to introduce a reputed confession of one of the three defendants. Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court ruled that the confession could not be recited to the jury because the defendants are not being tried separately.

Those on trial are George [Bugs] Moran, former north side gang chieftain; Frank Parker, once known as the airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, alias Ross. They are charged with conspiracy to forge and pass travelers checks of the American Express company.

Asked About Plot Statement.

While Harold Keyes, an investigator for the express company, was on the stand, Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright asked him the details of a conversation with Hicketts in the prosecutor's office last May 6.

Hicketts was reported to have made a statement at that time in which he admitted participation in the forgery scheme. Before Keyes could answer, however, Attorney Harold Levy, counsel for Moran, objected.

"At a preliminary hearing before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne," Levy said, "the state opposed our demands for severances in this trial and insisted on one trial for the three defendants. Judge Dunne granted the state's motion only on the condition that no confessions of individual defendants would be introduced, and Mr. Wright agreed to that."

Examines Record in Case.

Judge Fardy examined the record of the proceedings before Judge Dunne and then upheld Attorney Levy's objection.

Other prosecution witnesses yesterday were Charles J. White, general manager of the Chicago branch of the express company, and Charles C. Troyano of New York City, special agent for the company. They corroborated testimony of a previous witness, Attorney Emile Van Bever, who told of spying on the gangsters while they believed he was aiding them in the alleged plot.

At the close of the afternoon session of the trial five men were seized in the courtroom on suspicion that they were attempting to signal a juror and influence him. They were released after they convinced Prosecutor Wright that they were innocent.

BLASTS HOPKINS; PICTURES NERO AS BETTER AID CHIEF

Nero, the Roman emperor, was a better relief administrator than Harry L. Hopkins, former WPA chief, who is now secretary of commerce. This opinion was expressed last night by Charles W. Hadley, former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, before the 50th Ward Republican club at 2323 Devon avenue.

"Mr. Hopkins has confessed that under his régime people on relief were forced to vote for President Roosevelt's candidates," said Hadley. "Nero, brutal as he was, shied away from the threat of starvation as a means to make the people on relief support him.

"Nero would not have dared use such ruthlessness, for the Roman state was still a republic in name. There is a story that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, but there is no proof that he set it on fire. On the other hand, there is plenty of evidence that the policies of the present administration are destroying this country."

Nazis to Broadcast 'News' for Germans in the Balkans

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Jan. 13.—Graz is to have the largest and most powerful broadcasting station in south Germany so it may give Germans in southeastern Europe, outside of Germany, Nazi news and propaganda. It is estimated that there are about 1,000,000 Germans in those sections.

Faces Buckner Quiz

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Phyllis Brooks, motion picture actress, appearing to give deposition in Philippine railway bond investigation.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Phyllis Brooks, film actress, was "tickled pink to see how government officials operate off the screen" when she gave a deposition today in the William P. Buckner Jr. Philippine railway bond manipulation investigation.

"This is really thrilling," cried the actress. "Imagine talking to real government officials."

But she insisted she didn't know why she was summoned because "I never invested a penny in Mr. Buckner's enterprise, or whatever it was—in fact, I never even heard of him."

WPA FUND SLASH MAY COST 90,000 JOBS IN ILLINOIS

Ninety thousand Works Progress administration employés in Illinois may be discharged within the next six months if the cut in national WPA appropriations voted yesterday by the house of representatives in Washington becomes effective. This was indicated last night by Howard Hunter, regional director, and Charles Miner, state administrator.

Miner declared every effort would be made to reserve available funds for wages if the bill becomes law. Further orders for materials and agreements for equipment have been canceled with this in mind, he said. There are 236,537 persons on WPA in Illinois, 113,163 of them in Chicago.

Among the first to be dropped, officials indicated, would be aliens if an amendment voted by the house is approved in the senate. This provision would deprive any alien of the WPA employment. Hitherto aliens could get WPA jobs if they had applied for their first naturalization papers. Officials said no survey had ever been made to determine how many aliens are one the rolls in Illinois.

Flashlight Pranksters Flag Down I. C. Trains

Boy will-o'-the-wisps interfered with Illinois Central suburban service last night. They flagged electric trains with flashlights between 39th and 43d streets, vanishing when the trains slowed down or stopped. Police tried in vain to capture the pranksters.

WACKER'S WIFE DENIES CHARGES OF MISCONDUCT

Sleeping Alone at Time of Raid, She Testifies.

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julia C. Wacker, blushing a little, insisted from the witness stand in Supreme court today that she was sleeping alone last August when a raiding party broke into a cottage at West Point Pleasant, N. J., hoping to trap her in some misconduct with Wilson Eyre.

"I went to bed about 11:45 o'clock that night, leaving Mr. Eyre in the living room," she testified in answer to charges of her husband, Charles H. Wacker Jr., son of a Chicago financier and philanthropist, now dead.

Tells of Hearing Crash.

"I went to sleep right away, but some time later I was awakened by a sudden crash on the front porch," Mrs. Wacker continued. "I put on my negligee and slippers and went out to find several men in the sitting room. One of them said, 'Are you Mrs. Wacker?'"

She said she was, she testified, and then the men pointed to Eyre and asked, "Is this Mr. Wacker?"

She testified that she replied "no," adding, "This is Mr. Eyre; I'm expecting my daughter tomorrow."

Husband's Letter Read.

Mrs. Wacker complained that the raiders broke a screen door in entering. She denied Eyre kept his belongings at her 5th avenue apartment. She scoffed at suggestions that his bath robe was found there, and said a razor and other shaving materials were her own.

A letter from her husband, who brought the divorce action and now faces a counter charge of misconduct and demands for $500 a week alimony, was read in court. Wacker, whose income is $85,000 a year, purportedly wrote that he was sorry he had "slipped badly" several times, adding: "A year is too long for me to stay away from the bright lights. They must have gotten in my eyes."

COURT ORDERS 3 TO BRIDEWELL AS RELIEF CHEATERS

Three men charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were sentenced yesterday to serve thirty days each in the Bridewell. Each was also ordered by Judge Francis Borrelli to make restitution.

Those sentenced were: James Basil, 1411 Thome avenue, charged with receiving $526 although his wife, Anna, was employed; Clarence Henry, 10554 Aberdeen street, who received $232 while a son was working, and Albert Ojeda, 1105 South Peoria street, who received $113 although two of his sons had jobs.

ADMIRER, 31, HELD AS POLICE SEEK MISSING GIRL, 13

Police were searching last night for Annie Fiezel, 13 years old, 3751 Belden avenue, who has been missing since Wednesday afternoon when she left the Mozart school. She had an extra pair of shoes with her and $4, according to her school friends. Her father, George, a street car motorman, was unable to account for the money. The girl has brown eyes and light brown hair, is 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weighs about 140 pounds.

Annie Fiezel.

Detectives Harry Jacobsen and Harry Jensby yesterday arrested William Wenzlaff, 31, of 2342 North Avers avenue, who was said to have been seen frequently with Annie. He admitted knowing her, but denied knowledge of her whereabouts. He is being held for further questioning.

WINS DIVORCE FROM COUNTESS OF COTTENHAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The earl of Cottenham tonight was granted a divorce decree nisi on the grounds that his wife, Countess Sybil Venetia, committed adultery with his cousin, the earl of Devon.

The undefended suit arose when Cottenham returned from the United States last July to find his wife in love with Devon. In August, the suit charged, she visited Devon in the Brighton hotel.

Married in 1927, the earl and countess of Cottenham have two daughters, custody of whom was given to the father.

FRIDAY THE 13TH TAKES A LICKING FROM SCOFFERS

Dread Day Ends Without Fabled Ill Luck.

Ho, hum! Another Friday the 13th. And nothing much in the way of bad luck happened, though the superstitious folk were wary and the scoffers ran true to form by defying the fates of the day.

There was, for instance, the banquet of the Anti-Superstition society in the Blackstone hotel last night. Thirteen at a table, the members celebrated the bad luck day.

It Was 13th Meeting, Too.

They solemnly opened the program by turning thumbs down on horse shoes and giving a Bronx cheer. Gaily they smashed mirrors, walked under ladders, lighted three cigarets from one match, and pooh-poohed black cats.

Chairman Nathaniel Leverone said it was the society's 13th meeting and that none of the members had died, become ill, or had an accident since the last meeting.

The club will meet again on Oct. 13. That's also a Friday.

64 Couples Defy Fate.

Sixty-four couples ignored superstition and obtained marriage licenses.

Miss Julia Swarts of 5645 Woodlawn avenue was married in Marriage court to Carl Hench of 6612 Kenwood avenue. The bride, who is 22 years old, said she didn't mind if it were Friday the 13th. "Mind?" asked the bridegroom. "Why, it's pay day."

The Marriage court judge, Roman E. Posanski, also married Miss Ginger Abbott to William Moore.

Gets a $60,000 Inheritance.

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Albert L. Foster's Friday the 13th luck was good—to the tune of $60,000. Foster, 66 years old, faced loss of his job as a ferryboat worker when trains began running across the Bay bridge Sunday. Today, he said, he received a telegram from an attorney in Liverpool, England, saying that an aunt, Mrs. A. A. Saayres, had left him a $60,000 inheritance.

Jema Observes Birthday.

Centerville, Ia., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Iowa's No. 1 superstition buster is Jema Cockrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Buckingham of Centerville. Jema celebrated her 13th birthday today, on Friday the 13th. She walked under a ladder, spilled salt, played with a coal black cat, and smashed a mirror with a hammer. Then she offered to tempt any other superstition that any one might suggest.

The 13th Club Celebrates.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—This being Friday the 13th, members of the Thirteenth club began a thirteen-course luncheon at 12:13 after walking under ladders to their places. Cigarets were lighted three on a match, those who had thirteen letters in their name bragged, and then all smashed a big mirror. Funny—nothing else happened.

13th Baby Is Born.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Annie Lamb of Stoneham bore her thirteenth child today, Friday the 13th. It's a girl.

HAL KEMP, ORCHESTRA LEADER, DEFIES FRIDAY 13TH AND TAKES BRIDE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Defying the Friday the 13th jinx, Bandleader Hal Kemp skipped out between shows today and married Martha Stephenson, 19 years old, a New York debutante.

Kemp, who is 34 years old, and Miss Stephenson were married as the church organist played the classic "Liebestraum" because he thought "such a nice couple ought to have music." The band leader then hurried back to the theater.

Members of Kemp's stage show, including two midgets and Songbird Judy Starr, still in her stage makeup, sat near the altar as the couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Harry J. Bray of the Second Presbyterian church.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Paul Forester of New York, who once was said to have objected to the marriage, looked on from the front row. Kemp almost forgot to kiss the bride until prodded by photographers. Then he kissed her twice. So did Dr. Bray.

LOYALIST TROOPS QUIT EBRO ZONE TO ESCAPE TRAP

Tortosa Falls; Rebels Push Closer to Sea.

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight announced evacuation of the lower Ebro river area to a line at Hospitalet on the Mediterranean. The action was taken to prevent advancing insurgents from isolating troops and civilians.

Simultaneously there were reports that the government had launched an offensive near Brunete, fifteen miles west of Madrid, in an effort to counteract the insurgents' eastward sweep in northeastern Spain.

Hospitalet is twenty-four miles north of Tortosa, whose capture was announced this morning, and at a point more than half way from Tortosa to the important port of Tarragona, which is fifty miles southwest of Barcelona.

Was Loyalist Strong Point.

During the present insurgent offensive in northeastern Spain, which began Dec. 23, the Tortosa region was protected by a defense system of which the Ebro river was an important factor. The town and its surrounding area became untenable, however, with the rebel troops threatening to drive to Tarragona from captured Falset and Montblanch. This maneuver would cut off Tortosa from the rest of Catalonia.

[Insurgent dispatches said the Moroccan cavalry, which took Tortosa, swept on beyond Perello to a point seventeen miles north of Tortosa and closed in on the mountain hamlet of Mas de Camagrosa. Meanwhile motorized rebel infantrymen rolled up the coast road to Perello, a town of 5,000.]

Rebels Push Forward.

A loyalist communique admitted that the insurgent line north of Montblanch had been pushed farther toward the coast today. It added, however, that insurgent attacks north of this area were repulsed.

[Insurgent dispatches reaching Perpignan, France, said rebel troops had smashed through the last line of fortifications defending the important walled industrial town of Valls, southeast of Montblanch and twelve miles north of Tarragona.]

Barcelona stores, factories and even government buildings had fewer occupants than ever as men and boys raced to complete the last formalities of joining the army. The government has ordered men between 39 and 45 years old to go to the front.

Some Wear Civilian Clothes.

Women bought socks and shirts for their menfolk and rushed with them to mobilization centers. Some women, taken unaware by the fevered rush of the insurgent offensive against northeastern Spain, reached their sons and husbands just as they marched out of the city. They tagged along with the lines as far as they could, saying good-by.

The men were dressed in whatever uniforms they could lay hands on. Some wore civilian jackets. Others had rope-soled walking shoes. They marched out of Barcelona without any band music. The insurgents had left them no time to get musicians together.

Attack West of Madrid.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Spanish government's central army under Gen. José Miaja opened an attack in the long dormant area west of Madrid today in an effort to halt the swiftly moving insurgent drive on Barcelona.

The action, begun despite severe cold, was in the plains south of Escorial in the Brunete region, fifteen miles west of Madrid. It seemed to be directed southward toward Navalcarnero.

The government is convinced that the insurgents have put everything into the Catalonian drive. Gen. Miaja, by his drive in the Brunete sector, combined with his still active offensive in the Penarroya mining district in southwestern Spain, hoped to force Gen. Francisco Franco to withdraw troops from Catalonia.

Government dispatches asserted that Gen. Miaja had been successful in this aim, and that insurgent troops and guns both had been rushed to the central front lines.

Rebels Win Ebro Area

(Story in adjoining column.)

Pressure by Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel troops yesterday forced the Spanish loyalists to give up Tortosa (1) and a large area (in black) along the lower Ebro river in northeastern Spain. Government troops were ordered back to a line ending at Hospitalet on the Mediterranean sea (2) to avoid isolation through a threatened insurgent thrust toward Tarragona. The rebels reported advances north of Montblanch (3), but loyalists said rebel attacks farther north (4) were repulsed. The dotted line on the map represents the rebels' position when their current drive began Dec. 23. The solid line is that of yesterday.

GIRL, 12, HIDES OUT BECAUSE OF SOILED DRESS

Search for Dorothy Troike, 12 years old, 3951 Sheridan road, who disappeared after school hours yesterday ended early today when Hudson avenue police found her standing folornly at Clark and Division streets. Her father, Roland Troike, had reported her missing. Dorothy explained she had soiled her dress and was afraid to return home. In reporting her disappearance Troike told police he feared that his former wife, the mother of the girl, might have taken Dorothy with her. The mother is Mrs. David Devine of Los Angeles.

ITALIAN TROOPS MASS AT FRENCH BORDER IN AFRICA

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 13.—(AP)—French advices from the border today reported strong concentrations of Italian troops in Italian Ethiopia near the frontiers of French and British Somaliland. Similar reports were denied last month. Today's dispatches gave specific locations at the junction of the borders of Ethiopia and the British and French colonies, and at Sardo, farther north, opposite the heart of French Somaliland. Senegalese sharpshooters sent here by France recently to reënforce the Somaliland garrison were moved toward the Ethiopian border last night.

U. S. Agents Arrest Four Men at Still in Garage

Four men were seized last night by federal tax division agents at an alleged still in a garage in the rear of 2939 Warren boulevard. They were Anthony Pelligrino, 24 years old, 37 South Kedzie avenue; Sam Beck, 24, of 3137 Madison street; Charles Deno, 34, of 519 North Central Park avenue, and Louis Lano, 25, of 4649 Lexington street. They were taken to the detective bureau for the night. The raid was led by Brice Armstrong, well known as a prohibition raider in Chicago during the dry era.

MAX SCHMELING AND WIFE HELD BY NAZI POLICE

Goebbels Seeks Revenge for Fighter's Threat.

[Copyright: 1939: By New York News Syndicate, Inc.]

PARIS, Jan. 13.—Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Anny Ondra, his wife, who is a motion picture actress, were under technical arrest tonight in their Berlin flat. They were guarded by Nazi secret police agents. This was learned here by friends.

The arrest of the couple followed lengthy questioning of them earlier this week by the secret police as a result of Schmeling's remarks concerning the love affairs of Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister. Goebbels, angered at Schmeling's criticism, had asked the arrest of the couple, but this had been prevented at first by Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Nazi police.

[A dispatch from Paris Thursday night said Reichsfuehrer Hitler had prevented the arrest of Schmeling and his wife. This later was said to be incorrect.]

Goebbels Intent on Revenge.

Tonight's development indicated that Goebbels still was determined on revenge. Information was that the fate of the Schmelings would be decided at a conference Monday between Himmler and other secret police officials, and propaganda ministry leaders.

The Schmeling incident was a sequel to the beating Goebbels received recently for his attentions to Lida Baarova, German film actress and wife of Gustav Froelich, also a movie star. Friends of Froelich surprised Goebbels in Miss Baarova's home and beat him severely.

Threatens Dr. Goebbels.

Schmeling, whose wife has been a frequent guest at Goebbels' home and who is a friend of Miss Baarova, aired his sentiments about the affair publicly last Saturday in a Berlin restaurant.

Said the husky Schmeling: "It's a lucky thing for Dr. Goebbels that he never tried to play with Anny, because I would have broken his neck."

DON'T TELL, BUT MRS. BEARCAT HAD A VISITOR

Mrs. Bearcat tried to keep it a secret, but every one at the Brookfield zoo knew about it yesterday when the stork stopped by with two baby bearcats.

Mrs. Bearcat, you see, always pretends nothing has happened at all when the babies come. She went about her household work yesterday as if she were all alone. In five weeks, she'll have taught the youngsters what every bearcat has to learn—how to keep their noses out of other people's business. Then she'll pick them up by the scruff of their necks from their straw nest, lick them clean, and put them out on display as if they'd just arrived that moment.

Bearcats, or binturongs if you want to be formal about it, look like little kittens when they're born, except that they have great bushy tails which are quite as long as the babies.

Teachers' College Senior Queen Crowned at Prom

Miss Mary Therese McElherne, 21 years old, 8033 South Green street, was crowned last night as queen of the 1939 graduating class of the Chicago Teachers' college. The coronation took place at the class prom held in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. Miss Marian Clifford, 418 North Leamington avenue, president of the graduating class, placed the crown on the queen's head.

NAZIS' ENEMIES IN HAVANA STONE GERMAN CADETS

Pelt Visitors Honoring Cuban Hero.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba., Jan. 13.—Hans Fritshoffen, a midshipman on the German naval training ship Schlesien, was severely bruised and cut on the face this morning when struck by a stone thrown at him by Maurice Vinet, Cuban anti-Fascist leader.

The stone was hurled in Central park when visiting German naval cadets were placing a wreath on the monument to José Marti, Cuban revolutionary hero.

Hurl Spoiled Oranges.

Four hundred persons witnessed the ceremony, and it had hardly begun when there were shouts of "Down with Nazism and Fascism! and "Down with Hitler and Germany!"

A shower of spoiled oranges, potatoes, banana peels, and stones followed. Several other midshipmen were hit.

Domingo Ramos, secretary of defense; Dr. Hans von Voelckers, German minister to Cuba; Commander Lindanau of the Schlesien, and thirty-one other officers and officials narrowly escaped being hit by the missils.

Offers Formal Apology.

Vinet and about twenty other agitators, members of the Cuban Anti-Fascist league, were arrested and jailed pending an investigation. Secretary of State Juan J. Remos tonight offered a formal apology to Commander Lindanau and to Commander Friederik Klinger of the Rudolf Albrecht, supply ship accompanying the Schlesien on a training cruise.

Vinet told authorities he had acted in protest against what he believes are Nazi plans for world domination.

The vessels, with 654 midshipmen aboard, arrived here yesterday for a six day courtesy visit. Shore permits after 5 p. m. were canceled as a result of todays' incident.

NAZIS AND U. S. AGREE ON BASIS IN JEWISH ISSUE

German Officials to Take Up Individual Cases.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Germany and the United States, though completely at odds on Germany's right to discriminate against American Jews in Germany, appeared today to have reached a practical solution of a controversy that has added tension to the disturbed relations between them.

An exchange of notes between the two governments, released this afternoon by the state department, disclosed:

1. The United States again declined to recognize Germany's right to apply to American Jews in Germany treatment not applied to other American citizens.

2. Germany declared there was nothing in international law to prevent her from doing so.

Agrees on Treaty Rights.

3. Germany, however, agreed to respect rights to which American citizens are entitled by virtue of treaties between the two governments.

4. The United States expressed itself as gratified at this and agreed to submit to the German foreign office, for its examination, cases of alleged discrimination against American Jews. Hitherto such cases were taken up with local authorities.

5. The German foreign office says that if such cases should be brought to its attention by the American embassy, the German government for its part is prepared to examine and settle them on the basis of prevailing treaty provisions.

Await German Action.

The American chargé d'affaires, Prentiss B. Gilbert, who presented the American note to the Wilhelmstrasse, likewise submitted a number of cases of reported discrimination.

American officials will now await Germany's decision on the specific cases as a test of her intentions with regard to American Jews.

Officials, on the basis of the two notes, believed tonight that Germany would settle the cases of American Jews who suffered damage or injury in recent outbreaks.

There was some difference of opinion, however, as to the interpretation Germany might place on the treaty rights mentioned in the note.

Two Courses Possible.

Germany might apply them strictly so as to include American Jews with American citizens in general. Or Germany might argue that the existing treaties, particularly that of 1923, bound her to apply to them only the same treatment she applies to her own Jews or the Jews of other nationalities.

According to state department figures, there were 6,524 American citizens registered in Germany and Austria in 1937 but consular officials believed that many of these since have left. Current consular figures show 1,073 Americans registered in the Berlin area.

SIAM'S BOY KING OFF FOR EUROPE TO RESUME STUDY

BANGKOK, Siam, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Solemn religious rites and a colorful troop parade marked the departure today of boy King Ananda for Europe after his first visit here as monarch. A crowd of 300,000 lined the route of the procession from the palace to the royal landing to shout farewells to their 13 year old ruler. He left on a government cruiser.

LOYALISTS PLAN TO MOVE CAPITAL FROM BARCELONA

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The transfer of Spanish government offices from Barcelona to Valencia has been decided on, said advices reaching Perpignan, France, today from Barcelona.

This move was held to show the determination of the loyalists to resist to the last regardless of the progress of the rebel offensive in Catalonia. It was understood that Premier Juan Negrin and Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo will remain in Barcelona, but that all other members of the cabinet will move to Valencia.

FRANCE CHEERS AS BRITISH TALKS WITH DUCE FAIL

Paris Predicts New Crisis Will Arise Soon.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The results of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's talks with Premier Mussolini in Rome are completely negative so far as the goal of European appeasement is concerned. This was the verdict pronounced not without satisfaction tonight by French observers on the basis of reports of the encounters between the British and Italian statesmen.

The satisfaction with which this judgment is rendered by the French is due to the belief that the failure of the two men to reach an agreement was due to the British visitor's refusal to accept the rôle of mediator between Italy and France, which Mussolini pressed him to accept. Il Duce wanted Chamberlain to exert pressure on France to submit to Italian territorial demands in Tunisia and other French possessions.

See War as Still Possible.

The French have not nourished many illusions about the possibility that Mussolini would be brought around to a "reasonable" frame of mind as a result of his conference with Chamberlain. They are still somewhat nervous—remembering Chamberlain's last minute concessions to Reichsfuehrer Hitler over Sudetenland—lest in his anxiety to make a success of his trip he will make similar concession to Il Duce during the informal contacts they are expected to have before tomorrow noon, when Chamberlain is scheduled to leave for home.

The relief felt here over the conviction that the British prime minister has so far been loyal to the Anglo-French entente does not mean that the French are optimistic about the future of their relations with Italy. On the contrary, the conviction that Mussolini will not abandon the game he is playing and that Hitler soon will ask to be dealt into the game as his partner is so strong that some sections of the press have begun openly assessing the possibilities of war in the near future.

Agree to Pursue Peace.

ROME, Jan. 13.—(AP)—An Italian statement issued tonight said the conversations yesterday and Wednesday between Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini had reaffirmed their intention "to develop relations existing between the two countries in the spirit of friendship" of the British-Italian accord signed last Easter.

The British delegation was understood to have approved the Italian announcement, which asserted that "major questions of the moment and relations between the two empires" were examined in the conversations, which were "marked by the greatest cordiality" and which "led to frank and full exchange of ideas."

It also was agreed the statement said, "to conclude at the earliest moment possible special accords contemplated by this agreement." The special accords will deal with the demarcation of the frontiers between Italian East Africa and British Kenya, Somaliland, and Sudan.

Ciano and Halifax Clash.

Official quarters were pleased with the cordiality of the discussions between Il Duce and the British prime minister, but other reliable sources said Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, was less diplomatic in his treatment of Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary.

These circles said Ciano was stronger in his language than ordinary diplomatic conversation would require. Lord Halifax, as a result, was reported to have warned the Italian twice that he would end the talks unless he [Ciano] moderated his tone.

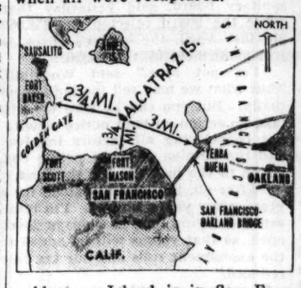
Another feature of the British-Italian talks was the disclosure that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had advised Mussolini, his partner in the Rome-Berlin axis, to avoid war during 1939 in seeking to achieve Italy's "natural aspirations" for colonies. Hitler's views were said to have been conveyed to Il Duce by the German ambassador to Rome.

Chamberlain today paid a visit to the vatican, canvassing hopes for peace and the thorny problem of central European refugees with Pope Pius XI. The prime minister and Lord Halifax went into the private audience chamber accompanied by Francis D'Arcy Osborne, British minister to the holy see. The pope spoke in English and French during most of the audience.

Slain on Alcatraz

(Story in adjoining column.)

Arthur (Doc) Barker, notorious gangster, who was fatally wounded when he and four other convicts attempted to escape from Alcatraz Island yesterday. The men had cut their way through steel bars of their cells and were at the water's edge when all were recaptured.



Alcatraz Island is in San Francisco bay. A heavy fog ringed the island when the convicts attempted to escape. They would have had to make their way to the mainland over rough water. Distances to land are indicated.

REVISED PLAN FOR JEWS ACCEPTED BY DR. SCHACHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Negotiations between Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, and George Rublee of the United States, executive director of the international refugee office, regarding Jewish emigration, took a new turn today. Dr. Schacht accepted a revised version of his plan said to have been inspired by interested British parties.

Dr. Karl Blessing, a Reichsbank director and Dr. Schacht's right hand man, reported to Reichsfuehrer Hitler today on the status of the negotiations.

Representatives of the German ministries of finance, economics and interior will meet tomorrow to discuss further the revised plan, which will provide for "speedier emigration of Jewish workers of both sexes while their older family members and children will remain in Germany under a guarantee that they will not be molested while waiting to emigrate."

[Dr. Schacht proposed while in London last year a plan to make the emigration of Jews from Germany contingent on the sale of Nazi goods abroad.]

KIDNAPER BARKER FATALLY SHOT IN ALCATRAZ BREAK

Guards' Guns Stop Five in Bold Escape Dash.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Arthur [Doc] Barker, last of the Barkers in the Barker-Karpis gang of Chicago, died at Alcatraz Island penitentiary tonight of bullet wounds.

He was shot by guards when he and four other convicts made a desperate attempt to flee from the "escape proof" federal prison this morning. Another lifer also was shot and all were quickly recaptured.

Barker's mother, Mrs. Kate [Ma] Barker, said to have been the brains of the kidnaping and bank robbing gang, and his brother, Fred, were shot to death in a battle with federal agents at their Oklawaia, Fla., hideout in 1935. Ma Barker died with an empty machine gun in her hands.

Two other Barker brothers were outlaws, but were disposed of before the formation of the Barker-Karpis gang. Herman was killed in a battle with officers near Wichita, Kas. Lloyd is now serving a twenty-five year term in Leavenworth prison.

Others in Gang Left Behind.

The Alcatraz system of separating former associates apparently made it impossible for Doc to take with him in today's break two other members of his old gang who are held at "the rock." They are Alvin Karpis, once the nation's No. 1 badman, and his lieutenant, Harry Campbell. All three were sentenced to life for kidnaping.

Following frustration of the escape attempt, all inmates of Alcatraz were locked in their cells while authorities investigated. All normal activities in the prison were suspended pending the inquiry.

By some mysterious means the five criminals obtained saws which they used to cut the steel bars of their cells. Then they fled from the cell building and descended steep slopes to the shore of the rocky, fog shrouded island.

A guard found the cells empty at 4 a. m. Sirens quickly gave the alarm. Calls were sent to the coast guard and the San Francisco police department. A police boat rushed to the scene and joined the prison launch in circling the island.

Fugitives Sighted in Fog.

Armed prison guards spread out over the island and finally sighted the five men dimly outlined in the thickest San Francisco bay fog in years.

The convicts had stripped off their clothing, and two already were in the water. The incoming tide was on the verge of turning, which would have aided attempts to swim the more than a mile to the mainland.

When the fleeing prisoners refused to halt at commands, the guards opened fire. After Barker and the other prisoner were wounded, the others surrendered.

The convicts who participated in the break were Barker, who was serving a life term for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul, Minn., banker; Dale Stamphill, the other man shot, serving life for kidnaping; Rufus McCain, under a ninety-nine year sentence for kidnaping; Henry Young, serving twenty years for bank robbery, and William Martin, colored, serving twenty-five years for the armed robbery of a Chicago postoffice.

Next Home Furnishing Show to Be Held June 5 to 17

The next meeting of the National Home Furnishings exposition will be held in the American Furniture Mart June 5 to 17. These dates were set last night by the Mart's board of governors. Heretofore the midsummer show had been held in July. The board canceled the customary one week show scheduled for May because it would be too close to the new June date.

1,000 JEWS TO BE SENT INTO EXILE BY DANZIG NAZIS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

DANZIG, Jan. 13.—One thousand Jews will be taken in sealed trains from Danzig to Genoa, Italy, from where they will sail on a Greek ship for an unrevealed destination. This mass deportation will begin on Jan. 27. The Jews will be sent across the frontier to East Prussia and put in guarded German trains which will take them to Italy.

"We do not know where we will go," one Jew said.

"No permit has been received yet. We have heard we will land in Shanghai."

The deportees will leave Danzig penniless. The Nazis have taken over the property of the Jewish religious community, for which they paid 1,000,000 guilders. This, they explained, covered the expenses of transport to Genoa and chartering the ship.

RADIO IN CANADA

By CALEB

IT IS interesting to learn, from a recent writer in a current trade journal, that "Radio relations between the two great North American nations are perhaps friendlier than between any other pair of neighboring countries in the world."

Yet most American inquirers into the Canadian radio situation will be surprised to discover radio procedure in the Dominion different from all others, in that it is a combination of the British system of chartered monopoly and licensed sets, with the American system of privately owned stations and unlicensed sets.

The reason? Until 1931, Canada had exclusively used the British system. In England, with its short distances and at present only nine million radio sets, the Government-ownership method worked well, providing ample revenue at a $2.50 annual license to finance the few stations required to cover the British Isles. Canada's enormous distances and station needs, however, could not be met by an exclusive license system; hence the Dominion government bought only eight stations and sustaining program time on privately owned stations . . . creating, actually, government sponsorship!

Today, the Dominion government owns six stations, two are owned by the Province of Manitoba, thirty-four others comprise the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network, and thirty-two more are privately owned; making a total of seventy-four. Individual stations are allowed to import American network features, and nine out of ten commercial programs are sponsored by American brand-name products. Somewhere around a million and a quarter Canadian sets tune in on stations "rich in talent and ideas, but short on big names"—but that condition is satisfactorily remedied by American importations . . .

Thus, identical language, similar social and industrial interests, community of ideas, and basically interdependent business operations, join with the tradition of "separate countries continuously united in peace," to make Canadian and American radio activities allies of immeasurable beneficence to both nations.

TAX COLLECTIONS IMPROVE; 81 PCT. OF '37 BILLS PAID

Total Delinquencies Cut 19 Million Dollars.

The uptrend of real estate tax collections in Cook county showed a marked improvement in 1938, the citizens' committee on tax collections reported yesterday. More than 81 per cent of the 1937 levy, which was billed last year, was collected in addition to nearly 40 million dollars of delinquent taxes.

George O. Fairweather, director of the committee, said a study of tax income showed that a total of $155,019,732 of real estate taxes came in during 1938. This was 10 per cent more than the $140,849,570 [1937 levy] billed in 1938.

Of the 1938 tax receipts $115,362,019 was 1937 taxes. The balance of $39,657,713 was for the years from 1928 to 1936.

Delinquency Cut $19,000,000.

The actual inroad into the big delinquency accumulated since 1928 was nearly 19 million dollars after adding the unpaid 1937 taxes to the total. At the end of 1938, unpaid real estate taxes for the ten years from 1928 to 1937 totaled $145,617,820. At the close of 1937, there was $164,250,452 uncollected on levies for only nine years [1928 to 1936].

The delinquency at the close of 1938 represented 9.17 per cent of the total $1,586,594,959 real estate tax bill for ten years. The delinquency at the end of 1937 was 11.36 per cent of the $1,445,745,388 billed for the previous nine years.

"The community for several years has been paying more real estate taxes each year than were levied during the year," Fairweather said. "The community has vitality and is slowly digging its way out of the accumulated delinquency."

Cream All Skimmed Off.

He said the record of 1938 collections indicates that the cream is largely off the unpaid taxes for the earlier years, particularly 1928 to 1930. A large part of the taxes still on the books for those years cannot be collected in full and will have to be compromised if the properties are to be placed back on the current tax rolls, he continued.

The only adjustment which appears possible, he added, is through foreclosure sales in which the county would accept the best fair bid for the forfeited properties in order to salvage something from the back taxes.

Fairweather's committee is working with county taxing officials in an effort to work out effective administrative measures and new legislation to clear up delinquencies.

PURSE SNATCHER SENTENCED.

Paul Elif, 1920 School street, a WPA worker, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman for snatching a woman's purse.

CITY'S VIOLENT DEATHS DECLINE SHARPLY IN 1938

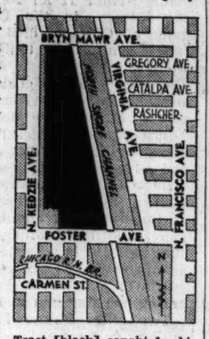
Life in Chicago was much less hazardous in 1938 than it was in 1937, according to the annual report of Coroner Frank J. Walsh, made public yesterday. The sharpest decline was in the automobile accident death toll, which dropped from 1,117 in 1937 to 899 last year. Drownings dropped from eighty-one to sixty-six. Homicides declined from 322 to 274. In 1937 there were 104 deaths in railroad accidents, and in 1938 there were only 76. Falls killed 748 in 1937, but only 589 in 1938.

Fatalities in industrial plants were reduced from 145 to 123. Deaths from alcoholism declined from eleven to three. Asphyxiation deaths dropped from forty-three to thirty-two. There were no deaths from rabies, compared with two in 1937. No one was fatally gored by a bull last year, but one man was in 1937. However, three persons died from the kicks of horses in both 1937 and 1938.

ASSAIL PROPOSED SALE OF SANITARY DISTRICT TRACT

City Club Charges Price Offered Is Too Low.

The proposed sale by the sanitary district of 33 acres of north side property to a housing development corporation was attacked yesterday by the City club, through its committee on city planning. The report of the committee charged that the price offered for the land, $1,710 an acre, is too low, and that the land is needed for public use as a park area or for highway construction.



Tract [black] sought for big private housing project.

The land in question is on the west bank of the north shore channel, extending from Foster to Bryn Mawr avenue. Last April, after the district had advertised for bids on several thousands of acres of unused land, a syndicate headed by William E. Kitzeman, real estate man, offered $56,000 for the tract. The syndicate has plans for a $5,000,000 housing development.

Bid Rejected Last April.

Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary board, said yesterday that while the board rejected the $56,000 bid last April, the bidder's check is still being held by the board.

"I'm not sure," said Woodhull, "but what we may sell the land eventually. But you can be sure we will take no action without notice or without considering all factors involved and the opinion of other public bodies as to the best use for the land.

"After all, the land has stood for a great many years, unused. I'm interested in seeing land in Chicago developed, so that values will be added to the assessment rolls and our tax rate reduced."

The tract on which the Kitzeman syndicate bid is one of the largest pieces of vacant property in the city adjacent to transportation facilities. It has street car or bus service on Kedzie and Foster avenues, its west and south boundaries, and is a little more than half a mile north of the Ravenswood "L" line.

Large Tract Sold in 1925.

The last large acquisition of land in the general neighborhood was the purchase in 1925 of a tract east of the channel by William H. Britigan, who subdivided the land as Budlong Woods. Britigan paid $11,000 an acre, it was reported at the time.

Other prices in the vicinity were quoted in the City club report, which stated the conclusion:

"The four cents a square foot which it is proposed to pay—about $1,710 an acre—seems inadequate."

The City club report also contended that well populated areas in the neighborhood of the sanitary district property lack proper park areas, and that the land should be kept in public ownership until its value for park purposes is fully determined. Use of the land as a right of way for extension southward of the present north shore channel road is also suggested.

MASTERS IN CHANCERY HELD EXEMPT FROM INCOME TAX ON FEES

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals held yesterday that fees received by masters in chancery in state courts are immune from federal taxation. The ruling was believed to be the first made by a federal appeals court on this point.

It came in the case of Charles C. Stilwell, master in chancery of the Superior court since 1911. The internal revenue department appealed from a finding of the United States board of tax appeals that Stilwell should not pay an income tax of $680 on $15,886 in fees he received in 1934. This was considered a test case by the forty-five masters in Cook county.

In the majority opinion, Judges J. Earl Major and Walter C. Lindley ruled that a master is an integral part of the state judiciary and as such becomes exempt from federal taxation like any other state employé. Judge Evan A. Evans dissented on the ground that a master is not paid by the state but receives compensation in fees from litigants.

When a Gift Selection is Difficult—it is ALWAYS SAFE TO Say it with Flowers

Flowers are an "all-weather" gift. On any occasion they express perfectly the sentiment you wish to convey. For example, you would like to express thanks to your hostess. A bouquet says just that and no more. Perhaps you go to the "big Boss'" house for dinner. A gift of flowers in appreciation will be impressive, yet because flowers have no price tag, you cannot be considered extravagant. On birthdays, anniversaries, for convalescents, in fact for any occasion, flowers are always in good taste, always expressive and always pleasing. Rely on your florist when a gift selection is difficult.

Your Florist Suggests

BOX SPRING CUT FLOWERS—The early spring blooms await you at your florist: Iris, Jonquils, Snapdragons, Calendula, Carnation, Stevia. All freshly cut and brilliantly beautiful. They are "breath-taking" gifts for any occasion.

BOX OF ROSES—A coveted gift and always in good taste. Your florist has them in all colors, fresh from the greenhouses of Chicago growers. Take home a box to your wife or send them to your hostess. Roses to a sick friend speed recovery.

HYACINTHS IN BLOOM—These charming little plants, decorated with brilliant paper and ribbon are one of today's smartest buys. Your florist has them in a variety of colors, each plant with three or four large, full flowers. They will bloom for weeks. An unusually attractive gift.

STUDY MOTIVES IN HATE KILLING OF DR. MORDOFF

Confessed Slayer Tells of Differences.

Police yesterday sought an answer to the killing of Dr. Gordon E. Mordoff in the hate crazed mind of his confessed slayer. Dr. Mordoff was shot to death Thursday by his brother-in-law, John Philip Quinn, on the second floor at 1167 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, where the physician had offices.

John P. Quinn.

Hate was the explanation of Quinn as he repeated his confession to police and prosecutors yesterday. To this he added a story of self-defense. But he also related he went to Wilmette three weeks ago and lost his nerve and that he had been drinking heavily for several days prior to the slaying to bolster his courage.

Reiterates Story of Hate.

Again and again as he told his story he mentioned an innate dislike for the physician. Quinn, an ex-convict, 63 years old, was seized in his home at 8836 Euclid avenue several hours after the slaying. He has served prison terms for assault to murder, for shooting a woman, and for larceny.

Questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis and Edwin A. Robson, Wilmette village prosecutor, Quinn charged that Dr. Mordoff had mistreated his wife, Quinn's sister, who died in 1936. That alone, he said, did not inspire the killing. There was a note. Quinn owed Dr. Mordoff $75. The doctor demanded payment a few days ago. It was in connection with the note, Quinn related, that he called upon Mordoff Thursday.

"I felt there should be some adjustment," said Quinn, "since I had given Madge, my sister, so much money after her separation from Mordoff. I had paid him $10. I didn't like the doctor. There were all kinds of motives."

Claims Self-Defense.

Quinn said he went to Wilmette the night before the killing. He fired at Dr. Mordoff, he confessed, as the latter reached toward a drawer. Police later found a gun in Mordoff's desk.

The inquest into Dr. Mordoff's death was continued yesterday to Monday by Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein. Dr. Mordoff was a central figure in the Sonny Boy paternity case in 1936. This concerned the custody of a boy, then 3 years old. Dr. Mordoff said the child was his. Miss Margaret Mann asserted the boy was hers and had been placed with the doctor's wife who, she said, tried to claim the youngster as her own. The boy was awarded to Miss Mann, now Mrs. Alfred Fletcher.

DOG BLUEBLOODS IN N. Y. TO HAVE CURBLESS PARK

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A playground for aristocratic dogs will be opened in the fashionable Sutton place neighborhood.

Herbert A. Schechter, an attorney, said today that residents will form an organization to solve the dog curbing problem and to keep their pets off the streets.

"The site selected," Schechter said, "commands a majestic view of the East river and the proposed East river drive. This playground will be the only one of its kind and will be unique because the élite of dogdom will be represented."

"LOTTERY KING" JURY DEADLOCKS AND IS LOCKED UP

A jury in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan found itself deadlocked last night in trying to reach a verdict in the case of Abraham F. Zimmerman, former newsboy now known as the lottery king. He is charged with evading income taxes of $62,250 for the years 1929, 1930, and 1931.

Abraham F. Zimmerman.

The jury was locked up at midnight. Deliberations will be resumed today. The indictment against Zimmerman contains three counts, each providing a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Zimmerman has been on trial five weeks. The government charged that he operated a national lottery, and that the business earned $499,000, which he failed to report, during the three years mentioned. Zimmerman's lawyers asserted that the prosecution's case was outlawed by the statute of limitations.

SENTENCE YOUNG ROBBER; FACES 5 OTHER CHARGES

Earl Isakson, 23 years old, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the Bridewell by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the Boys' court. He was convicted on two charges of larceny. He was also held in bonds of $15,000 for grand jury action on four charges of burglary and one of robbery. Isakson lives at 4018 Bernard avenue.

Three companions, arrested with Isakson a week ago, were found guilty of larceny and placed on probation. They are Leroy Nolan, 19, of 3347 Pensacola avenue; Elmer Binder, 21, of 3713 North Hamlin avenue, and John Ashfield, 19, of 3910 Byron street. Two others, Raymond Ryerson, 3716 Cullom avenue, and Lloyd Nolan, Leroy's twin brother, were released. Isakson had named all of them as confederates, but later admitted Ryerson and Lloyd Nolan had no part in the robberies.

GREEN PROMISES TO PUT CITY ON BUSINESS BASIS

Pledge to Taxpayers: No Trick Audits.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Simple public audits, understandable to every one, will be provided regularly if Dwight H. Green is elected mayor. The candidate for the Republican nomination made this promise last night.

"There will be no trick audits," said Green, former United States district attorney. "It will not take an expert to figure out what they are about. Nothing will be covered up.

"Every taxpayer will be kept informed as to exactly how much income Chicago has and how every cent of this tax money is spent. These public accountings of the people's money will be so simple that Mr. Average Citizen can easily understand them."

Jailed Gang Leaders.

Green successfully prosecuted Al Capone and other notorious gangsters for income tax evasion. Those trials involved a study of accounting methods.

"Under this new system of having periodical, honest, clearly stated audits, waste and extravagance will be stopped in short order," Green said.

"There will be no such thing as a public official misspending or misappropriating public funds and then going unpunished. The accountings will be made so public, so businesslike, and so understandable that such corruptness will be impossible."

Plans to Repeat Pledge.

Mr. Green spoke in the 41st ward, at 4900 Milwaukee avenue. He planned to pass these assurances on to a larger audience than can attend his ward meetings by repeating them in his Monday night broadcasts each week.

City government, based on business principles, should be clearly a partnership of all the taxpayers, including those who pay city taxes indirectly because they do not own property, he said.

"These are not idle promises," he declared. "It is not difficult, and it is plain common sense, to handle the business of government along the same sound lines that guide the conduct of successful private business.

Only Servant of Public.

"Public officials are elected to serve, not to rule. That principle will be the basis of any administration which I direct."

This week Green has carried his campaign into sections of the city that previously were without a chance to see him. He has greeted thousands of persons.

His running mates on the regular G. O. P. organization ticket, supported by forty-eight of the fifty ward committeemen, spoke in the 43d ward in the Sheridan Plaza hotel, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue. They are John William Chapman, candidate for city clerk, and Clement A. Nance, candidate for city treasurer.

Rival Democratic Mayoral Candidates Address Women

Kelly Describes School Betterments; Tells Tax Situation.

Courtney Assails Rule of Machine Politics in Public Office.

Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney—contenders in the Democratic mayoral primary—spoke yesterday before the same group of about fifty women, but at different hours. The state's attorney addressed the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations at 209 South State street shortly before noon. The mayor appeared about 2 p. m. Each dwelt upon the accomplishments of his administration. This is what each said:

MAYOR KELLY:

"In considering your schools, the question is: Shall they be run by the superintendent and the trustees, who have this duty, or by persons outside the school system? There may be differences of opinion on some actions of the school authorities. But a majority of the public will say the schools have gone ahead.

"There is nothing that would give me reason to call in any trustee and ask him to resign. We have eliminated portable schools, among other things, doing away with those unhealthy and unsightly buildings.

Tax Levy Is Pegged.

"You have been hearing a great deal of bunk about Chicago taxes. The city's taxes are pegged at 37 millions, and have been for five years. They can't go higher. The city's budget is 54 millions, but we get everything over 37 millions from sources other than real estate taxes, which pay only for police and fire protection and the department of public works. All other departments are run on revenue from licenses and miscellaneous fees.

"There has been no special assessment against property owners since I have been mayor. There won't be any as long as I am mayor until it is absolutely necessary. Our city budget is no higher now, based on the difference in valuations, than it was in 1931. It is much lower than in 1929.

Defends Handbook Licensing.

"As for licensing handbooks, I became convinced that you can't eliminate the human element that causes many people to bet on horse races. The people feel about handbook laws the way they felt about prohibition. This has been shown when juries threw out every case no matter how it was prepared.

"I thought it would be better for the city to get revenue of several millions from the practice. The state gets money from the operation of race tracks. With licensed handbooks it would be possible to control undesirable elements that have gotten into betting operations.

"We have the finest fire department in the country and losses from fires and insurance rates have been reduced correspondingly. Five hundred men have been added to the police force, and a new idea has been put into operation with great success: make the policeman a friend of the boys on his beat."

Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the All-Chicago committee for the reelection of Mayor Kelly, said yesterday that representatives of virtually every profession and trade in the city have signed pledge cards in the mayor's behalf.

"These cards," Sprague said, "show that the movement to retain Mayor Kelly is truly an all-Chicago affair. All classes of Chicagoans and of all creeds and nationalities are showing that they appreciate Mayor Kelly's constructive service."

STATE'S ATTORNEY COURTNEY:

"You must take machine politics out of every public office if you want to give service to the public. I'll take the public; my opponents can have the office.

"Since I have been in my office there has been no political fix. Criminals know this. It is one of the reasons for the reduction in crime. In the 10,000 cases handled by my office there have been no fixes.

"When I took office Chicago had the highest rate of auto insurance of any of the large cities. I sat in several conferences with insurance officials and demanded reduced rates. The result is the reduction of 64 per cent in rates, which the public is entitled to and should have.

Auto Thefts Reduced.

"In 1932 there was an average of ninety-seven automobiles stolen each day. For six months my office worked secretly investigating the dealers and fences involved in these thefts. The result has been the steady reduction in thefts. Today the average is only eight per day. This reduction has had its effect in cutting down other types of crime.

"When I took office there were 1,100 cases awaiting trial. That condition had gone on for many administrations. I was told that it was impossible to cut it down. We went to work. There are now only 200 cases on the calendar. Sixty per cent of the cases now are tried within thirty days after indictments are voted.

Law Retards Some Cases.

"Many cases would be tried even sooner were it not for an Illinois law that provides reasonable length of time for a defendant to prepare himself for trial. Speedy justice is a well known deterrent to crime.

"No man can be a good public servant if at the same time he attempts to dominate a political machine. I have never done so, and I never will. It has been my policy as state's attorney to obtain the confidence of the people and to retain it by working just as hard to hold it as I did to get it.

"I appreciate the opportunity to speak to a group such as yours. I invite your suggestions for improvements in the operation of my office. If they can be utilized you may be sure they will be."

After addressing the federation of women's organizations Mr. Courtney conferred in the Palmer House with the Independent Citizens' committee which is supporting him. It is headed by Miss Harriet Vittum, social worker.

This meeting was not public. Reports said the state's attorney discussed the schools with the committee, causes for juvenile delinquency, commercialized vice, and gambling.

Mr. Courtney was reported to have said that the mayor should comply with the state law in the appointment of school trustees, then adopt a hands off policy—politics to be severed from education.

WOMAN ELECTION OFFICIAL JAILED; FOUR POST BONDS

Bonds of $2,500 each were posted by four election officials of the 17th precinct of the 24th ward who surrendered yesterday in the County court. They are charged with contempt in connection with irregularities in the primary of last April 12.

Charlotte Velie.

A fifth defendant, Charlotte Velie, of 1249 South Christiana avenue, Democratic clerk, was arrested after she had failed to appear. She tried to hide her identity, but as detectives prepared to make a handwriting test she admitted her name. Unable to post the $2,500 bond, she was taken to the county jail.

The four who surrendered are Martha Miller, of 3310 West 13th street, and Elizabeth Weise, 1227 South Homan avenue, Republican judges; Morris Neckeles, of 1245 South Homan avenue, Democratic judge, and Goldie Poncher, 1245 South Christiana avenue, Republican clerk.

POLITICAL YEAR URGED AS BASIS FOR PARTY SHIFT

Voters should be permitted to change parties after two "political" years elapse and should not be bound to retain a partisan label for two annual periods of 365 days each, the election codification commission recommended yesterday.

This body, authorized by the 1937 legislature to revise, amend, and codify Illinois election laws, issued a partial report yesterday at a meeting in the Bismarck hotel. It is headed by County Judge Lawrence B. Stringer of Lincoln.

The change of party recommendation will form part of the commission's report to the legislature, which probably will be made by Mar. 1.

Next Tuesday the legislature will consider a bill to be introduced by Representative John A. Pelka [R., Chicago] which would declare the 1939 city primaries "open"—thereby include the unification of school, permitting shifts of party. An effort will be made to pass it immediately so that it will be effective on Feb. 28, the date of the Chicago mayoral primary. The Pelka bill also will seek to prohibit future changes of party until two full calendar years have passed.

POLICE PREPARE TO MOVE 1,300 ROAD CAMPERS

Rain and Snow Add to Plight of Sharecroppers.

New Madrid, Mo., Jan. 13.—(AP)—State police and health authorities tonight moved to end the demonstration of a weather-beaten army of 1,300 ditch-sitting sharecroppers who have been living in the open along southeast Missouri highways since Tuesday.

The campers blamed their plight on the AAA crop benefit laws which restricted cotton acreage and made it impossible for farm owners to continue to employ them and their families.

Their protest reached a climax when authorities announced the campers would be moved out if they were found to be a menace to public health.

Two Inspect Camps.

"I don't know where we would put them," said B. M. Casteel, superintendent of the Missouri state highway patrol, "but if they threaten public health they must be moved somewhere."

Casteel and Dr. Harry Parker, state health director, came into the area late today from the state capital in Jefferson City. Adjt. Gen. Lewis M. Means plans to fly here tomorrow.

The state patrol completed a survey of farms in five counties to determine the number of homeless families that might be cared for if they are ordered to leave their roadside camps.

The decision to send additional state troopers and health authorities to the area followed a conference of representatives of state agencies concerned with the problem.

Children Suffer from Exposure.

Meanwhile the rain soaked group hung on stubbornly in near freezing temperatures, with small children apparently the only ones suffering from exposure. Men waded about in slush and mud in search of scrap wood to keep the campfires burning. Women gathered around steaming kettles measuring out the limited food supplies.

There has been no serious sickness in the thirteen camps, which extend along 150 miles of highway.

Some of the families, their spirits broken by last night's snow and rain, loaded up their meager belongings and vanished, but others took their places.

2 BURGLARS SENT TO PRISON; THIRD GETS YEAR IN JAIL

Two members of a burglar gang which looted more than twenty-five homes in the Fillmore police district were given prison sentences yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in the Criminal court. A third was sentenced to the County jail.

Harry Bookstein, 19 years old, 1113 South Troy street, and Harry Zelmanovitz, 18, of 3341 Douglas boulevard, were sentenced to two concurrent terms of 1 to 10 years in the Joliet penitentiary. David Klinger, 19, of 2855 Washington boulevard, was sentenced to a year in the County jail. All admitted they looted the homes while the owners were away. They were sentenced on larceny charges.

HUNT WOUNDED GUNMAN AND HIS THREE COMRADES

Police squads in Chicago and the southern end of the county last night sought a dark sedan, containing four men, one of whom wore a bloody head bandage. Beside the injured man in the rear seat lay a sawed off shotgun.

Early in the day they curbed the automobile of James D'Apice, 1333 Center avenue, Chicago Heights, in the Lincoln highway, near Matteson, and asked the way to the nearest hospital. He directed them to a hospital in Chicago Heights, but when the men learned it was only a few blocks from the police station they told D'Apice they would seek aid elsewhere. D'Apice then told police of the encounter.

Hear Father's Plea

For the third time in two weeks two little boys sat yesterday in the court of Judge Robert C. O'Connell and heard their father plead that he cannot support them if he is sent to jail. They are John Bond Jr., 5 years old, and his brother, Raleigh, 3. Their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Bond of 2450 North Washtenaw avenue, is seeking to have their father cited for contempt for being $185 in arrears in his support payments.

He told Judge O'Connell that he is a commission salesman and is earning almost no money. His second wife, he said, is supporting him while he tries to find a better job. The court continued the case to Jan. 31.

FEDERAL COURT DOCKET RECALLS GANGLAND DAYS

The names of Al Capone and Terry Druggan, gangsters, and Lawrence C. O'Brien, former north side politician, appeared again on the calendar of Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court yesterday. They are defendants in income tax deficiency cases in which the government seeks to collect a total of $302,900. Capone owes $269,000 tax for income from 1924 to 1928; O'Brien, $30,132 for 1926 to 1928, and Druggan, $3,798 for 1928. The suits were placed on a special list so that hearings may be held on five day notice.

HOLD MYSTERY WOMAN IN BAIL FOR HINES TRIAL

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Ethel Morton, described as a "mystery witness" probably will be called to the stand at the second trial of James J. Hines, Tammany district leader, charged with being the political protector of the slain Dutch Schultz's policy racket. She is being held in $5,000 bail as a material witness.

General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., who will preside, announced formally today that the trial would start on Jan. 23 in the Criminal Courts building.

Miss Morton, an attractive brunette in her early 40s, has been described as a friend of Hines supposed to be able to corroborate other witnesses who have charged Hines associated with racketeers.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who did not call her as a witness at the first trial, was believed to be referring to her in court when he stated he had evidence that Hines had attempted to "persuade a witness to leave the jurisdiction of the court."

Countess 101 Years Old; Only Girl of 14 Children

Newark, N. J., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Countess Virginie De Laune, a member of French aristocracy during the reign of Napoleon III., celebrated her 101st birthday here today. For nearly half a century she has conducted a Newark school of languages. Still active, she is teaching the French language to two young girls. She was one of fourteen children born to Count and Countess Auguste De Laune. The other thirteen children were sons, seven of whom were killed during the Franco-Prussian war.

THE AMERICAN MILITARY PROGRAM.

Mr. Roosevelt in sending his special message on national defense to congress says it would be "unwise for any of us to yield to any form of hysteria." In his message last week Mr. Roosevelt seemed to be the person who, if not yielding to it, was trying to stimulate it. He saw imminent dangers which were not perceivable to any one else.

Probably the public response to the White House drum beat was not very encouraging. It may be Mr. Roosevelt has learned that a majority of the people are unwilling to hunt up a war, even for New Deal domestic purposes. Consequently, he moderates his tone and seeks to base his recommendations upon a moderate middle of the road policy which would disarm criticism and strike general public opinion as being prudent in disturbed times.

Mr. Roosevelt could perceive, after his first message of alarm, that congress was not of a mind to be stampeded and that throughout the country there was a feeling which would not support a program of deliberate provocation at this time.

In changing his tone Mr. Roosevelt tacitly confesses that he was drumming up a war scare and in what he now says he also concedes that during the six years in which he was squandering billions of dollars for political effect and socialistic purposes he was neglecting the national defense. If it had not been neglected, it could not be in the condition he says it is. Any dangers now to be observed in the world about have been growing for several years and so far as the United States is concerned there are no greater admonitions now than there were two or three years ago.

With regard to the reference to what happened in 1917 it may be remarked that in that war Mr. Roosevelt had a desk job in the government responsible for the inadequacy of American preparations. His then chief, Mr. Wilson, got a war without the preparation for it and Mr. Roosevelt was following this unfortunate example.

For the shortcomings in American defenses Mr. Roosevelt's administration is responsible, just as it is responsible for the incidents which make it possible for him to say that hostile nations everywhere jeopardize the future of America. Among the eccentricities which are seemingly bound to crop up in any New Deal program may be noted the suggestion that an appropriation be granted the National Youth administration, to which Fellow Traveler Aubrey Williams has just been transferred, for the training of 20,000 air pilots.

The fellow travelers and revolutionaries have regarded the National Youth administration as the best Red training school in the country and they would be delighted to have it furnish so many trained men in this branch of military service. They could find a reason for this peculiar recommendation but nobody else could.

Mr. Roosevelt has laid aside the drumsticks for the time being for reasons best known to him. Congress apparently is in a mood to examine defense rationally and to take the advice of military experts.

THE MORE ABUNDANT LIFE.

At least a thousand men, women, and children are camped along the principal highways in southeastern Missouri. Some of these people are living in improvised tents. The rest have nothing better than ragged clothing and ragged blankets to protect them from the January weather.

They are share croppers who, until the turn of the year, had been tenants on nearby cotton plantations. They are both an evidence and a symbol of Henry Wallace's unique contribution to the more abundant life. It is altogether probable that agitators have been busy among these wretched people, but Henry Wallace was there first, and without his help the agitators would not have got to first base.

Mr. Wallace gets whatever credit or blame is due because he is the boy who insisted on crop reduction by law and worked out an elaborate system of bonuses and penalties to bribe and coerce land owners into reducing their plantings. Competent economists, including the best in his own department, told him years ago his scheme was working badly, so he suppressed their official report. Any number of people possessed of ordinary common sense told him his cotton plan must result in further impoverishment and degradation of the tenants and share croppers, but he paid little attention. We take small credit for having foreseen the outcome and warned against it; only a pig headed theorist could have come to any other conclusion.

A sharp reduction in acreage must result in less employment for those who cultivate cotton. In fact, tenants by hundreds of thousands have been deprived of a chance to earn a living not only in Missouri but all over the cotton belt. Many of them have drifted into the cities. We have thousands of them in Chicago, swelling our relief burden beyond the capacity of the community to carry.

All the cotton share croppers were not ill-fed, ill-clothed, and ill-housed, but there is no other occupational group in the nation in which extreme poverty is so widespread. When Mr. Roosevelt weeps over the plight of the third of the nation which he says is ill-clothed, ill-fed, and ill-housed, he is talking to a very considerable extent about the cotton croppers. He would have the country believe that he is the first man in public life ever to consider the plight of the poor. He and Henry Wallace considered it, all right; and having done so they succeeded in reducing vast numbers of share croppers from poverty to abject misery and helplessness. They are far worse off today, both in their present condition and their prospects for the future, than they were before the great humanitarians set out on their crusade.

It is an achievement of which the New Dealers seldom boast, even at $100 banquets. The reason is plain. In the history of this country there is nothing to match the New Deal's cotton policy for brutal indifference to human suffering.

CHICAGO IN THE AIR AGE.

The Howard Aircraft corporation announces that a New York banking house has underwritten a million dollar issue of its common stock. This will enable the corporation to expand its factory immediately and be ready to produce machines as large as those now used by the commercial air lines. Hitherto it has been restricted to the manufacture of small single engine planes, though good ones.

The Howard Aircraft corporation is Chicago's only representative in the field of aircraft manufacture. It is a pity it had to be financed in New York. We consider both facts ominous. A great epoch of American industrial and transport progress has begun, and is developing rapidly. So far as it is concerned the Chicago spirit, which in past time has amazed the world, seems to have fallen into a coma. Chicago ought to be a principal center of aviation, in operation and manufacture. Instead, Mr. Howard's enterprise is alone. It has had to fight every inch of the way, and although he has proved up to the hilt his and his associates' ability to make high grade planes, he has had to finance in New York for expansion.

We take off our hat to Mr. Howard for his courage and his achievements under difficulties. We wish him continued and increasing success. We also wish Chicago would wake up. The airport situation is typical of our present condition. The unprecedented opportunity to obtain an unequaled terminal in the lake front has been held back by stupid opposition in Chicago. The urgent need for enlargement of the present municipal airport has met official inertia and indifference and dragged along at a snail's pace. Through the years in which the airplane industry has been established and pushed forward in the eastern states and on the Pacific seaboard Chicago has remained bogged down in indifference.

THE TRIBUNE has begged for foresighted and energetic action. It has realized and has begged the leadership of the city to realize that air transport is an epochal event and that Chicago must claim its part in the new age, must act, not criticize and obstruct, must use all its resources and use them now or be forever left behind. Mr. Howard should have been helped from the start and liberally. Every effort should have been made to bring other similar enterprises to the Chicago district. It is an advantageous location. There is no reason why it should be ignored. There is no reason why Chicago should be in the rear of the procession. We are lagging only because of our lack of vision. The lack will be fatal.

It is late, but not too late. No more time should be lost and no more can be lost if Chicago is not to miss one of the greatest opportunities, if not indeed the greatest, in its history.

NEW LEADERSHIP IN MINNESOTA.

Citizens concerned for good government throughout the nation will welcome the news that the Minnesota senate has ordered an investigation of the administration of former Gov. Benson, Farmer-Labor boss, whose régime was cleaned out at the late election. The new governor, Harold E. Stasson, is a representative of the young Republicanism from which so much is hoped throughout the country. Nowhere, perhaps, more than in Minnesota is there need of its spirit and intelligence. The economic and social ills suffered by Minnesota during the Farmer-Labor régime, including rioting, terrorism, and assassination in Minneapolis have been an affliction which has hurt the state grievously and it was high time its good citizens revolted. At the late election they took the situation in hand. In Gov. Stassen they seem to have chosen a real leader, and all Americans will wish him well in his task.

Editorial of the Day

FEATHER BEDS.

[Christian Science Monitor.]

Blown from what dim past into modern ken were two "feather beds" sold in a New York auction room a few days ago? They came from storage was all the auctioneer knew. Was their original habitat a New England or Long Island farmhouse? For what tousled haired children may they have been warm, downy nests in winter nights of yesteryear? Or did they spend most of their lives in the neat idleness of the "spare room," closed in winter—and most other seasons—and nearly as cold as Antartica from December till spring?

Of course, a "feather bed" wasn't really a feather bed at all—or even a bed. It was a tick filled with feathers and was superimposed on another one stuffed with straw or corn husks in many a farmhouse that boys of earlier—and even the last—generation knew. Nothing softer or warmer can be recalled, especially on nights when the winds of winter whined around the house. It kept a boy snug and warm all night in his upstairs chamber even if the fire in the sitting room stove downstairs went out in spite of all the birch and maple chunks crammed into it at bedtime.

In the morning he was likely to be awakened by the clatter downstairs when father got up at daybreak to build the fire again. It wasn't long before the heat began to rise in the stovepipe that ran through your room into the chimney, but until it did you burrowed deeper down into the feathers and pulled the patchwork quilts and comfortables up under your chin. It took courage even when mother rapped on the pipe downstairs and called, "Breakfast—your room must be warmed up by now," to throw off the comforting covers and bounce out on the cold floor. But the aroma of bacon or sage-seasoned sausage wafted from the kitchen expedited dressing and in a jiffy you were ready to thump down the stairs, carrying the kerosene lamp that had lighted you to bed.

Modern mattresses didn't come till later, but none will ever lull a tired boy or grownup to sleep quicker.

PITY THE PEDESTRIAN.

"You are charged," said the magistrate, "with throwing your mother-in-law out of the window. Have you anything to say?"

"Yes, yer worship. I did it without thinking."

"I quite realize that, my good man. But don't you see how dangerous it was for any one who might have been passing at the time?"—Montreal Star.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A MYTH IN EVANSTON.

The city of Evanston, upon whose fringe we have pitched our simple tent, is the possessor of a myth. The legend has grown around an old automobile, left standing for years under the porte cochère of a neglected, possibly unoccupied, house. The story crops up in newspaper offices every once in a while, is investigated and discredited. We ourselves directed research into the subject eight years ago, but the reporter who did the leg work turned in a negative finding.

Here is the myth, latest version, as found in the Line's mailbag a few days ago:

* * *

How would you like to ride to Evanston and find the facts about the auto that still stands before the door packed with bridal trunks of forty years ago?

The story is that this bridal couple were ready to leave on their honeymoon when the groom, having forgotten something, got out of the car and entered the house. When he didn't return his bride went in search of him and found him dead on the floor. She wouldn't permit any one to touch or remove anything from the car, and so it has been standing there all these years. She still lives there and is about 70 years old.

The car was seen last summer and the location, as nearly as I can remember, is south of Dempster street a few blocks and close to the lake. The yard is unkempt and a high fence surrounds the place. June E. Juhl.

* * *

We have seen the mystery car, but we observed no bridal trunks. It was then, however, an object that might easily evoke a myth, when its persistence in situ is taken into consideration. About a month ago some one mailed us an excellent snapshot of it.

This column is ready to listen to explanations of Evanston's myth.

SONNET TO A SMALL SHRINE.

No highway trampled by the patient feet
Of pilgrims leads to this small shrine, no flame
Of tall white candles, and no swelling beat
Of organ tone proclaims Our Lady's name;
And yet I do not think she is more near
At Chartres, enthronèd as becomes her power,
Nor readier at Lourdes to bend and hear
A prayer at day's end when the quiet hour
Brings echoes of remembered loveliness.
This is a shrine to beauty and to song,
To joyous things she will delight to bless,
Nor note the absence of a quiring throng.
A small prayer made before this shrine for you
Who gave it will be incense for her too.

Gossip of the Line's Family Circle.

B. J. K. and Buddy Bligh, first string poets of the Line, are spreading their wings for winter vacations. The former will cruise in the Caribbean; the latter, we think, will sun herself on the Florida coast. . . . What has become of "Arcee," who blazed across our firmament like a meteor last fall, and then disappeared into the void? . . . To Evan S. Happy Ending to Dickens Tale.

The daughter of Augustus N. Dickens, Amy by name, is still living. She was taken east as a companion to Deborah Howland Chase, the New England wife of a kindly physician of Amboy, Ill. Forty-seven years ago she married Mrs. Chase's brother, Charles W. Howland, a legislator and civil engineer of southeastern Massachusetts. She had a happy and comfortable life, and bore four children. She occupies a respected position in Rockland, Mass. Thus the statement in your column [1-11-'39], "Their education fitted them only for menial labor," does not convey a true suggestion of the destiny of Charles Dickens' niece.

Ballast for the Mailbag.

The underground railroad and grapevine telegraph systems of opposition to President Roosevelt have been busy for several months, distributing copies of a set of satirical verses called "Rejected." We have received about 200 copies since last October and report the fact as a sign of the political times.

It is one of those ditties of standard pattern which begins, "A stranger stood at the gates of hell," and then goes on to recite his colloquy with the devil. The effusion is always unsigned, and nobody knows who started it, but it is certainly going the rounds with rapidity.

WINTER DIARRHEA IN CHILDREN.

MANY a mother will say, "O, how I dread the hot weather with my new baby. I am so fearful of an attack of summer complaint." As she will learn later, there is but little more occasion for the onset of inflammatory conditions within the bowel in the summer time than at any other season of the year. Clean food and dishes supply the answer, as good sanitation will prevent infection. The trouble is that heat and flies are so likely to spoil food and disseminate contagion. While these factors are absent during the colder months, nevertheless we are faced with numerous maladies such as a running ear, an acute sore throat, or scarlet fever, which may spread microörganisms to the digestive tract.

The most important source lies in pus organisms somewhere in the body—not in the intestinal canal in the beginning but which may arrive there via the circulation or because of swallowed material. Many children appear quite ill with pyelitis [pus in the urine] or bacteria may be forced from the throat up the Eustachian tube into the middle ear. What was at first a head cold may later involve the throat, then the ear, and still later the gastrointestinal apparatus. When diarrhea ensues it is proof positive that the infection which started in some remote part has finally attacked the mucous lining of the bowel.

We cannot look upon an abscess in the middle ear with anything but concern and no such incident should be allowed to go unattended or undiagnosed. Not only is it possible for the "bugs" to burrow deeply within the mastoid cells, but they may even reach the blood stream and travel to the alimentary tube as well as to other localities. Every child specialist knows full well the association of colds and running ears with diarrhea. Is some of the pus swallowed and swept along the intestinal tube? Possibly; in fact, probably. Now and then there is enough trouble within the tonsils to account for the situation.

But whatever the origin the symptoms may come rather quickly. The baby is cross, fretful, drawing his legs up as if in pain, sleep is fitful, and even though fever is not present steadily there will be periods when the temperature may be high.

Although the stools may not be excessively watery, nevertheless the infant must be watched from the standpoint of fluid loss and enough applied to keep the circulation in good tone. Glucose may be needed; so may salt solution. There is little value in attempting to give water by rectum as it is rarely retained.

If the child can be made to swallow scraped apple pulp a generous quantity may be fed even though it is rejected at first. No plan of treatment suggested in recent years has succeeded more admirably. Even though vomiting has begun the material seems to start stomach contractions along the normal pathway.

With small infants, if mother's milk is available, it should be utilized, and there is no good reason for taking the baby off the breast just because of the occurrence of frequent stools. If artificial feeding is employed, reduction in the amount of sugar is sometimes indicated, and this substance may be added little by little as improvement comes on. If an ear has been discharging, care must be taken to keep the canal wiped dry, thoroughly clean, and plugged lightly with cotton to which a drop of some mild antiseptic has been added.

We can do more in preventing winter diarrhea in babies and young children by keeping microbes away from them than we can by strict attention to the diet. This means that oldsters who are coughing or who have other evidences of an acute ailment should not handle, care for, or fondle little children. If a nursing mother develops a cold the least she can do is to wear a gauze mask or lay a sheet of cleansing tissue over the baby's face. It goes without saying that every effort must be made by means of cod liver oil and orange juice to maintain resistance so that malnutrition, rickets, and anemia will not weaken the little one's constitution.

MAY LACK EXERCISE.

Mrs. F. writes: My 7 year old daughter is having trouble falling to sleep. It takes her from two to five hours. She seems to be well and does not complain of any pain.

REPLY.

This is probably a slight indication of increasing nervousness. It would be well to provide a quiet evening. A tepid bath and a glass of warm milk may be given before retiring. Does the child obtain exercise out of doors sufficient to bring on a mild physical fatigue?

NOT HARMFUL.

R. P. L. writes: Is the daily use of hydrogen peroxide on the skin for bleaching purposes harmful? Will it bleach out freckles?

REPLY.

Pigment, producing freckles, is found in the lower layers of the skin and, therefore, cannot be reached by chemicals applied to the surface. Hydrogen peroxide is a mild bleach and there are no reports of its harmful effects.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—Where and how to find cheap power for man's machinery and industries is more than a theoretical question today in Europe, where imaginative men are working on the problem of fuel shortage. In answer to this question Italy is reported to be considering harnessing its volcanoes, Mount Vesuvius and Mount Etna, for the inexhaustible steam supply that hides within them.

Already in the mushroom town of Lardellero, Italy, named after François de Larderel, a Frenchman, who is said to have been the first to think up the idea of putting subterranean heat to work, steam is being led out of the earth through steel pipes at the rate of 400,000 pounds an hour, turning turbines that generate 3,000 kilowatts of electricity.

Pessimists see the end of the world's petroleum supply in 150 years. The world's 985 billion tons of coal is said to be good for another 900 years, or for a period equal to the time elapsed since William the Conqueror. On the other hand, France's coal supply is reported statistically to be good for only another 250 years.

Substitutes for ordinary fuels and sources of energy are several. Germany, for example, uses a gasoline substitute, thanks to the power of chemistry, which it calls "Deutsches benzin," a synthesis of hydrogen and carbon. This, however, is expensive, and could not serve a world-wide demand.

France already is making some use of a simple substitute, referred to in jest as "green coal"—or, in other words, wood. The energy is derived by burning it and setting to work the gases which escape. This has been used to drive trucks, and it is hazarded by some that the time may come when "green coal" may be used for automobiles as frequently as gasoline is now. It is claimed that France has wood which it can spare without hurting its forests, inasmuch as branches and twigs are a part of "green coal," and that it would do the forests good to be weeded out.

A French humorist suggested that the title "intoxicating coal" be given to the various forms of alcohol, such as that made from beets, which the state imposes periodically as a legitimate fuel to be mixed mandatorily in a given percentage with gasoline. Jacques Frenchman must buy it when he pulls his car up to the service station pump. Last summer Premier Edouard Daladier issued a decree law to the effect that all excess wheat must be converted into fuel alcohol.

Waterfalls can be harnessed for electricity on a world-wide scale to a far greater degree than heretofore, statisticians agree. One statistician puts the employable force of the world's waterfalls at 600 million horse power. Today 28 million horse power is being used, while equipment for the harnessing of 7 million more is being prepared.

Another and almost legendary source of power, the tides, has been tapped through "tide mills" by the French in the two seacoast towns of St. Malo and Mont St. Michel, situated not far apart on the lower end of the English channel. The tide there has a rise and fall of about fifty feet.

Passamaquoddy is known to the French not so much as the site of a project of President Roosevelt's administration in Maine as the scene of a French scheme to harness its tremendous tide. Engineers allegedly started to build dikes across two large bays there, hoping to form artificial basins to catch the tide as it came in. Then as the water receded the basins were to empty through man made channels and at the same time turn turbines. Nature's work was to be supplemented as the basins ran dry by pumping in water with gasoline engines until the tide returned and once more filled the reservoirs. In this way a continual supply of energy was envisioned at very little cost.

The engineers ran into a snag, however, when it came to building the dikes. They found it impossible to build against the tremendous rush of the incoming and outgoing waters.

PROPERTY TAXES.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In 1931 I advanced about $90, constituting back taxes and penalties for many years on a vacant lot close to my home in an adjoining county.

2. The county collector furnished me a tax sale receipt [3] stating that the original owner [whereabouts unknown] could now only redeem his property after paying me off together with 10 or 12 per cent interest.

4. I paid the taxes regularly for seven years without interference.

5. Last summer I retained the services of a law firm to take care of the papers so that I could get clear title. When I sent the amount for the current taxes the check was returned by the county collector stating that the tax had been paid by the original owner, but not mentioning a word about all the tax which has been advanced by me.

6. The attorneys seem to evade my questions and only send me a rather stiff bill for services, publication, etc.

7. How can I go about getting my money back and to whom do I have to apply?

8. It was my understanding that the county collector could not accept a redemption of the property without first collecting all the amounts paid by me. Will you inform me on this point?

A. H.

1. This sounds as if you were furnishing money for the owner to pay his taxes.
2. Same.
3. This sounds as if your money had been used to purchase the property at a tax sale.
4. If you did purchase the property at tax sale, obtained a tax deed two years later, and then paid the taxes for seven years, you would have a tax title unless your arrangement with the previous owner was such as to be inconsistent with your asserting this right.
5. The attorneys so employed have the facts at first hand, hence are in a better position to advise you than we are.
6. You should insist on a full explanation from them. Have them put it in the form of a letter.
7. Depends on the understanding on which you have made your payments. If the facts are simply that you have, as a volunteer, paid taxes on another person's real estate, then you have no legal remedy unless you have carried the matter through to acquiring a valid tax title.
8. We cannot advise on this without knowing precisely what was done when you made your first advances.

FREE TRADE IN BEER.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—In your Jan. 10 issue you printed in the Voice of the People a letter from Norbert Victor Day of Alpena, Mich., in which he stamped as bad law a recent decision of the United States Supreme court in the matter of a brewing company of Indiana that sought to enjoin the state of Michigan from interfering with the shipment of this Indiana brewing company's products into Michigan.

Your correspondent is absolutely right in his contention that there should be no trade barriers between states. It is quite evident, however, that he does not have all the facts in this particular matter at issue, or he would know that the Michigan law to which the Indiana brewing company took exception was established for the very purpose of breaking down a trade barrier which Indiana had set up.

A few years ago California had a discriminatory law which stipulated that a brewery outside of the state should pay a higher license for doing business in California than a California brewery should pay. Suit to enjoin the state of California from collecting this tax from outside brewers was brought and won in the lower courts. However, the brewers of California took the case to the United States Supreme court, where the decision of the lower court was reversed. That decision was read by Justice Brandeis, who delivered the recent decision also, and the court stipulated that under the 21st amendment each state was given permission to do what it deemed necessary to regulate the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Following the first decision some states passed retaliatory laws. However, they were not at all effective as was demonstrated, particularly in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Subsequently an anti-discriminatory law was devised by M. J. Donnelly, counsel for Brewing Industry, Inc., and this was subsequently passed in both Michigan and Missouri. The purpose of this anti-discriminatory law was to force states having discriminatory laws to remove them from their statutes. It proved to be the only effective method of eliminating all trade barriers among the states, and although it was unusual and perhaps drastic, it should nevertheless be welcomed by all who seek a continuance of the free competition among the states of the Union which our forefathers knew was the only way to build a strong, united nation. ON MR. TAYLOR.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—It was my great honor to behold the great heart throb, Robert Taylor, and I would like to see my impression of the kid in print.

A weak chinned, milk-fed sissy. As a Valentino he is a counterfeit. Do not get the idea I am prompted by jealousy. If the kid fits the groove he is entirely welcome, but, on the contrary, just look at the bored look he carries. He doesn't like the rôle himself. Imagine this marshmallow playing opposite Beery, Cagney, or the late Wolheim.

SUPPORT FOR SIR JAMES.

Chicago, Jan. 12. — Concerning "A Music Student's" comment on Sir James Jeans' contention that a weight dropped on a piano key will produce exactly the same tone which Paderewski's would produce:

Sir James Jeans is right and he is also too wise a man to make a statement which would be unscientific. He was referring to single tones from an acoustical point of view and is wholly in the right.

The music student would have been correct had he contended that Jeans could not drop a series of weights producing a relation of tonal impressions which would create a musical composition. This Jeans would never dispute.

I have bought and sold millions and millions of dollars' worth of goods. I have been in intimate touch with the practical problems of business." But Mr. Hopkins has not been responsible for making profits on spending; he has not met a board of directors; he has not met millions of stockholders who are owners of the millions he has spent; he may never meet these stockholders, unless he is bold enough to become a candidate for office. It would be interesting to get the result of the meeting in polling booths. BURTON W. RHODES.

FOR A COOL WELCOME.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—King Georgie and his queen have a lot of crust to come to America and expect the people here to make a fuss over them. The President should show them the cold shoulder and Mrs. Roosevelt should make herself scarce just as she did when the duke and Wally said they were coming. Why should England get out of paying their war debt any more than other countries? But it might be that Georgie and Elizabeth are coming to make arrangements to pay it. E. K. HART.

GIRL, 17, FORGES FOR LOVE; JAIL 2 SWEETHEARTS

Finds 'Needy' Suitor Blew $850 on Friends.

Charlotte Schweizer, 17 years old, helped her sweetheart forge checks because he told her he needed the money. Then the boy friend, Norman Lewand, 20, of 1634 Roscoe street, cashed the checks, totaling $850, and used the money to buy airplane rides, rent automobiles, and purchase theater tickets for his friends. He didn't even buy Charlotte a Christmas present.

The story of Charlotte and Norman was told yesterday after they were arrested by the state's attorney's police.

Norman told Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie that he worked for the Lady Esther Cosmetic company in Clearing. He came to work early, and one morning stole a book of blank checks, he said.

Girl Signs Cashier's Name.

He took the checks to Charlotte, who lives at 1824 Henderson street, and asked her to sign them with the name of M. Fisher, for Marie Fisher, cashier in the plant.

"But sweetheart," Charlotte protested, according to the story, "I don't think that would be right."

"I need the money," Norman told her. "Won't you do it for me, honey?"

Charlotte signed the checks and Norman filled in the amounts and cashed them. Then he began taking his men friends for airplane and auto rides, and to theaters. He didn't spend any money on her, Charlotte said.

Sweetheart Involves Her.

The company traced the checks to Norman and he then involved Charlotte.

Later the state's attorney's police arrested Vernon Weamer, 21, of 3417 Janssen avenue. Lewand said Weamer indorsed one of the checks for him in return for $7. The check was for $43. Weamer denied this accusation, but was held for further questioning.

Despite her troubles Charlotte still stood by her sweetheart. Said she:

"He's really a grand guy."

POTTER BOY GETS A THRILL; SITS UP AND EATS A MEAL

Raymond Potter, the young south side boy who has recovered from a rare form of meningitis which is usually fatal, sat up and ate by himself yesterday for the first time since he was stricken. He is in the Roseland Community hospital.

Raymond, who is 14 years old, has recovered "100 per cent" from meningitis, his physician, Dr. Luther M. Lorance, said last night. However, he still runs an occasional fever. In addition, a bone infection has been found in the upper arm and the left ankle. This is known as osteomyelitis. Dr. Lorance said it originated from the same source that caused the meningitis.

The boy's left ankle was drained yesterday. Physicians expect to make a serum from the pus and vaccinate him with it in a few days. It is hoped that the vaccine will clear the bone condition.

HEINTZ LAWYERS PLEAD INNOCENT TO CONSPIRACY

Edward A. Fisher and Francis J. Kennedy, both former assistant United States district attorneys, pleaded not guilty yesterday to two indictments charging them with conspiracy to obstruct justice and being accessories after the fact to a robbery. The pleas were entered in Criminal court before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley, who set the cases for trial Feb. 14.

The indictments followed an alleged plot to prevent the identification of Hubert Heintz, son of a Winnetka broker, as the robber who held up the Household Finance corporation, 3150 Lincoln avenue, on Nov. 4. Fisher and Kennedy were attorneys for Heintz and obtained dismissal of a robbery charge when witnesses were unable to identify him. Heintz later admitted he had bleached his hair.

CICERO'S OUSTED TEACHER GETS A LICENSE TO WED

Last month Miss Irene M. Roland, teacher of French and English in the J. Sterling Morton High school, Cicero, was discharged for writing a letter to a Cicero newspaper criticizing the school management. Miss Roland demanded reinstatement and a public hearing by the board to clear her name, but said she intended to resign in January anyway, and get married.

Yesterday the school board held an informal hearing on her request for reinstatement. It was adjourned until next week. Then after the meeting Miss Roland and Henry A. Bruening, 912 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, got a mariage license. A relative said they planned to marry on Jan. 28.

THREE ARE FINED FOR HAVING WILD BIRDS FOR SALE

Two night club operators and a commission merchant were fined yesterday by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli for possessing unbanded game birds. They are Jack Deynzer of the Radio club, 433 North Wells street, fined $25 on each of two charges; Joseph Miller of the 885 club, 885 Rush street, and Peter Fox Jr., 1122 Fulton street, each fined $25.

Under game laws it is illegal to sell wild game birds. It is permissible, however, to raise and sell them. All such birds must bear tags showing that they came from a farm. Several baskets of ducks and pheasants confiscated in the three cases were not so marked.

Robbers Get $1,500

Police last night were hunting for three bandits who earlier in the day robbed the Charles Baumann & Co. real estate office at 3065 Lincoln avenue of $1,500. Two women employés were forced to open the safe by two of the robbers, who wore masks and carried revolvers. A third bandit stayed in an automobile nearby.

The women employés were Miss Irene Freihage, 1335 Nelson street, and Miss Alice Gass, 1333 Nelson street. They were alone in the office at the time.

Miss Freihage is a sister of Miss Florence Freihage, who was with Charles S. Ross when he was kidnaped by John Henry Seadlund and James Atwood Gray on Sept. 25, 1937. Seadlund killed Ross and his companion. He was electrocuted for the crime. Florence Freihage was formerly Ross' secretary.

CHAPERAU WINS DELAY IN JEWEL SMUGGLING CASE

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The trial of Albert N. Chaperau on two indictments charging him and George Burns, radio comedian, with bringing $5,000 worth of jewelry into the United States without paying customs duties was postponed today until Monday by Federal Judge Murray Hulbert.

Burns, member of the comedy team of Burns and Allen, has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced after the Chaperau case has been concluded.

Chaperau was convicted last Monday on all counts of a smuggling indictment naming him and Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, and to which she has pleaded guilty. Wednesday Chaperau pleaded guilty to another indictment naming him and Jack Benny, radio and screen comedian, on smuggling charges. Benny pleaded not guilty.

'DEAN' OF FELONS AT JOLIET CRAZY; SENT TO ASYLUM

Lyman Hall, dean of Joliet convicts in point of service—he has been a prisoner in the penitentiary for forty-two years—was transferred to the Illinois prison for the insane at Chester yesterday. Prison authorities say Hall, who is 66 years old and is serving a life sentence for murder, is "stir crazy," as the condition sometimes resulting from long confinement is known.

Hall was convicted for the slaying in 1896 of Francis De Long, a constable, who went to his Joliet home to arrest him on a drunkenness charge. The jury fixed the penalty at death, but the presiding judge set it aside and ordered life imprisonment.

Hall has applied frequently for parole. In 1932 he started a fire in the prison chapel, causing $3,000 damage, after the parole board had turned down a parole request. He escaped in 1924 while a trusty and was captured in California two months later.

FURNITURE SHOW VISITOR DIES.

Permit Parent to Attend Funeral of Victim.

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Louis Greenfield, Bronx milliner who yesterday killed his invalid and mentally deficient son, 17 years old, by giving him chloroform, was arraigned today in Bronx county homicide court. Magistrate Richard F. McKinley ordered him held without bail for a hearing a week from today.

Mrs. Anna Greenfield. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Greenfield was calm during his appearance in the courtroom and showed little sign of emotion until he saw his wife, Anna. When she held out her hand to him his eyes filled with tears. A few hours later, accompanied by detectives, Greenfield attended the funeral services for his son.

Although District Attorney Samuel Foley expressed sympathy for the father, he said he would take the case before the grand jury next week. Many persons, however, doubted that Greenfield would be indicted after his story was heard.

REVEAL FORMER SCHOOL TRUSTEE IS JAIL PRISONER

Friends of Frank A. Svoboda, formerly a wealthy Cicero real estate man and trustee of the J. Sterling Morton High school, learned yesterday that he is not in California, recovering his health as they thought. He is in the county jail completing a six months' sentence for contempt of court. The sentence was imposed last July by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell when Svoboda admitted that he had misused $1,700 belonging to an estate of which he was executor.

His fortunes had declined and he was practically penniless when an old friend asked for a loan. Svoboda took it from the estate of Catherine Macek. Then the friend died and Svoboda could not replace the money. He told the Cicero people who knew him that he was leaving for California for his health. Instead he went to the county building and heard his sentence—six months in the county jail. Only a few persons knew it and they kept the secret until yesterday. Svoboda will be released next Wednesday.

BUILDING CODE'S LAST 7 CHAPTERS PASS COMMITTEE

The last seven chapters of Chicago's revised building code were approved yesterday by the council committee on building and zoning and will be presented for passage next Wednesday. One chapter regulates construction and location of hazardous industries—fireworks factories, match and cleaning plants and explosives factories. The other six regulate construction under the fire prevention code.

After ten years of work, the city has a new code of fifty-two chapters to replace the one passed in 1911. After the revised code is passed Mayor Kelly will appoint a commission on standards to administer it. This will be made up of three aldermen, three private experts, and the city building commissioner.

CHINA RECEIVES HUGE SHIPMENTS OF RUSSIAN ARMS

Japs Report Artillery Is Among Supplies.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Soviet Russian arms and munitions were reported by Japanese sources today to be reaching China's armies in increasing amounts over the highway from Siberia into China's northwest.

Domei, Japanese news agency, reported from Taiyuan, Shansi province, that 30 pieces of Russian-made artillery had reached the Chinese forces at Tungkwan, gateway to the partly-communized province of Shensi.

Tungkwan, at the great bend of the Yellow river, has withstood for more than a year Japanese efforts to drive into the northwest and cut China's principal overland link with Soviet Russia. Northern Shensi is largely controled by Chinese communist forces.

Plan to Reopen Yangtze.

The highway by which Domei said increasing Russian supplies were coming runs through Shensi, Kansu and Sinkiang [Turkestan] provinces to the Soviet border. Scores of thousands of coolies are reported to have worked on it for more than a year.

Reliable foreign sources said today Japan was working out a plan to open the Yangtze river to foreign shipping on a limited basis.

It was understood that Tokio had relaxed its firm attitude and had authorized Vice President Koshiro Oikawa to enter negotiations to reopen the river as far as Wuhu, 260 miles upstream from Shanghai. One of the major obstacles, it was said, was the scarity of Japanese river vessels, giving rise to fears that the much more numerous British ships would capture the lucrative trade.

As a result, informed quarters reported, Japan was working out a plan under which the number of vessels the various nations would be permitted to use in the river would be limited to the number of Japanese ships available.

Rail Lines Reopened.

TIENTSIN, China, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Japanese railroad communications, cut by Chinese guerrillas both south and west of here, were reported to have been restored today.

Derailment of a Japanese military train below Tsangchow, fifty-five miles south of here, disrupted trafic Tuesday on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

Chinese guerrillas blew up the track and damaged a bridge of the Tientsin-Peking line near Langfang, about midway between the two cities, halting all trafic yesterday.

Dispatches from Peking yesterday said travelers on the eighty mile Tientsin-Peking railroad could hear distant gunfire between Japanese and guerrillas. More than a mile of track was said to have been destroyed and a freight train blown up.

CITY EMPLOYES IN PHILADELPHIA MAY GO PAYLESS

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Gloom fell upon 19,000 city and county employes tonight, the eve of a "payless pay day," as the council stalemated on a 1939 budget, sought to bridge an $18,000,000 deficiency.

Snow piled up on the streets in the face of imminent curtailment of municipal functions. Since no budget has been adopted, no funds can be released to meet the wages of street cleaners, or those of firemen, policemen, or any other city employés.

Councilmen wrangled over what to do. Councilman Clarence K. Crossan warned against an attempt to "fool the public into acquiescing to new taxation" by any drastic cut in municipal services. Others said that if the public refused to accept new tax measures, it would have to get along on whatever services the council could afford.

A 3 per cent sales tax and a 1½ per cent income levy were ditched because of business and labor opposition. Estimated expenditures for 1939 have been placed at $86,000,000. Anticipated revenue amounts to only $68,000,000.

WARANT CHARGES $34,000 THEFT BY DANCER'S FRIEND

Harry C. Thon, who confessed Thursday that he stole from his employer to keep the love of a night club dancer, yesterday was served with a warant charging embezzlement of $34,000. He will be arraigned in the Felony court on Monday. In his confession Thon said he took $31,000 from the American Automobile Insurance company, 175 West Jackson boulevard, where he was cashier, but an audit revealed the larger loss.

Thon told Assistant State's Attorneys Nathan Kinnally and Vernon Thompson that he spent $20,000 on the dancer, and lost the rest in an attempt to regain the money at gambling.

Thompson said Thon's assets would be studied for the possibility of some restitution. Two policemen went to Thon's home in Woodstock, but found nothing besides the furnishings. Thompson also said the dancer, Mercedes de Velasco, also known as Princess Nadja, would be sought to question her about the affair. She was last reported on her way to South America from California.

Oak Forest Ex-Postmaster Arraigned as Embezzler

Robert E. Tscheulin, 26 years old, 15725 South Lamon street, Oak Forest, former Oak Forest postmaster, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of embezzling $1,347 from the postoffice. Tscheulin said he used the money to bet on the horses. He waived preliminary examination, was held to the grand jury and released in bond of $1,000.

GOVERNORS FIGHT FOR STATE RULE IN FLOOD CONTROL

Unite to Bar Federal Domination.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A united front against surrender of state's rights in a controversy over flood control was formed today by New England's six governors, solidly Republican for the first time in eight years.

In recent years their states have been hit by devastating floods. The governors demanded federal flood control coöperation, but served notice they would not yield in their fight to prevent the federal government from taking over basic rights belonging to the people in the states.

Their stand—an indication they may act as a unit on other common questions in future—came a day after the Vermont legislature appropriated a $67,000 war chest to fight what Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont assailed as the federal government's desire for domination in flood control.

The governors—Aiken, Barrows of Maine, Baldwin of Connecticut, Murphy of New Hampshire, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Vanderbilt of Rhode Island—ordered copies of their resolution sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Woodring.

"We believe," the resolution said, "that the natural resources of all the states belong to the people therein and that they should not be taken away without the consent of the states."

The nub of the controversy was what Aiken termed the unjust Barkley flood control amendment which provides for land-taking by the federal government.

"It's a matter of the federal government taking whatever resources it chooses whenever it chooses," said Aiken.

"If the federal government is allowed to take land in Vermont without consent of the state, it could take oil wells in Texas and coal fields in West Virginia in the same manner."

EMPRESS DONS MATERNITY BELT AT TOKIO RITUAL

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—Empress Nagako Kuni today donned the ceremonial maternity girdle to mark the beginning of her ninth month of pregnancy. Emperor Hirohito was present, wearing khaki, while the empress and court ladies wore ancient costumes.

The belt, a silk girdle 12 feet long, was presented by Prince Kanin, who thereby was designated "honorable girdle parent," the equivalent of godfather.

By the zodiacal calendar today is the day of the dog, which is considered lucky. Before the girdle was donned it was placed on an altar in front of the imperial shrine, and Prince Sanjo, chief imperial ritualist, told of the forthcoming event, expected in mid-February.

Shakeup Today in Police Department Is Rumored

Rumors in various police districts last night hinted at a major shakeup today in the police department. The reports were that fourteen captains, numerous lieutenants, sergeants, and patrolmen are to be transferred. The transfers, it was rumored, might affect the Maxwell street, Warren avenue, Jefferson park, Albany park, North Damen avenue, and other districts and possibly the detective bureau.

Waugh's Latest Novel Is Tale of Marital Conflict

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Going Their Own Ways," by Alec Waugh. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50]. Published Monday.

In his latest novel Alec Waugh is concerned with the merry-go-round of modern marriage. In describing the lives of a London publisher and his four children he presents five different slants on the subject.

John Fane and his wife had mounted their wooden Pegasus on the merry-go-round early in the 1900s, and when the story opens they are apparently living the lives of millions of their kind, pleasantly surrounded by home, business, social life, and their progeny. Fane regrets an affair he had with a charming but brainless woman years younger than himself. Too late, however, he learns that peccadillos will out.

At first he is horrified when he faces divorce. Then skilfully Mr. Waugh shows how Fane finally turns to it as a panacea, wearied after years and years of listening to his wife's endless and pointless monologs and harried continually by his children's selfish demands.

The girl he turns to is bland, casual, a half pint mentally, but her very qualities of nonchalance, calmness, and preoccupation with simple, sensual pleasures offer him a respite and exhilaration more than sufficient to compensate for the loss of his home and his social standing.

Each of his children in turn climbs on the marriage whirligig. Muriel marries a dull but wealthy country gentleman for security. Barbara falls headlong in love with a man whose love of conventionality conflicts with her artistic temperament. Basil weds a childhood friend on the rebound from a romance with a married woman. Little Joyce bobs up at the close of the story with her first love.

"Going Their Own Ways" is clever, readable, and at times thought provoking—a candid camera picture of a section of the modern scene.

A Romantic Adventure

"Colin Lowrie," by Norah Lofts. [Knopf, $2.50.] Published a week ago Tuesday.

In this story of the youth and vicissitudes of a young Scot during and after the Jacobite rebellion Norah Lofts has produced a swiftly moving, exciting, and romantic tale. Believing that an historical novel should be just as readable as any other type, she has couched her narrative in modern language, which heightens its vividness.

The adventures of Colin Lowrie remind one a little of both the Count of Monte Cristo and Anthony Adverse. Calamity piles on calamity, but dauntless and enduring he always comes out on top. For ten years he suffers torments as a slave on a West Indian island. Then, in New Orleans and Virginia he struggles to make a living against great odds.

His hardships are relieved by his love affairs, first with a Negro slave named Cassie, then with a girl of New Orleans, and a brief, headlong romance with a nun, and finally an attraction to a strange, almost mad woman plantation owner, Eulalia.

Don't look for too much realism in this novel. Miss Lofts' West Indian island exists in her imagination, but not on any map. And the Negro slaves there talk as no real slaves ever did. The whole St. Crispin scene can be summed up in the Gershwin song refrain: "It ain't necessarily so."

"Colin Lowrie" is more like an exciting dream than an actual series of events. As such it is lively entertainment.

Narrative with a Punch

"Detour," by Martin M. Goldsmith. [Macaulay, $2.] Published Tuesday.

Here is a book the reader will want to take in one gulp, because once he starts it he won't be able to lay it down. It is told so simply, so humanly, and with such swiftly mounting suspense that one is swept along like a leaf in a storm. If you were told in a sane, calm moment about just one of the incidents in this hectic narrative you'd say it was baloney, but once you're in the tangled web of the plot you believe anything. Which is one way of saying that Martin Goldsmith knows how to write.

The action starts with the lift given Alex Roth, hitch hiker, by a fellow named Haskell in a huge, expensive car. Alex is a jobless musician who is trying to get to Los Angeles to see his girl, Sue Harvey. First the story is told from his point of view, and then from hers.

You realize something is wrong with Haskell and you may even be prepared for the first grisly event, but you're not prepared for the other links in the circumstantial chain that makes the harmless, gentle violin player a criminal. Nor do you foresee the changes that occur in the life of his girl friend.

"Detour" is not a pleasant story, but it's an engrossing bit of realism.

Tales of Horses Told in Trio of Attractive Books

"Golden Hoofs," by William Cary Duncan. [Lippincott, $2.50.]

"Flint Spears," by Will James. [Scribners, $2.50.]

"Gallant Horses," by Frances E. Clarke. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

It's pretty hard to write a poor book about a horse. Here are three better than good books in which a horse, or horses, are the stars:

"Golden Hoofs" tells the story of what few horsemen will deny was the greatest racing horse of all time. Some may think Man o' War fits that description, but the title belongs to a little trotting mare with the heart of a fighter, Goldsmith Maid. The Maid started life early in the 19th century as Nell, a frisky animal hard to handle. Not until she was nine years old did Nell, by then known as Goldsmith Maid, appear on a race track. For a decade she dominated the trotting world. She won 116 out of 138 races—still a record—and set a world trotting record two years after being given up as a hopeless cripple.

Will James' newest book, "Flint Spears," is not strictly a horse story, but it is perhaps the finest story of the rodeo ever written. Flint Spears is a natural rider and becomes the first of the great rodeo performers as that typically western sport grows from a friendly contest to an organized competition. But Flint Spears' story after all is a story of horses and a corking good one. The illustrations by the author are as vital as ever.

Lacking the unified appeal of the stories just mentioned, "Gallant Horses," has instead a variety of appeals. Frances E. Clarke, the editor, has compiled a very readable anthology of horse stories. Some of them verge on the great. W. D.

An 18th Century Haitian Idol and Voodoo in Haiti

BY PERCY WOOD.

"The Black Jacobins: Toussaint l'Ouverture and the San Domingo Revolution," by C. L. James. [Dial, $3.75.]

"Tell My Horse," by Zora Neale Hurston. [Lippincott, $3.]

These stories interlock—or, at least, explain one another—over a period of centuries. C. L. R. James in his biography of Toussaint l'Ouverture, the great patriot and revolutionist of Haiti, lays a foundation for the understanding of the Negro slaves transplanted to the West Indies. Zora Neale Hurston's story of voodoo in Haiti and Jamaica shows that the native of today has retained much of his heritage; it also explains why he will never be westernized.

Toussaint L'Ouverture became the idol of San Domingo, as Haiti was then called, for his leadership of the slave revolt against the French in the latter part of the 18th century. It was the only successful slave revolt in history, which meant it had to be a bloody uprising. But no reader of this exhaustive story of the insurrection can feel much pity for the whites who were slain, in view of the unspeakable tortures they inflicted upon the wretched blacks they held in bondage.

Miss Hurston, who is colored herself, found the Haitian of today still steeped in the primitive religion—half magic, half mesmerism—known as voodoo. It is an eerie tale she has to tell of her initiation into the rites. Perhaps the most astounding is the account of the zombies—the half dead—who are buried, then brought back to life to work as slaves for their fellow blacks. She believes this unbelievable tale and one reader, at least, concurs.

Guide to Selecting Books for Children of All Ages

A very important part of a child's training has been completed by the time he reaches school age, according to Garry Cleveland Myers, child psychologist, and Clarence Wesley Sumner, librarian. The two have written "Books and Babies" [McClurg, $1.75] to help parents select books for children of all ages.

Recent Drama for Armchair Theatergoers

"Shadow and Substance," by Paul Vincent Carroll. [Random House, $2.]

"Herod and Mariamne," by Clemence Dane. [Doubleday-Doran, $1.75.]

"The Fabulous Invalid," by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. [Random House, $2.]

These three recently produced plays make excellent reading for the armchair theatergoer. Good writing, almost poetic in its simplicity, is found in "Shadow and Substance." A stern Irish canon cannot break through the emotional religion of his servant girl, and it requires tragedy for him to realize that he may have blundered.

"Herod and Mariamne" has been a starring vehicle for Katharine Cornell in New York. Its story is an old one—the tumultuous career of Herod, king of the Jews, and Mariamne, his wife in the days when the holy child was found in the manger. The play sweeps to a tragic conclusion, spurred on, paradoxically enough, by Herod's and Mariamne's great love for each other.

The invalid in "The Fabulous Invalid" is the theater itself, rising above vicissitude to exist. The play is a cavalcade of the stage—its glorious years, its collapse, its hope of rising again. S. M. K.

Story Rich in History

"The Kents," by Le Grand Cannon Jr. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

A wealth of historical material is drawn into "The Kents." Mr. Cannon charts the development of American business through the golden years of expansion after the civil war. Into his story he has woven drama and romance and choice bits about the "Old Board" in Wall street. Although the prose is sometimes halting, the deft development of character and sincere treatment of valuable material makes "The Kents" worth reading. L. W.

Glimpse of the Future

"Through the Fog of War," by Liddell Hart. [Random House, $2.50.]

This valuable work by Capt. Liddell Hart—to whom we already are indebted for "The War in Outline"—presents a logical and disturbing suggestion of what may be expected in the near future. The book is amazingly up to the minute. It analyzes the national defense problems of each country and projects the current trends in each that threaten to lead all to destruction. Mussolini's Ethiopian campaign is interpreted, and there is a last minute chapter on the Spanish situation, which was added when the book already was on the press. Americans will find much of interest in the illuminating chapter that deals with that mysterious figure, Lawrence of Arabia. C. L.

FREE... TO NEW MEMBERS

Joseph in Egypt, by Thomas Mann

—or any of the other Book-Dividends listed in coupon

If you decide to join the Book-of-the-Month Club now, we will give you free, as a new member, a novel which has been acclaimed as "perhaps the greatest creative work of the twentieth century"—JOSEPH IN EGYPT, by Thomas Mann (two volumes, boxed, retail price $5.00). This was one of the recent book-dividends of the Club. Or, if you prefer, you may choose one of the other recent book-dividends listed in the coupon.

Why miss in 1939—as you did in 1938—so many new books you would deeply enjoy?

THE self-examination provided at the left will show the degree to which you may have allowed procrastination to keep you from reading new books which you want very much to read. Over 200,000 families—persons like yourself—have found a subscription to the Book-of-the-Month Club a really effectual means of solving this problem.

You are not obliged, as a member of the Club, to take the book-of-the-month its judges choose. Nor are you obliged to buy one book every month from the Club.

Publishers submit all their important books to us. These go through the most careful reading routine now in existence. At the end of this sifting process, our five judges choose one book as the book-of-the-month.

You receive a carefully written report about this book in advance of its publication. If you decide from this report that it is a book you really want, you let it come to you. If not, you merely sign and mail a slip, saying, "Don't want it."

You Still Browse In Bookstores

Scores of other recommendations are made to help you choose among all new books with discrimination.

If you want to buy one of these from the Club, you can get it by merely asking for it. Or you can use these reports (we find that most of our members do) to guide you in buying these miscellaneous recommended books from a favored bookseller.

In other words, instead of limiting your reading, this system widens it. You can browse among the books as always, but now do it intelligently; you know what to look for.

Once and for all this system really keeps you from missing the new books you want to read. You do actually buy and read those you want, instead of confessing sadly to friends, "I never got around to reading that!"

In addition, there is a great money-saving. Time and again our judges' choices are books you ultimately find yourself buying anyway, because they are so widely talked about. (Outstanding examples of these in 1938 were THE YEARLING, WITH MALICE TOWARD SOME, THE HORSE AND BUGGY DOCTOR, and a list of others too long to include here.) For every two books-of-the-month you buy you receive, free, one of our book-dividends.

Free Books You Get

These book-dividends represent a unique system of saving through quantity production. The resulting economy is extraordinary. For every $1 you spend for a book-of-the-month you actually receive over 75¢ back in the form of free books.

Some of the actual book-dividends distributed within recent months is the best indication of what can be done by this system: they included BARTLETT'S FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS (a special $6 edition); JOSEPH IN EGYPT (2 vols., $5); the Pulitzer Prize edition of ANDREW JACKSON, by Marquis James ($5); MADAME CURIE, by Eve Curie ($3.50); THE ARTS, by Van Loon ($3.95). These books were given to members—not sold, mind you!

What's Your Obligation

You pay no yearly sum to belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. You pay nothing, except for the books you buy.

Your only obligation as a member is to agree to buy four books-of-the-month a year from the Club. These may be either current or past selections.

BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB, Inc., 385 Madison Ave., N. Y. N381

Please enroll me as a member. It is understood that I am to receive, free, the book checked below, that I am also to receive, without expense, your monthly magazine which reports about current books, and that for every two books-of-the-month I purchase from the Club, I am to receive the current book-dividend then being distributed. For my part, I agree to purchase at least four books-of-the-month a year from the Club.

Sherlock Holmes Experts.

When Vincent Starrett, author and Sherlock Holmes collecter, answered a telephone call one evening recently and an unfamiliar feminine voice said, "This is Irene Adler," he proved he was a Sherlock Holmes authority.

"How is 'the woman' this evening?" he inquired, remembering the character Irene Adler in A Scandal in Bohemia and the reference to her as "the woman" throughout the story.

"A noble bachelor" of Long Island sends "greetings" and a "blue carbuncle," continued the unknown telephone caller, continuing the Sherlock Holmes references. Turned out that she was a friend of Christopher Morley, who was arriving shortly to lecture, and he had told her to tell Starrett as much. Morley was in town on Jan. 6, which is Sherlock Holmes' birthday anniversary. The two friends celebrated appropriately.

During the broadcast of marriage license romances over W-G-N the other day, Quin Ryan interviewed a couple who said they were going to the Panhandle country of Texas on their honeymoon. Mr. Ryan, interested, asked them how they intended to go.

"O, we're going out Cicero avenue," answered the bride.

Brings to mind the story of the Bostonian who was leaving for a motor trip to the west coast, her first trip west. Asked how she was going, she answered, by way of Dedham.

Poetic Telephone Man.

A girl named Glenadine Hunt shares a Surf street apartment with another girl. They had a little verse tacked over their telephone for the benefit of visitors:

If you're gonna put something in this slot,
Be sure it's a nickel that ya' got.
Some like to drop in things called slugs;
We have a name for those kinda muggs.

The other evening when the roommates reached home they found the telephone man had been there to change the type of telephone. In place of their own verse they found:

No more slugs in the slot will be crammed
By the odd-named muggs who now will have scrammed
To other ripe fields their tokens to spend.
O heaven forgive me—this must be the end.

Under the picture of Miss Hunt's roommate he also had scrawled, "Kinda cute."

There's a second Chicago man who is a devotee of knitted wristlets—Harry Skallerup of the federal alcohol tax unit. He wears them daily all winter as a preventive of colds.

Swing Festival to Raise Funds for Settlement

BY JUDITH CASS.

MUSIC is to be THE THING at the Emerson Settlement house benefit planned for Jan. 28 at the Harvey restaurant, 308 South Michigan avenue. The women on the board asked the help of some of the city's amateur swing authorities in selecting a swing band in the city that is not a "name" band to play at the party. In addition to this group of musicians, which has been heard at some of the debut parties this winter, there will be an intermission band, thereby providing continuous music.

Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Lloyd A. Laflin, James C. Hemphill, and Mrs. Otis Chatfield-Taylor are the Emerson house board's music committee, and four greater swing devotees would be hard to find. Mr. Ashcraft and Mr. Laflin have been holding jam sessions alternately at their homes for several months. The latter is holidaying in Arizona now, but is returning to Chicago especially for the benefit.

For the first time the Emerson house board is giving a dinner-dance instead of a ball and at no increase in prices. For the first time, too, the benefit will be on a Saturday night. With the entire restaurant reserved for the party, Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr., chairman, and her committee have made plans to serve cocktails—with music by the intermission band—on the street level, followed by dinner on the floor below. The main dance floor will be on the lower level. Several champion jitterbugs will furnish entertainment during the evening.

Mrs. John R. Hurley is in charge of the entertainment and music, and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith is taking reservations. Miss Elizabeth Brown is in charge of publicity. Miss Brown is holding a meeting of the benefit and music committees at cocktail time on Monday in her apartment at 70 East Walton place.

Reveal Engagement of Virginia Hodges.

The dozens of friends of Miss Virginia Anne Hodges and Frank Balch Nairne Jr., who were invited to cocktails this afternoon by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley Hodges, suspected when they received their invitations that the party would be to celebrate the engagement of the popular young couple. The belief is confirmed with the formal announcement today from Mr. and Mrs. Hodges of the engagement of their only child to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balch Nairne of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Following the cocktail party Mr. and Mrs. Hodges are giving a dinner in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel for their daughter, her fiancé, and the Chicagoans who are to be in the wedding party early this spring. They include Miss Barbara Hess [who is to be the maid of honor], Miss Phoebe Massey, Miss Hester Reilly, John Benson, Frank Lagorio Jr., and Miss Laura Moyer, who will not be at either of today's parties, however, for she is recovering from the "flu."

Although no date has been set for the wedding, Mr. Nairne's sisters, Mrs. J. Wilbur Goodson and Dixie Nairne, who is just 16, and Miss Laura Keyes of Cincinnati have accepted invitations to be in the wedding party. Mrs. Goodson will be matron of honor. The other ushers will be easterners.

Miss Hodges, who attended the University School for Girls and the Latin School for Girls, was the youngest debutante of the 1936 season. Mr. Nairne is a graduate of Mercersburg and of Dartmouth. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

Georgia Simmons to Be Bride Today.

A pretty and attractive young woman who will come to Winnetka as a bride next month is Miss Georgia Simmons of St. Louis, who is to be married today to Harlan Trimble Pierpont Jr. of Worcester, Mass. Mr. Pierpont is engaged in business here.

Their wedding in St. Louis is to be a large one at the Second Presbyterian church, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. George W. Simmons. Richard W. Simmons is to be an usher and Monroe, president, and the members of the executive committee are sponsoring the show, which will be followed by tea. The costumes that will be displayed have been made by the students and have been chosen to meet budget demands and to enhance the personality type of each wearer. There will be costumes for the home girl, the sports girl, the gay gadabout, and the girl who loves dancing and formal affairs.

Good Morning!

Again the movies ask you to contemplate the terror of war, the waste of war, the cruelty and futility of war.

"Dawn Patrol" transports the observer back to France in the days of 1915 and to the home base of Air Squadron 59.

Each morning in tindery planes, the gallant, smiling youth of nations go up to patrol the skies; to meet and mix with the enemy. Each morning there are fewer men—fewer planes. . . . Reinforcements arrive, and always the newcomers are younger than the ones gone west whose duties they assume. . . .

Maj. Brand, squadron commander when the picture opens, is a nervous wreck. On orders from headquarters he must send his lads into the air. And then he must wait for them to come back. And never do all of them return. . . .

Courtney and Scott, friends of years, are his two ace flyers. . . . In time Brand is relieved and Courtney must stay on the ground, dispatch boys to their death and play that endless waiting game, and—finally order Scott's young brother into action. . . .

The boy's death turns Scott against Courtney—who—one morning, in the former's place, performs a gallant air coup that saves his friend's life, brings honorable mention to the squadron and results in the passing of a very gallant gentleman and great flyer. . . .

The acting is all skilful, the moral pointed, and some of the air stuf breath taking. But the tale is too repetitious. You see the same thing over and over again, the only variety introduced being in a change of characters playing practically identical rôles.

[Another woman minus movie—as you'll note by the cast.]

See you tomorrow.

Film Designer Adrian Admits He and Gaynor Plan to Be Married

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Janet Gaynor, the movie actress, and Gilbert Adrian, the costumer, acknowledged today they intended to be married.

"We don't know when or where," Adrian said.

Miss Gaynor, arriving from Hollywood with her mother, Mrs. Laura Gaynor, was met at the train by Adrian. She said the three planned a holiday of two weeks in the West Indies.

Adrian said he thought Miss Gaynor the best dressed woman in the country.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 13.—In "Jesse James" you will see Tyrone Power ride a horse off a seventy foot elevation and plunge into water. For that, Stunt Man Cliff Lyons earned $1,770 for about two hours' work. . . . In "Dodge City" you'll see three men engage in a free-for-all on a balcony twenty-two feet above the ground, and then, still locked in combat, crash through a railing and drop a full story to the top of a roulette table. For that, Stunt Men Cliff Lyons, Harvey Parry and Duke Green split $1,455, or $485 apiece. . . . The life of a stunt man is precarious, but the hours are good and the pay excellent.

Stunt men are paid $35 a day as salary, but the life blood of their profession is "adjustment." The adjustments cover every stunt that can be invented by a director in search of photographic action. For instance, the "adjustment" for Lyons to dive off a forty foot cliff into deep water, providing the cliff hasn't an overhang, would be $75. If he had to take the same dive off the same cliff into fairly shallow water, the adjustment would run closer to $350. The adjustment for falling down a stairway might be $50, but if the stairway were curved, the price would jump to $125. The highest prices demanded by the stunters are for leaps or falls in which they have to tangle with another stunter, because when they have to lock arms and legs with another man the chances of injuries mount in proportion.

The stunters average about $7,500 a year, which covers those lush years when a flood of action pictures sends their earnings as high as $18,000 in adjustments. . . . Some of them have been working as stunters for twenty-five years, and the average of picture life is thirteen years. . . . So well do they know their work that Lloyds of London rates them better insurance risks than policemen or firemen. They haven't had a fatality in their ranks in the last ten years. The last fatal accident occurred when one of their group lost his life during the filming of a portage shooting scene in Alaska. He and the two Eskimos in the canoe that overturned were drowned. . . . The stunters have a waiting list of 1,000 applicants for membership, but their elite corps, a specialized section of the Screen Actors' guild, is tougher to crash than a process stage.

The stunters are delighted that musical pictures have almost been wiped off the Hollywood calendar, because musicals put them on the shelf. . . . Pictures such as "Jesse James," "Dodge City," "Adventures of Robin Hood," "Wells Fargo," "The Buccaneer," "Gold Is Where You Find It," "Stand Up and Fight," "Three Musketeers," and "Suez" are sheer delight to the specialists in falls, dives, brawls, and leaps. . . . Often the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals steps in and calls off a stunt which Parry, Lyons, and the rest of them already have agreed to perform, and for which the adjustment has been established. . . . Lyons' 70 foot horseback drop to a tank of water, for "Jesse James," was banned by California humane officials. I believe that eventually it was photographed in a southern state that is synonymous with hoss racing, which is ironical. There is no association to prevent a stunter from risking his life or limbs, however.

One of the more amusing Hollywood behind-the-scenes scenes is to be on the set of such a picture as "Dodge City" when the unit manager of the company, the director and the stunt man get together to decide upon the amount of the adjustment. First, Director Mike Curtiz, of the incredible mixed speeches, explains what he wants the men to do, and the stunt man or men rehearse the action. In the rehersal the stunters make a keen examination of the layout they will have to traverse, and by the time the rehersal has ended the stunters have decided the stunt is worth $485. Curtiz thereupon becomes explosive with wrath. "What would you do it for, Mr. Curtiz?" asks one of the stunters. "That's different. I'm a horse of another color," says Curtiz excitedly. So they compromise—$485.

In addition to this group of eighteen stunt aces, headed by Parry, there are two other stunt organizations, the riding actors' and the flyers. The three outfits rarely poach on one another's territory. . . . Cracking up planes and upsetting a horse at full speed are specialties that must be practiced daily unless you want to pay with your life for negligence. The riding actors come into contact with the A. S. P. C. A. in every picture. Yet despite the scrutiny of this body, and despite the best opinion of the Riding Actors' association, quite a lot of cruelty is practiced on horses. Commonest evil is that of looping a wire around a horse's front leg, and then measuring out the wire so that he is jerked to a fall directly in front of the camera. It always makes me sick at my stomach to see this in a picture, a horse flying along at full speed and suddenly catapulted to the ground by a concealed wire.

The horses can thank England for escaping a lot more punishment. England, which has a very sincere love for horses, has an inflexible censorship law on all pictures that use horses, and unless the picture reaches England accompanied by statements from the A. S. P. C. A. and qualified witnesses that cruelty has not been practiced to achieve effects, the picture cannot be exhibited. It's a wisely gentle precaution, this, and every state in the Union might follow suit.

Up above I said that stunters rarely get injured. Exception, please, as Charlie Chan would say. Parry, head of the stunters, has fallen off cliffs, leaped to and from chandeliers, fought in a hundred movie saloon brawls, and never missed a day's work. In "Call of the Wild," he was one of two "drunks" walking along a board sidewalk. He was supposed to slip and fall six inches into the snow, and the six inch fall resulted in a broken back. There was a stake buried in the snow.

Ellen's on Way to Texas; Let's Wish Her Well

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Ellen Elward, 10 years old, is going to take a trip. That is news because Ellen, who has been ill in bed for more than a year, will take her trip without leaving her home at 421 Garfield boulevard. Ellen is a heart patient. She was in the fourth grade at St. Anne's school when someone noticed that she was tall and thin and listless. They suggested a medical examination. Before she could have it, though, she saw her baby sister killed in the street by a hit and run driver, and that, she remembers, did something queer to her heart.

Ellen Elward.

Since then she's spent seven months in St. Luke's hospital and six more in her little back bedroom. Ordinarily she is a happy little girl who does not complain when her friends go by her street with their skates over their shoulders. She smiles at them. She's learned to do that.

But Ellen's room on the second floor of the frame flat building looks out on a porch, and she misses one thing. She can't see the stars.

So she's going to Texas on a "dream" trip, arranged by the Chicago Heart association for her and forty-five other boys and girls with heart disease.

"I wish," and she speaks as surely as if she believed he wish would come true, "I wish I could see the sky and the stars and the Texas bluebonnets. And cowboys. I rode a horse once. And my daddy has been to Texas."

Now Ellen has a dozen travel folders issued by railroads, bus lines, aviation companies. She has a pair of scissors and some paste and is making a log book of the thrilling sights. When the trip is over [and she expects it to last a long time] she will write a story about it for the little magazine, My Surprise, mimeographed monthly by the Heart association for her and other young heart patients.

The little magazine is only one of the minor ways in which the Heart association serves the sick children. Through an annual sale of Valentine stamps, now in progress, Mrs. Gladys Brophil, an occupational therapist, is paid to visit each child weekly. She furnishes games, paints, wood to carve, and sewing things for the girls. This is in addition to the medical care and advice the association makes available.

Ellen, for instance, is piecing a quilt. Her stitches vary with her condition and in some places the quilt isn't very strong. She wasn't sewing yesterday at all because she was busy traveling.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The cruise trafic is terrific. If you want to get a good case of the blues, heavily shrouded in self-pity, just hang around a railroad station and see the people piling on to the trains headed east and south, all jabbering about the West Indies, South America, Panama, and what-not.

The cruise bound readers have been consulting us, too. Lately we've had a surprising number of inquiries about what kind of perfumes they should buy in the ports where they're so delightfully cheap. The safest answer to that is: Only recognized brands. Tourists get taken in sometimes, you know. We know of at least one who bought a lot of elegantly packaged perfume to bring to her friends. The friends found water in the bottles, but plenty of perfumed gold cord around the bottle necks. It's one of those things that can happen when the yen for a bargain tempts you to try things with strange names.

And, if you're heading for southern ports, for goodness sakes remember that the signs posted on shipboard about the dangers of tropical sun are not there just for decoration. You should hear ships' doctors rave about the consequences of ignoring these warnings! Tropical sun is nothing to bask in; the consequences of trying to soak it up, as some passengers insist on doing, can be plenty serious.

Stock up with sun preparations, and use them. A burn can spoil all your fun, to say nothing of your looks. And there are any number of good preparations on the market, not expensive either. Take deodorants, too, and all the cooling cologne you can carry. You'll find the cologne immensely refreshing in hot climates.

Catholic High Schools Gain in Enrollment

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

An increase of 1,881 pupils in the 75 Catholic high schools of the archdiocese was revealed in the annual report made to Cardinal Mundelein by the Catholic board of education. The report, submitted by the Very Rev. Msgr. Daniel F. Cunningham, superintendent of parochial schools, placed the high school enrollment at 22,361 pupils.

Msgr. Cunningham.

Enrollment in nine Catholic colleges and universities remained at the previous level of nearly 13,000. Decreases in lower grades follow general trends in virtually all parochial and public schools of the country. The greatest decrease reported was in the sixth grade with lesser declines in first, fourth, fifth, and seventh grades.

The report pointed to studies of the United States office of education which showed a national decrease of 800,000 elementary school pupils between 1930 and 1936. The decline in the birth rate during the last decade was held responsible. The total enrollment in 395 elementary schools of the archdiocese was reported at 158,565. The total enrollment in all Catholic schools of the archdiocese was 193,921.

In six parishes where shifting populations and normal elementary decreases made class rooms available, junior high schools were opened. Two new elementary schools were built during the year.

Striped Taffeta Fashions Smart Costume Slips

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Swish! Loads of good snappy color. Stripes that do the best job of optical illusioning as far as the streamline is concerned. There are slick fashion ideas in some new underlayers for dark colored wool clothes. Streamlined slips and little, short petticoats are made of gayly striped taffeta. Noisy but nice, sleekly fitted but practical; just about the snaziest ensemble of stripes unpacked.

The costume slips are cut to use the stripes as contrast. Some of the insets are diagonal, some use the perpendicular, still others go around in horizontal formation. A dizzy sounding mixup, but fatally attractive to the shopping eye and the cash supply.

These are not expensive. You can take your choice for about $3. These are perfect with thin wool crepe dresses in black, brown or navy or any other foundation dress or suit you may own. The background color is an off white, so the multicolored fancy stripes about a slender half inch wide are effective.

These slips are smooth fitting, slide around without pulling no matter how active the owner and live up to the purpose for what they were designed, a supersmooth underlayer without a fault.

Around the hemline is a four inch deep fluted flounce of the striped stuff featuring the stripes up and down. All sizes and lengths are obtainable, but it would be a most prissy soul who would object to a bit of the slip or dashing petticoat showing below an outside skirt.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Barsaloux of 2320 East 70th street announce the marriage on Jan. 10 of their daughter, Helen, to Wilson Popenoe of Guatemala. The ceremony was performed in the chapel of the Holy Grail.

Mr. Popenoe and his bride will sail on Tuesday for a three month wedding trip to South America. Upon their return they will make their home in Guatemala City.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

In a railway station a young man, apparently dying, gives the hero his wallet and baggage check to claim his luggage and get his medicine. Before he can carry out the errand Detective Mike Clancy starts to arrest him as a fugitive bank teller. But the dying man creates a diversion and the hero escapes. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, boards the train, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sherif Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him since babyhood. The sherif persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo, to fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, joins them at the airport.

INSTALMENT VI.

A LUXURY GUEST RANCH.

"Sit up front with me," Charles offered, "that is if you're interested in learning to fly one of these things."

"I'm not," I assured him, not bothering to explain that very likely I already knew more than he did about it.

Charles seemed relieved and Mrs. Lodge volunteered to keep him company so that Mary and I could be together.

It seemed at the time like a very gracious gesture on her part. Not that there was much opportunity for conversation after we took off. The motor was noisy and the cabin was not insulated the way the luxury liners are. Still Mary managed to point out the salient features of the landscape below us as we loafed along at 3,000 feet or so.

Finally we began to lose altitude in a wide bank. Charles had cut the motor and we were gliding. Mary pointed to a cluster of buildings beneath us and said, "That's the ranch!"

There were lots of buildings of various sorts, a landing field, a good many trees and even a considerable rectangle of green lawn, the last dotted with huge gay striped umbrellas and cabanas. It all looked very spacious and prosperous.

Our impending arrival caused a considerable commotion. Figures emerged from beneath the sun shelters and waved gayly at us and several men ran out of one of the main buildings. A car in front of it began to move toward the landing field. The only person who paid no attention apparently was a slim, perfectly nude woman lying on her stomach in a topless sun bathing tent. We were flying low enough now so that a clever marksman might have dropped a lighted cigaret on her back.

Mary laughed as she pointed. "That's Josephine. She wouldn't move if we landed right inside her tent. Laziest human woman I ever knew."

The motor picked up once more as Charles set his ship down with scarcely a jar.

From there on it was about like arriving at a great transportation depot of any sort. A man in uniform opened the cabin door, a station wagon [the car we had seen leaving the main building a few moments before] drew up alongside and we were driven in it for the few hundred yards which separated the landing field from the ranch buildings.

"Too bad Mark Twain never saw this," I said to Mary, "before he wrote 'Roughing It.'"

"Maybe you haven't had much experience with modern luxury guest ranches."

"Not any."

"I admit this is probably the best one there is," Mary conceded modestly. "Very likely it doesn't look much as it did when you left, even if you could remember it—which, of course, you can't. The main building there is the original adobe ranch house with a few additional wings on it. We use that for the mess hall, assembly rooms and offices. The family lives there, too. The little bungalows strewn all over the landscape are guest houses for the dudes. The stables and power house are back of that windbreak, a couple of hundred yards down the road."

The buildings, all but the ranch house, were modernized adobe—dazzling white with red, blue and yellow trim, all low and sprawly.

"But what," I asked, "is that red structure there on the hill?"

From the air I had thought it was only the level top of a red butte. Now from the ground level it was evident that it was a low flat building constructed of that velvet maroon rock which can be quarried almost anywhere in New Mexico. In general outline it resembled a Hopi Indian pueblo and was intended to, I suspect, but it had the stamp of authentic and very clever architecture on it which made it at once one of the most sinister looking, and at the same time, one of the loveliest modern houses I have ever seen.

"That," said Mary carelessly, "is my new home. It's just finished. Father gave us the land and all the money we needed to build and furnish the house. Claus Bjorgenson, the great modernistic architect designed it. You'll see it after the wedding tomorrow."

There it was again—that specter of a marriage tomorrow. I cursed my luck once more for ever stealing that ride on John Bowman's ticket. Had it not been for that I would never have fallen in love with a woman who was immediately destined to be another man's wife. For there was no use concealing the facts from myself—I cared more for Mary, although I had only known her a few hours, than for any other girl who had ever crossed my path.

It was all because she had, on a false premise to be sure, taken me so instantly into a delightfully tender and trusting intimacy. I had been placed on a footing immediately that I could not have attained otherwise in months, probably never unless I, not Charles, were the one who was destined to marry her.

The station wagon stopped at the door of the ranch house. Several smartly costumed lads in flaring trousers, gay sashes and boleros came hurrying out. One of them took my bag.

"Is this the opening chorus of a musical comedy?" I asked, indicating the glorified bellboys.

"No. They're just one of Charles' master touches," Mary assured me soberly. "Don't worry—they can't sing."

We were walking into the main room as we talked. It was quite a large hall, deliberately western with chandeliers fashioned from oxen yokes hanging from the ceiling, two huge stone fireplaces, hand hewn furniture, Navajo rugs and Mexican serapes on the walls. The strictly utilitarian office was at one end.

As we proceeded toward that office I could not help noticing half a dozen large oil paintings in heavy gilt frames and shadow boxes which adorned the walls. They were terrible. There was one of "The Fainted Desert" and another of "The Grand Canyon," both of which are dangerous subjects for any artist to attempt. Whoever did these wasn't up to it.

Charles had preceded us and was leaning over the desk talking to the clerk when we arrived.

"How do you feel about quarters, John?" he asked pleasantly. "Would you like to have one of the guest bungalows or bunk in your old room here in the house?"

"Here in the house, please."

"That's fine. The guest space is nearly full anyway."

"Business is good for this late in the season?"

He laughed. "None of this is really business. We were officially closed up last Monday. But we invited a few of the regular customers to stay on for the wedding—and then, of course, there are a lot of my friends who are just here for the occasion. It's all on the house, but fortunately everybody will be clearing out right after the ceremony." He took a deep breath. "Then we'll be closed tighter'n a drum until next spring. By that time Mary and I will be old married folks—won't we, honey?"

She did not answer his question. Instead Mary said, "I'll show John to his room."

Leading the way, followed by me and one of the boys with the bag, Mary went to a door opening off from the main room at quite a distance from the office.

We went in. The boy deposited the luggage and went away without a word being said.

For myself a sort of reverence silenced me—that, mixed with shame at my own temerity in having crossed this threshold as if I had a right to be there.

Profile View Shows Errors in Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Profile study is to be today's theme.

How long since you have made a profile study of yourself, outside of that more or less makeshift one when last you bought your hat? Right there you may have erred in not giving more time to the profile study. The hat might have been a better success for it, although, goodness knows, in these mad millinery days nothing insures a hat success.

Profile study was called to our attention the other day when a friend with a hand mirror turned on the effect of her new hairdo, let out a frenzied yell: "Look at my double chin. Ye gods, I never knew that was there."

The chin wasn't as bad as that, but it was beginning to show an incipient second growth.

Many of us manage to jolly ourselves out of the real facts by always seeing ourselves eye to eye, from center front. Many of us have suddenly discovered that the silhouette we thought so nice and flat in front, because we had only looked at it front view, loomed magnificently bumpy from a side view.

2,000 Attend Finals of School Chorus Contests

More than 2,000 persons crowded the Tilden High school auditorium last night to hear the final competitions in the four day choral festival sponsored by the board of education. Ten girls' choruses and three boys' choruses, representing south side high schools, participated. Division and section winners will be announced today by Miss Helen Howe, director of music for the schools.

It was for a mess of lentil pottage that Esau sold his birthright. Lentil soups and stews or "pottages," as they once were known, are as old as history. There are many varieties of lentils, but only one is used to any extent in this country. That one is a small brownish bean, flat, round, and smooth.

Lentils are more nutritious than any other legume except the soy bean, yet they aren't at all in common use despite their antiquity. This is probably because their color during cooking isn't wholly attractive and because if they are not combined with an acid food, such as tomatoes, their flavor is not particularly appealing.

But lentil soup made with tomatoes, spiced with onion, and seasoned with a piece of salt pork, bacon, or ham, can be delicious. Because of its health value and filling properties the soup probably should appear more frequently in winter menus.

Lentil Soup
[Serves six]

1 cup lentils
7 cups water
Ham bone or piece of ham or salt pork
½ cup diced celery and celery tops
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 cups tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 clove garlic [optional]
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon butter

Soak lentils in cold water for three hours. Drain off water and add two quarts of fresh water, the ham bone, ham, or salt pork, celery, onion, tomatoes, and seasonings. If the garlic is added it may be removed from the soup after half an hour. Cover and let cook very gently for three hours. Skim fat from top of soup and put through a sieve. The soup may be thickened by adding a flour and butter paste. To make it, blend the tablespoon of butter and the tablespoon of flour, add a little of the soup mixture, and cook until smooth and thick. Add to remaining soup and heat thoroughly.

Casserole of Lentils and Sausage
[Serves six]

1 pound lentils
1 medium onion, chopped
Salt, pepper
1 cup tomatoes
18 link sausages

Soak lentils in cold water for three hours. Drain and add fresh water. Cook until tender in boiling salted water with onion and tomatoes. Let most of the liquid evaporate. If there is too much, drain it. Put lentils in a buttered casserole. Arrange sausages over the top and cook in the broiling oven until sausages are brown and cooked throughout.

The hostess who likes to entertain with informal suppers will find helpful suggestions in Mary Meade's booklets, "Buffet Suppers and Dutch Lunches" and "Hostessing with Sunday Suppers." The booklets are on sale for 3 cents each at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, or will be mailed for 5 cents each in stamps. Address mail requests to Mark Meade.

his elder daughter, Virginia, is to be the flower girl. Mrs. S. Halleck du Pont of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. John Crago of St. Louis will be among their sister's attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simmons, "Ginny," and the baby, Dorothy, who has been given the nickname of "Dee-dee" by her sister, have gone to St. Louis for the wedding. Mr. Pierpont's bride will be a transfer to the Chicago Junior league. Her fiancé is a Harvard graduate. They will make their home in a garage apartment on Sheridan road in Winnetka, the same attractive and roomy one Dr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Mackenzie have been occupying until this week when they moved into their own new house in Hubbard Woods.

Mrs. King Wins Needlework Award.

It was a great surprise yesterday to Mrs. Charles Garfield King to be congratulated upon winning first and second prizes with her pictures in crewel stitch at the fourth national exhibition of Amateur Needlework of Today in New York. She had not been notified yet of the awards which were made on Wednesday, the opening day of the exhibit. It is being held at Sloane's at Fifth avenue and 47th street for the benefit of the New York Association for the Blind, Lighthouse No. 1.

The pictures are religious ones, Moses in the Bullrushes and Daniel in the Lions' Den. They were made to hang on the walls of the Kings' Victorian farmhouse in Dundee. A Victorian chair that Mrs. King made also was sent to the New York exhibit, and so was a needlework picture, St. Elizabeth's Madonna, that Mrs. King made several years ago and with which she won the gold star for the best piece in the 1937 exhibit. The Madonna was given to Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine as a birthday present, but she let Mrs. King send it to New York this year to be shown with the other gold star winners.

Mrs. King is the only Chicagoan among the fifty or sixty prize winners. Mrs. Kent S. Clow of Lake Forest was Chicago chairman for the exhibition, of which Mrs. William Warren Hoppin of New York is executive chairman and founder.

Gen. and Mrs. Dawes Married 50 Years.

Gen. and Mrs. Charles Gates Dawes have sent out invitations to a musical at 8:30 o'clock on Jan. 24 at their home in Evanston in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Peter Adams are being congratulated on the birth of a second son, Roy Philip Adams, on Tuesday at the Swedish Covenant hospital. The baby is a grandson of Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze.

The Arts club, which usually is dark on Sundays, will be ablaze with lights tomorrow night when another of the club's delightful dinner and musicals is given. Robert Virovai, the young violinist, will give the program.

Some of the hostesses who have reserved tables are Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president; Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. John Paul Welling.

Founder of Boys Town to Be Guest of Tavern.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the eminent English actor who is closing his engagement in "Shadow and Substance" tonight, and Father Edward J. Flanagan will be the especial guests at the Tavern club's breakfast tomorrow. Father Flanagan is the founder and director of Boys Town in Nebraska.

"Survey after Munich" is the interesting subject of the talk Graham Hutton will give at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago council on foreign relations at 12:30 o'clock today at the Palmer House. Mr. Hutton was until recently the assistant editor of the Economist in London. He will be introduced by Laird Bell, president of the council.

The woman's exchange will hold its annual marked down sale on Tuesday at the home of Edward I. Cudahy in State parkway. This morning brings another of the Saturday morning series of children's movies sponsored by the exchange at the Esquire theater.

The Housewife

We've yet to find the woman homemaker who is not fascinated by miniature objects. Now is her opportunity to see some unusually beautiful rooms all done in miniature. The furniture is on a slightly larger scale than that used by Mrs. James Ward Thorne in her famous series of miniature interiors, and is all in 18th century vein.

The little chairs, tables, couches, cabinets, chests, and beds are mostly accurate models of distinguished colonial American furniture from old mansions on Beacon hill in Boston. Three miniature rooms are decorated with them. Life size examples of the same items are also available. These pieces are well worth a visit.

Loving Mother Can Really Be Bad for Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

She came back from a visit of many months to her various nieces and nephews. And, of course, she had to talk it all over.

"You remember Patsy—what a darling she was when they visited here? She must have been about 2 then. . . . Well, she is really quite a problem. She's 8 and she's quite whiney and stubborn, but it's her eating that's the worst.

"You know how bustling and capable Eleanor is about things. She loves Patsy and she's worried to death about her food; she's such a slim, nervous little thing, and she doesn't eat. Family mealtimes are nothing but Patsy and her vegetables, milk, and stewed fruit.

"Well, after I'd been there for about two weeks, Eleanor had to go to see her mother who was sick, so I was left in charge of Patsy. We had such a good time. I got to love her again, and at each meal she nearly licked the platter clean. And then it dawned on me that Eleanor wasn't good for Patsy!

"Much as she loved her, she wasn't good for her. The only attention she gave her was in an eternal anxious watchfulness over her clothes, her habits, her health, and an eternal scolding, or reminding. No cuddling, no jolly times together, no show of affection, no approval. She just is getting nowhere with the child.

"I tried to tell her tactfully before I left, but I'm not sure that it will do any good because besides her ways with Patsy, Eleanor really needs to let herself down, to be less efficient, and easier on herself."

Are you good for your child?

Sometimes a situation like this one of Patsy and her mother is a matter of the mother's temperament. In which case she must sit back, look herself over [and her ways], and at least modify herself somewhat, for her child's sake, and eventually it will be for her own, too. But often this fanatical preoccupation with housework and the physical care of a child have become a habit which can be easily corrected if a mother's eyes can be opened and she can get a perspective on things.

Novice Knitter Will Like Making Angora Sweater

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

The tyro knitter must have a garment which she can complete in record time, and one which will remain in high style. The simple angora wool, knitted on large needles, is just such a model. It may be made by the novice who can knit and purl evenly and without fear of dropping stitches. Experienced knitters can make this garment in two or three days of steady working. The directions for the sweater are available in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42.

For instructions for knitting the simple angora sweater, No. X-177, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Russell Cowles Blends Modern with Academic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A brilliant one man show of oils and water colors by Russell Cowles has opened at the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue, to continue to February when it goes to the Minneapolis museum.

Russell Cowles is a young man who already is making a name for himself. His work has been found several times at the Chicago Art institute and he exhibits in various galleries throughout the country. He is not remarkable for that; he is remarkable for the subtle way in which he blends an honest modern viewpoint with a skilful academic approach.

His exhibition is an unusual blend of the two techniques. The double nature of his talent is better illustrated in the oils than the water colors, which, by the way, are a sheer joy, entrancing in color and captivating in theme and composition. It is amusing to watch how Mr. Cowles plays with the stressing of design. In "Watering the Geraniums" nothing [neither action, girl nor flowers] matters in the least; the entire effort is focused on making out of these elements an impersonal solution of a definite problem. Then turn to the thoroughly attractive, velvety and conscious "Adobe House in Early Spring" where no problems trouble and everything leads but to one goal, the pleasing of the eye.

Two contrasting still lifes give further food for thought. On the one hand there is "Big Apples," very modern, all angles and solid, bitter color, as picturesque as the staccato click of the castanet; on the other hand is the full voice of a cello with its mellow notes clearly heard in "Bread and Fruit," as academic a study and as beautiful as anything ever attempted.

The water colors are all in the traditional vein where only pure delight is sought. They are fascinating, funny sometimes, spiritual and delicious always. The "Mexican Platter," "Trees in Early Summer," "The Gold Screen," "Autumn in the Connecticut Valley," and "White Turkeys" are brilliant. "Alligator Pool," "Honest to Gawd," and "Apparition" are clever as well as being beautifully done.

Springlike and Flattering

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

It's January, which means it's spring in the fashion world. You're tired of wearing winter things, anyway, aren't you? It's time for something sprightly to relieve the midseason doldrums. Our pattern today offers a simple frock with distinctive lines. There are at least two ways you can style it. The model at the left has a plain V neckline trimmed with plaited edging. More of this trimming is used on the short puffed sleeves. Buttons decorate the bodice and a narrow tie encircles the waistline. The skirt is many-gored for flare and grace. Light and dark silks and prints are ideal for this model. If you're going south use washable cottons or silks.

The other version is more sophisticated. Its V neckline is scalloped, as is the buttoned closing. The puffed sleeves are long and there is no belt. The superbly paneled lines fit the dress beautifully to the figure. There is no trimming, so you can wear all kinds and quantities of costume or heirloom jewelry with this dress. Make it of dark or light colors.

Style No. 3080 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of ruffling.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Here's Advice to Boys Who Seek Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Joe finds himself wondering why he isn't popular with girls. He writes:

"I've met many girls I feel I'd like to pal around with, but for some reason or other, after two or three dates, they drop me for some other guy who hasn't half as much to offer them as I have. What's wrong with me, Miss Blake? I'm not bad looking, I make a fairly good salary, and I think I know how to use flattery. Could it be that my not wanting them to date any other man while they're going with me is the reason why I'm not a success in my affairs of the heart?"

All right, Joe, you asked us, so here goes. And perhaps other boys with far less or maybe more to offer than you have will harken to a few pointers on how to win a girl's heart!

In the first place, you lay yourself wide open to a doubt in the young ladies' minds that you're not quite sure of your charms, or you wouldn't be afraid of rivals. Too, women like men who keep them listening for the jingle of the telephone bell, and just when they've about given up hope of hearing from them, you're back on the job with a nice invitation to the movies, a dance, or a pleasant evening alone or with friends.

In the second place, you may have overlooked those little romantic attentions so dear to every woman. Flowers or candy needn't cost much, and such "romanticisers" are well worth every penny spent.

Then, too, there are such gallantry rules as these: Remember to tell her how pretty she is; notice when she's wearing something new and comment favorably; don't wisecrack at the expense of her comforts; act as though you're proud of her; be a Sir Walter Raleigh in disguise where good manners and little attentions are concerned; give her a chance to talk about herself occasionally; don't brag about your former conquests; and last, but not least, let your friendship be sincere. O, yes, and don't be too, too affectionate.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following hand occurred in our weekly duplicate game and partner and I 'missed the boat.'

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 heart	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"Opponents arched their eyebrows when I passed and, after I made four spades, chided me for passing my partner's 'absolute forcing bid.' I explained that inasmuch as I am a follower of the Culbertson system I did not recognize my partner's bid as anything more than a strong urge to continue bidding. Opponents do not play my 'system' [nor any other system], but they maintained that all jump raises and jump rebids are absolutely forcing, in any system.

"I would appreciate an answer to the following queries:

"1. Was my spade bid wrong?

"2. Should North have jumped immediately to game?

"3. Should I have bid three no trump over three spades?

"4. Should I have bid four spades?

"5. Was I forced to bid?

"W. K., Jersey City, N. J."

Answering these questions in order:

1. The spade bid, although highly questionable in so far as actual values are concerned, cannot be criticized because it is strategically the best action. If South passes over East's heart bid, the presumption [from South's point of view] is that North may rebid diamonds. South then will have a terrible choice of bidding his spade suit for the first time at a higher level or passing to a contract that he has every reason to fear.

2. Undoubtedly, North should have bid four spades. This is stronger than three spades and would be well justified by North's holding. As a matter of fact, North might well have cue-bid hearts, thereby suggesting a spade fit and forcing another bid from South.

3. Decidedly, South should not have bid three no trump. The only question was whether to pass or bid four spades.

4. Yes, South should have bid four spades despite his very anemic spade holding. Presumably, the hands would fit beautifully, despite South's void in diamonds. North's double jump could hardly be based on fewer than four trumps.

5. No, South was not forced to bid. The double raise, made by the opening bidder to a responder's bid, is not forcing. Compare these two situations:

Dealer	Responder
1 spade	3 spades

This three spade bid is absolutely forcing.

Dealer	Responder
1 heart	1 spade
3 spades

This three spade bid, although a strong urge, is not absolutely forcing. The reasons for this difference have been given by me time and time again in this column.

BURMAN DEALS FARR 5TH AMERICAN DEFEAT

CHICAGO FACES ILLINOIS; N. U. TO BATTLE OHIO

Notre Dame to Play Kentucky.

Games Tonight

Minnesota at Michigan.
Ohio State at Northwestern.
Illinois at Chicago.
Wisconsin at Indiana.
Purdue at Iowa.
Notre Dame at Kentucky.
Western Reserve at Michigan State.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's basketball team, defeated in its two conference games, still has hope of checking Ohio State's veteran team tonight in Patten gymnasium. By whipping Indiana, 45 to 38, a week ago the Buckeyes have declared themselves in on the fight for Big Ten honors.

Pick Dehner.

The Chicago quintet, apparently the best in several years, meets Illinois this evening on the Midway. After losing their opening game to Minnesota, the Maroons knocked over Wisconsin last Monday night, 28 to 18, holding the Badgers to four field goals. While the Illini took their opening game from Michigan, they were upset Monday by Indiana, 29 to 28. As a result Coach Doug Mills is expected to present a revamped lineup against Chicago.

Dehner Shifted to Guard.

Pick Dehner, veteran center, who is in second place in Big Ten scoring, has been shifted to guard. This permits Bill Hapac to go to center and Capt. Tom Nisbit, a guard, has been moved to forward, the position Hapac formerly held. The purpose of the changes is to get better offensive strength against Chicago's zone defense.

While Chicago's team has already demonstrated its possibilities, the Maroons still may be even better. Capt. Bob Cassels, who did not become eligible until last Monday and played only a quarter of the Wisconsin game, probably should be in better condition. Certainly he will bolster the team even if he still hasn't had sufficient practice to fit into the offense as smoothly as Coach Nels Norgren might wish.

Bill Murphy May Start.

Another late comer, Bill Murphy, ineligible earlier, is expected to start at guard in place of his twin brother, Chet. Bill has improved, and while Chet has a slight advantage in height and an excellent record so far, this is the night Bill will have his opportunity. Again, the presence of both makes the Maroons a far better squad than it was during the practice campaign. Whatever Chicago does will depend largely on Dick Lounsbury and Joe Stampf. Lounsbury already has scored 104 points this season as compared to his total of 101 points for all of last year's campaign.

Coach Dutch Lonborg still is shifting Northwestern's lineup in an attempt to find a combination which can score. The Wildcats were beaten by Purdue, 35 to 24, and last Monday night were whipped by Michigan, 37 to 28. Against the Wolverines Northwestern had many scoring chances but just couldn't hit.

Tonight Bob Shepard, who already has played guard and center this year, will be sent to forward. He will

3 IN ROW? HAWKS SEEK TO DODGE IT AT TORONTO

Games Tonight

N. Y. Americans at Montreal.
Chicago at Toronto.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It's Paul Thompson's erratic Blackhawks against Sport Smythe's irrational Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight. Though the Hawks beat the Leafs in Chicago, 1 to 0, last Sunday night and have lost only twice in their last ten games with the Leafs, many of the folks back home are apprehensive about the outcome of tonight's affair.

Since their aforesaid Sunday night conquest of the Leafs in a seventeen penalty spectacle, the Hawks have been going places. But only on railroad trains. Last Tuesday night the Chicagoans lost their fourth straight to the Boston Bruins in Boston and Thursday night in New York they dropped a 6 to 0 decision to the Rangers, who previously had scored only one goal against them in three games.

Hawks Drop to Fifth.

The Hawks Thursday night plunked to fifth place and the Leafs moved a half game ahead of them. This parallels the situation a week ago. On Saturday night the Leafs went a half game ahead of the Hawks, then dropped back to fifth as the Hawks resumed fourth on that 1 to 0 victory here Sunday night. If they win tonight, the Hawks again will go to fourth.

The suggestion that the Hawks may have difficulty in accomplishing this happy fluctuation doesn't hinge entirely on the fact the Hawks took a 6 to 0 whipping their last time out. On the same night the Leafs ripped into the Montreal Canadiens for a 9 to 4 victory, the largest count of the National league season.

Hawks Play Here Tomorrow.

Syl Apps, the very rapid Leaf center, made five points in that big surge. This former Olympic games high jumper jumped up to sixteen points in the league's individual scoring records and with those five points tied the season record for an individual in a single game.

Thompson will bring his squad back to Chicago to play the Rangers tomorrow night still possessed of the confidence of Owner Frederic McLaughlin, it was said at Hawk headquarters here yesterday.

U. S. C. Paper Rakes Wade for Attitude in Defeat

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The reaction of Wallace Wade, Duke university football coach, to his team's defeat in the Rose Bowl New Year's day game is termed "a new low in sportsmanship" in the current issue of the University of Southern California alumni review.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

PIGGY LAMBERT, Purdue's famous basketball coach, says the Boilermakers haven't got it this year. . . . He predicts that Minnesota, Indiana, and Ohio State will fight it out for the Big Ten championship. . . . He rates Minnesota as good a ball handling team as he ever nas seen. . . . Billy Miske Jr., son of the old heavyweight who fought the best men of his day despite his physical handicaps, is following in his father's footsteps. . . . He is winning consistently on Twin City boxing cards. . . . The St. Louis Cardinals scored 725 runs in 1938 and had the same number scored against them. . . . Mercer Beasley, tennis coach who developed Frankie Parker and other net notables, has returned to the Princeton staf after a year's leave of absence. . . . Kid Chocolate has retired from the ring again, but this time he says it's for good. . . . College wrestling coaches are excitable chaps. . . . Midway through a recent match, Coach Wes Brown of Northwestern dropped back in a chair and exclaimed: "I'm exhausted. I've competed in six bouts already." . . . Babe Pratt, defense man with the New York Rangers, has gained thirty-eight pounds since turning professional three years ago. . . . International league baseball clubs, in response to complaints from concessionaires, will issue no passout checks to patrons next season. . . .

Charlie Hoyt, Michigan track coach, rarely commits himself on a sophomore prospect, but he admits that Warren Breidenbach, sprinter and quarter miler from Dayton, O., ought to go somewhere next spring. . . . Despite a losing season, Nebraska's football profits did not fall off in 1938. . . . The net proceeds, $135,000, were approximately the same as the year previous. . . . Fred C. Clarke, former manager and outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, lives in Winfield, Kas. . . . He is an official of the national semi-pro baseball congress. . . . Mel Ott is the new captain of the Giants, succeeding Gus Mancuso, now a Cub. . . . Lou Nova, rising young heavyweight, sleeps in woolen pajamas and wears long underwear. . . . He is a mixture of four strains, Scotch, Irish, Italian, and German. . . . Spurgeon Chandler, Yankee pitcher, helped Georgia beat Yale in football three times. . . . Chandler was one of Georgia's leading half backs.

Benches.

They're here and there throughout the park . . . for those who wish to sit . . . and nursemaids who are tired may rest . . . and others who may knit. . . . There's one or two placed out in front . . . of the house where I reside . . . and when its warm the ladies sit . . . with children side by side. . . . The football player gets it . . . for something he does wrong. . . . There's one with our piano . . . where I sit to sing a song. . . . The old judge sits upon his bench . . . and fines the ones who speed . . . or otherwise do break the law . . . and seldom are they freed. . . . When winter's through and spring arrives . . . the benches in the park . . . are filled with those who wish to be . . . together, in the dark. —Dorothy Speake.

The Filly Derby.

How about a Derby on Wake contributions? At present, Dorothea is an odds on favorite to win. Following are my winter book quotations:

Pauline the Problem: 10 to 1.
Svelte Susie: 20 to 1.

Compensation.

Did ever any word of mine
Linger awhile when I had gone
To touch some shadow in your heart
With brightening dawn?

Or did some simple song of mine
One time you heard me softly sing
Just for a moment in your soul
Faint echoing ring?

If you but keep one word, one song,
To cheer that hour you are sad,
Forget the singer, he is well
Knowing you're glad.
—Larry of Loras.

Rain at Night.

What is so soothing while lying in bed,
As the patter of rain on the roof o'erhead?
To watch the lightning and its brilliant flash,
And to await expectantly the thunder crash.
To hear water trickle through the eaves
Tends to put one's mind and heart at ease.

I can hear the whistle of a far off train,
As it goes its way through the pouring rain.
I can hear drops tinkle as they fall below,
It's a metallic sound, that's all I know.
My worries dissolve with the drops as they fall,
They put me to sleep, nothing more, that's all. —T. J. Benet.

MACOMB BEATS ST. MARY'S FIVE; CAVALIERS WIN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The La Salle Hotel Cavaliers and Macomb Teachers were victors in last night's basketball double-header before a crowd of 2,700 in the Coliseum. The Cavaliers, now leading the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league, looked right sharp in beating the Fruehauf Trailers of Tulsa, Okla., 38 to 26.

The Trailers, who once held the national title as the Tulsa Oilers, lived up to their new name in the first half, from which they emerged trailing, 22 to 7.

Macomb Rallies to Win.

Macomb rallied in the closing minutes for a 38 to 36 decision over St. Mary's college of Winona, Minn. The college contest was a thriller. Stewart made Macomb's first point in the fourth minute, after Wagner and Barry had given St. Mary's a 6 to 0 lead.

Near the end of the half, with the Minnesotans leading, 19 to 13, Stewart, Hughes, and Fulks scored from the floor to tie it up, after which Stewart sent in a goal from midcourt to give the Illinois boys a 21 to 19 lead at half time.

Stewart Makes Seven Baskets.

At the outset of the second period Wagner connected three times to offset Hughes' basket and Vaickus hit on two free throws to give St. Mary's a 27 to 23 margin. Cabrese made it 29 to 23, but Hughes, Stewart, and Fulks tied it up with three baskets. Trailing, 34 to 29, Macomb went to work in the last six minutes, Shores touching the rally off with a basket and Stewart contributing the final seven points. Stewart led all scorers with sixteen points.

Hold Rites for Col. Ruppert, Owner of Yankees, Monday

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champion New York Yankees, succumbed to a long illness today. He was 71 years old.

He had been hovering near death for two days, alternately lapsing into coma and recovering consciousness. In the periods of consciousness his mind remained clear and he recognized friends and relatives at his bedside, but his strength gradually waned. His physicians expected his death hourly and a priest was called to administer extreme unction.

He passed a restful night, according to his physicians, and when he awoke at 8:15 a. m. he spoke to Al Brennan, his personal secretary for the last twenty-seven years, saying, "Good morning, Al." He drank a little orange juice just before his doctor, Dr. Otto Schwerdtfeger, called at 10 a. m.

Stricken in April.

The colonel did not speak while the physician was at the house and he lapsed into unconsciousness a few minutes after the physician departed. He remained in a coma until his death at 10:28 a. m. The colonel never had recovered his strength after suffering an attack of phlebitis, inflammation of the veins of the legs, last April. From that affliction several complications developed.

A high requiem mass will be celebrated for Col. Ruppert Monday at St Ignatius Loyola church on Upper Park avenue. Burial will be private in the Ruppert family vault at Kensico cemetery.

At his bedside when he died were his brother, George E. Ruppert of New York City and Rye, vice-president and secretary of the Jacob Ruppert brewery, his sister, Mrs. Harry Garrison Silleck Jr., of New York and Greenwich, Conn.; a nephew, H. Garrison Silleck 3d of Northport, and a niece, Miss Anna Schalk of New York City, daughter of the late Mrs. Herman Schalk.

Amassed Great Fortune.

The colonel's great success in managing his vast real estate holdings and building up his brewery had led to his amassing a fortune estimated by associates as being somewhere between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000. He owned all but ten of the 3,000 shares of stock in the New York Yankees, his brother holding six and directors the other four.

Ruppert Calls Ruth 'the Babe' for First Time

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Though Col. Jacob Ruppert took great pride in the prowess of Babe Ruth, he never once in the long years of their association called the mighty Yankee slugger "Babe" to his face until Ruth went to see him last night, a few hours before the colonel died.

This was learned today when the Babe, saddened by the passing of his former boss, told of the visit he paid to the death room.

He telephoned to Al Brennan, the colonel's personal secretary, at 6:45 p. m. last night and said that he wanted very much to see Col. Ruppert.

"Come right on up," Brennan told him.

Ruth arrived at the house at 7:15 p. m., and Brennan ushered him into the room where the colonel lay in bed. Two nurses, Miss Ann McGee and Joseph P. Healy, were in the room. The Babe tiptoed to the bedside and stood there silently, looking down at the colonel, who lay with his eyes closed.

All was quiet. Suddenly the colonel spoke.

"I want to see the Babe," came the words faintly.

Miss McGee bent over the bed and said: "He is right beside you."

The colonel made an obvious effort to speak. His lips moved and he turned his face toward Ruth.

"Hello, Babe," he finally whispered.

Ruth put his hand on the colonel's pale hand lying on the sheet. He held it a moment and then patted it, tears running down his face the while.

"You are going to snap out of it," he told the colonel as heartily as he could. "We'll go to the opening game of the season."

When the attendants signaled it was time for him to leave, Ruth had to extricate his hand from the colonel's grasp. He backed toward the door, and as he did the colonel spoke again.

"Come back, Babe," he said.

But the nurses shook their heads. It was time for Ruth to go.

STORY OF HIS LIFE

Col. Jacob Ruppert was born in New York City on Aug. 5, 1867. He was the son of Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Ruppert Brewing company, and Anna Gillig Ruppert. His paternal grandfather was a brewer in Bavaria and afterward in New York City.

Young Jacob entered the brewing business as a barrel washer, and afterward served his time in the various departments, eventually moving into the office to learn from his father the administrative details. When he was 23 years old Jacob was placed in charge as general superintendent. He did so well that in 1890 the position

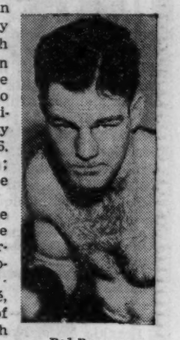
CROWD CHEERS BRITON'S RALLY, BOOS DECISION

9,756 Watch Fight in New York.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Clarence [Red] Burman was awarded a ten-round decision over Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight, in Madison Square Garden tonight to the accompaniment of boos by the crowd of 9,756. Farr scaled 201½; his Baltimore rival 183½.



Red Burman.

In a tough, free punching battle all the way, Burman, Jack Dempsey's heavyweight protegé, had the better of the going through the first six rounds, but was tagged often by the more experienced Welshman in the closing heats.

The spectators booed the decision for nearly five minutes after the fight ended, and gave Farr a roaring cheer as he left the ring. Joe Gould, Farr's manager, announced in the dressing-room later that he would ask the New York state athletic commission to reverse the verdict.

Burman Launches Attack.

The decision went down as one of the major boxing upsets of the young year, since Burman, 13 to 5 underdog going into the ring, was rated little chance against the veteran puncher. For Farr, it was just a Friday the 13th jinx added to the hoo-doo under which he has been traveling since beginning his American invasion. Burman was his fifth opponent in this country—and the fifth to beat him.

After a slow first round, Burman began a mauling body attack in the second and continued it with such force through the next five rounds that he piled up enough points to get the decision through the votes of Judges Patsy Haley and Eddie Forbes. Referee Pete Hartley called the fight a draw.

Farr Rallies Near Finish.

Burman's chief dynamite throughout the fight was packed into a jarring right hook under Farr's heart. In the second, this blow landed, repeatedly, causing Farr to hold, and but for a low punch, which lost him the round, the 23 year old red head would have wound up with a clear margin in the third.

Farr looked slightly better in the fourth, twice forcing Burman to the ropes, but on each occasion the Baltimore boxer, making his début as a windup fighter in New York, came right back at him with a two fisted attack. Farr was hurt by a series of left hooks to the chin, which Red mixed with rights to the body, in the fifth. In the sixth Burman repeated the procedure, but Tommy came back in the closing moments and was punching with both hands at the bell.

From that point to the finish, Tommy gave as good as he received, Burman was dazed by a furious two handed attack by Farr in the ninth.

Knox Beats Crowell.

In one of the ten round preliminaries, Buddy Knox, 187¼, beat Chuck Crowell, 207½.

In the other ten rounder, Roscoe Toles, 197¾, of Detroit, stopped Gus Dorazio, 188½, Philadelphia, in two minutes, four seconds of the seventh round.

Patrick Edward Comiskey, the most talked of heavyweight youngster in these parts in years, stopped Marty Lieberman of Newark, N. J., in three rounds.

COVELLI BEATS GEN IN VICIOUS WHITE CITY BOUT

Japanese Boxer Holds Foe Close; Davis Wins in 1st.

Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, pounded out a decision in ten vicious rounds over Umio Gen of Japan in White City last night. In the sixth round they crashed head on. When they were separated Covelli had a severe head cut. The decision was not unanimous. Judge James Lynch called it a draw, Referee Norman McGarity voted 56-44, and Judge Henry Froula 52-48 for Covelli. Covelli weighed 125½ pounds and Gen 128. It was the latter's first fight here.

The 1,365 fans were on their feet most of the time cheering as the rivals punched away at each other. Gross receipts were $1,441.

Verle Davis, Kankakee lightweight, achieved the best victory of his career when he scored a one round knockout over Willie Ross in the semi-final. In preliminary matches Star Harvey and Bill Palmer fought a draw, Art Lind beat Jake Carter, Jimmy Santori upset Kenny Bell, and Marion Mosley whipped Mike Adler.

Pete Altizer of the 124th Field Artillery armory won a five round decision over Andy Franks, Kankakee, Ill., featherweight, in the windup of the amateur fight show last night in the Madison Athletic club. Today is the last day to enter the annual amateur boxing tournament in the Illinois Athletic club Jan. 17, 18 and 25. Ninety-one entries have been received to date by Athletic Director Johnny Behr. This is an unusually large representation and indicates the list will be the greatest in the seven year history of the meet.

Negotiations are being completed for presentation of one major show a month in the Coliseum or International amphitheater under the joint promotion of Sam Abruscato of White City, Harry Hannin of Park Casino, and James C. Mullen. . . . Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, is in New York seeking talent for a proposed program in the west side building next month.

GLENBARD FIVE IS DEALT 37-26 DEFEAT BY YORK

St. Mel Seniors Upset Mount Carmel.

York High school's basketball team dealt Glenbard its first defeat in the heavyweight division of the West Suburban league last night, scoring a 37 to 26 triumph in Glen Ellyn.

Despite the loss Glenbard, with a record of four victories and one loss, stayed in first place, its closest rival, Hinsdale, losing to Downers Grove, 24 to 18. Hinsdale has won four games and lost two. In another West Suburban contest, Riverside triumphed over Maine, 26 to 23.

St. Ignatius Triumphs.

St. Mel upset Mount Carmel, 30 to 28, to take the lead in the senior division of the Catholic league's south section. Ray Crowley dropped the winning field goal with 30 seconds left to play. Mount Carmel won the junior game, 29 to 26, in overtime.

St. Ignatius' seniors took over the north division lead by beating Weber, 42 to 25, while De Paul was losing to St. George, 36 to 20.

The Lake View and Lane senior quintets each triumphed yesterday to tie Senn for first place in the north section of the Chicago Public High School league. Each has won its two games. Senn was idle.

Lake View defeated Schurz, 34 to 31, but was forced to put down a late rally. Lane dealt Steinmetz its first defeat, 32 to 28. Marshall's seniors beat Tuley, 35 to 29, and joined Kelvyn Park, Wells, and Crane as undefeated leaders of the West section.

Waukegan Beats Proviso.

Roosevelt whipped Amundsen, 29 to 19, to go into a first place tie with Sullivan in the North division's junior competition. Sullivan wasn't scheduled, and shares the lead with a record of two victories and no losses.

Waukegan whipped Proviso, 41 to 39, to take the lead in the Suburban league heavyweight race. Graham, forward, scored 20 points to lead the winners' attack. Lineups:

Maroon and Illinois Fives Meet Tonight

pair with Les Harman. This move makes a place for Bob Koble at center. Koble scored three field goals against Michigan in the short time he played and Coach Lonborg is hopeful he has regained his form which made him the best center prospect in the early practice games.

Ad Vance and Bob Voigts have been named to start at guard with Al Butherus certain to play part of the time. The team will still be without the services of Jim Currie, veteran guard, who has been ill with influenza.

Capt. Jim Hull is one of Ohio State's principal scoring threats. All of the members of the Buckeye starting team are lettermen. Dick Baker lines up with Hull at forward. John Schick is the center, and his 6 feet 4 inches will make him the tallest man on the court.

Undefeated Minnesota, victor over Chicago and Iowa, will play Michigan in Ann Arbor tonight. Purdue, idle since a week ago, travels to Iowa City to face the Hawkeyes, who have lost two Big Ten games. Wisconsin plays Indiana at Bloomington, completing the conference schedule.

Ernie Davis, regular guard for the last two years on the Wisconsin team, has withdrawn from the squad. A heavy schedule in the medical school, Davis explained, made it necessary for him to quit basketball. He was the only regular back from last year's team.

GOAL OF 600,000 SYPHILIS TESTS SET BY DR. BLACK

Thinks New System Will Double '38 Total.

A goal of 600,000 blood tests in 1939 was set yesterday by Dr. Robert A. Black, acting president of the city board of health. This figure, doubling the achievement of 1938, reflects Dr. Black's confidence in the new features of the anti-syphilis campaign.

The council of the Chicago Medical society on Tuesday approved a plan to enroll its 4,000 members in the work. They are to make educational talks before school and industrial groups, and draw blood for free testing in the city laboratories. This work, now virtually halted, was done by forty physicians employed with WPA funds on a city project. Most of these physicians have been withdrawn from mass testing and are now assigned to treatment of cases.

Cites Complete Harmony.

"There is complete harmony between the health department and the Chicago Medical society on the program," said Dr. Black. "These two powerful forces have joined in a fight to eradicate syphilis in Chicago within the shortest possible time."

Although last year's record showed a 330 per cent incerase in the volume of blood tests, Dr. Black said there must be swifter progress. At that rate it would tak. ten years to reach all of the city's population of over 3½ million persons, he pointed out.

Under the new testing system emphasis will be placed on education, to the end that the public will seek examination in private physicians' offices. The old plan was to send crews of WPA physicians into high schools, factories, and neighborhoods to make mass tests of all volunteers.

Select Physicians for Talks.

"Physicians are being selected by the dozen branches of the medical society to make the educational talks," Dr. Black said. "They will urge—beg, in fact—that listeners have Wassermann tests made by their family doctor.

"We will do all we can in that way, and then send a private physician to the industrial plant, or school, or neighborhood to make tests of the remaining ones, with their permission."

Blood tests in most instances will continue to be given free of charge, Dr. Black said, although it will be left to the discretion of private physicians whether to make a charge for taking the specimen.

Believe Private Tests Best.

"If a person goes to a private physician for the test a general examination might be made at the same time, benefiting the individual," he said. "This is not an effort to get more business for the doctors. It is an attempt to start an improvement in health from the civic standpoint."

Some of the original leaders in the anti-syphilis drive here expressed anxiety over the new plan. Privately, they said, few persons will have tests made if they have to go to a doctor's office and perhaps pay him.

Howard O. Hunter, regional WPA administrator, who approved the city syphilis testing project, refused to comment on the changes.

BRITONS DEVELOP FOLDING WING TO AID MONOPLANES

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A retractable auxiliary wing for landings and take-offs has been devised by the Fairey Aviation company. It was announced today that, to all intents and purposes, the wing converts a highly loaded, fast flying monoplane, at the will of the pilot, into a slower, more manageable biplane.

It is to be embodied in a new thirty passenger low wing monoplane airliner by order of the air ministry.

When retracted this new auxiliary wing lies under the after-part of the main wing, practically forming a part of it. The auxiliary wing may be lowered into two main positions. In the halfway position it lies with its forward half under the main wing and its trailing edge standing out behind it, permitting an easy takeoff. Further extended, the subsidiary wing takes the position of a slotted flap to make possible a slower landing.

ASSOCIATED GAS ACCUSED BY SEC OF FALSE DATA

Threatens to Delist Company's Stock.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—Continuing its drastic drive on false financial statements, the Securities and Exchange commission today filed charges against the Associated Gas and Electric company, the third big holding company to be put on the carpet on these charges.

The SEC accused Associated Gas and Electric with false and misleading statements in its registration statement and three annual reports filed with the commission.

Previously, the commission brought similar charges against Trans-America corporation, 200 million dollar holding company for the Pacific coast banking and investments of A. P. Giannini, and the Alleghany corporation, top holding company of the former Van Sweringen railroad empire. The hearings on Trans-America will open here Monday.

Threatens to Delist Stocks.

In its charges against Associated Gas and Electric, which has gross assets of more than a billion dollars, the SEC ordered the company to show cause on Feb. 14, at a hearing here, why its common and class A stock should not be removed from trading on the Boston and Los Angeles Stock exchanges and New York Curb exchange.

The utility holding company has subsidiaries in New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, New Jersey and Florida and Georgia.

The commission charged that the company's registration statement covering 1934 and its annual reports for 1935, 1936 and 1937 presented an overstatement of consolidated property accounts, net income accounts and corporate earned surplus accounts in the concern's consolidated balance sheet.

Regards Property Overvalued.

In 1934, said the commission, the company overstated its property account by about 170 million dollars and its consolidated earned surplus account by about 135 millions. In the same year, the SEC complaint said, the company set up its accounts in such a way that a 1934 loss was understated b yabout $2,800,000.

In addition, the commission charged that the company failed to disclose in its registration statements its relationship to persons controling it or to state material facts pertinent to the possibly existence of control. The commission said that the company failed to list all persons other than directors, officers or employes who received more than $20,000 remuneration in 1934.

Culmination of Long Feud.

Today's action by the SEC culminates a long feud between the company and the government. Associated Gas was one of the leading opponents of the Public Utility holding company act of 1935. Testimony before a senate committee investigating utilities showed that the company spent about $1,500,000 fighting the legislation.

Howard C. Hopson, former officer of the company and credited with controling the big utility, also has given the government some difficult moments. He dropped out of sight when a senate committee subpenaed him in 1935 for questioning. Then last in 1938 he appeared before the SEC but refused to testify on matters of Associated Gas and Electric.

Concerns Utility Reorganization.

The hearing at that time concerned the reorganization of Utilities Power and Light corporation and the Associated Gas company's relation to it. The utilities magnate declared then that he had retired as an officer of the company and had been retained as its counsel. As counsel he could not divulge matters which he had learned in confidence, Hopson said.

Meanwhile, the Transamerica contingent from the west coast has set up headquarters here in the exclusive Mayflower hotel, preparatory to the opening of hearings on Monday. A de luxe staf of lawyers has been retained by the Giannini interests.

Donald Richberg, former NRA administrator and one of the original Roosevelt brain trusters, heads the defense counsel. Giannini himself once was an ardent booster of the administration.

Other Giannini Lawyers.

The other Giannini lawyers are William Stanley of Washington, former assistant attorney general; T. W. Dahlquist and Hillyer Brown, both of San Francisco.

The SEC order against Trans-America is to show cause why the $2 per capital stock should not be removed from listing on the New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco Stock exchanges.

A press agent has been retained to handle Trans-America's side of the case.

Company Plans Answer.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Representatives of the Associated Gas and Electric company said today they were confident they would be able to answer satisfactorily charges made against the company by the Securities and Exchange commission.

May Boost Texas Oil Quota to Reduce Louisiana Sales

Austin, Tex., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Chairman Lon A. Smith of the state railroad commission says the oil production allowance of the east Texas field may be boosted substantially unless Louisiana trims its production soon. The purpose, Smith said, would be to reduce importations of Louisiana oil into Texas.

Jordan Calls State of Union Not So Good

A mythical "president" of the United States reported on the state of the nation yesterday.

Dr. Virgil Jordan.

Dr. Virgil Jordan, economist and head of the National Industrial Conference board, became the "president" in an address before the Executives' Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman. He assumed the rôle, he said, in order to explain what is wrong with the nation as an actual president might make such explanation after he had examined the country's problems.

"President" Jordan patterned his address after what he termed the "recent presidential massages of the public mind" which have emanated from the White House during the fireside hour. His talk, however, was not as optimistic as those which frequently come from the nation's capital.

Views Prosperity Lacking.

The present static condition of business and industry is caused by the fact that the American people are not prosperous enough to keep them going, Dr. Jordan said. And the people are not prosperous enough because they are not producing enough, he asserted.

"Per capita production in this country has been below the level of 1929 during all of the depression years," Dr. Jordan said. "First, there are not enough people working. Second, those who are working are not producing enough."

The reason production, and resultant prosperity, is lagging is because since the depression began there has been no investment in productive machinery, according to Dr. Jordan. He asserted that the nation is $100,000,000,000 behind in such investment, and in this respect is living on the work of the past.

Blames Government Policies.

"The influence of government is responsible for this condition," Dr. Jordan said. "The expenditures of government have become so great that the national income has been mortgaged for years to come. Thus the state has absorbed the income formerly turned to productive machinery. This has made government the dominating factor both mentally and physically in the life of the people."

Dr. Jordan warned that, as private enterprise waned, so did the spirit and courage of the American people. He asserted that, under the influence of the state which has assumed responsibility for the care of its people to such a great extent, the people have become reluctant to take any risks to attain some desired goal. They have become passive, he said.

Wants Production Increased.

To defeat this enervating trend, Dr. Jordan said, it will be necessary to increase the productive activity of the people and to encourage initiative and progress. Most actions of the present administration, he asserted, have had the opposite effect.

In his concluding remarks, Dr. Jordan was somewhat more optimistic. He said that, barring war, excessive exploitation of war for political purposes or "other aberrations of the burocracy that controls our destinies," business activity in 1939 probably will not slip back much from current levels."

FRISCO RAILWAY ORDERS 12,500 TONS OF RAILS

An order for 12,500 tons of 112-pound rails has been placed with the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company by the St. Louis-San Francisco road, it was learned yesterday. This is one of the earliest railroad steel orders this year in the Birmingham district.

Possible revival of demand for pipe line by oil companies was foreseen in the award of 15,000 tons of pipe by the Illinois Pipe Line company, a division of the Ohio Oil company. The order was divided among Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, National Tube company and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company. Consumption of pipe has been dormant recently.

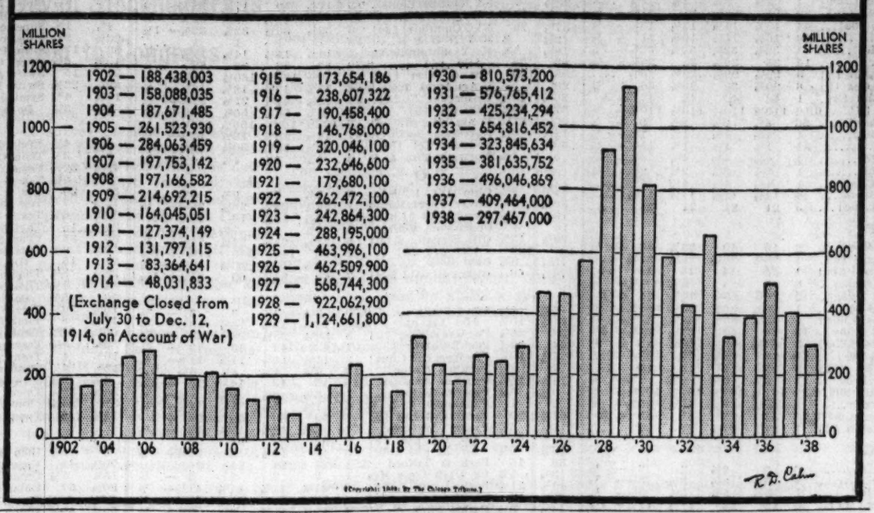
Total Sales of Stock on the New York Stock Exchange 1902-1938



Stocks Slide Again; Foreign Events Blamed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—The stock market continued to slide today, registering its eighth decline out of ten sessions this year. Losses ranged from fractions to more than 1 point. Dealings were quiet, only 843,780 shares changing hands. Of 743 issues traded, 341 declined, 208 advanced, and 194 closed unchanged.

The list opened on a weak note and continued depressed throughout the morning. Declines in the leaders ranged from fractions to 1 point. Around midday there was a modest rally, with many issues coming back to previous levels. Failure of this move to attract support forced prices to back away again. Final quotations were barely above the day's lows.

Blame European Developments.

In the absence of important domestic developments financial observers attributed the further decline to foreign political developments. Reports that the Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations in Rome were a "washout" and that Germany was adopting a stiff attitude against the Netherlands for alleged attacks on its legations were advanced as the chief reasons for nervousness in the financial district.

Industrial shares were again most active on the downside. United States Steel, Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, United States Rubber, and other pivotal stocks were targets for selling.

Copper shares also were sharply depressed. American Smelting, Kennecott, and International Nickel each closed more than 1 point lower.

Aviation Group Irregular.

Aviation issues bucked the trend for a time. At the close there was some irregularity. Several utility stocks firmed.

Minor changes prevailed in the carriers, reports of introduction of a rail bill in congress failing to help materially.

Building construction shares moved independently and showed substantial advances. Johns-Manville jumped 3¾ points.

Oils and merchandising issues were little changed, although in the latter group Sears-Roebuck dropped 1⅛ points. Most chemicals gave ground. Oils held near Thursday's final prices.

500,000 SHARES FILED BY HOWARD AIRCRAFT CORP.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Howard Aircraft corporation, Chicago, manufacturer of airplanes and service parts, today filed a registration statement covering 500,000 shares of $1 par value common stock and warants evidencing the right to purchase 100,000 shares of common stock.

The company said it was engaged in designing a cargo carrying plane with tricycle landing gear to carry either four tons of freight or 40 men with military equipment at a cruising speed in excess of 150 miles an hour.

Of the total issue of common stock registered 400,000 shares will be offered to the public at $3 per share through the principal underwriter, Pistell, Wright & Co., Ltd. The remaining 100,000 shares will be reserved against the exercise of the stock purchase warants.

RESERVE BOARD REPORTS STEADY BUSINESS GAIN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The federal reserve board said today the upswing in business which started last summer continued to the end of 1938, lifting the index of industrial production from the May low of 76 to 104 in December.

The December figure was only one point higher than November's, but it represented a gain in spite of seasonal influences in factory operation. The industrial gain was accompanied, the board said in its monthly bulletin, by Christmas holiday trade, which was better than the preceding year's fairly good holiday sales.

"Employment and pay rolls appear to have increased further from the middle of November to the middle of December," the board added.

Window Glass Production Shows Gain Over Year Ago

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Window glass production in December amounted to 1,300,150 boxes, or 61.7 per cent of the industry's capacity, compared with 953,964 boxes, or 58.7 per cent, in the like month of 1937.

RECEIVER APPOINTED TO TAKE OVER ASSETS OF CALIFORNIA BANKER

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A receiver was appointed today to take charge of the assets of Herbert Fleishhacker, former president of the Anglo California National bank. Burton J. Wyman, federal bankruptcy referee, ordered the appointment after a hearing on Fleishhacker's plea for an extension of time under the bankruptcy act, to pay creditors. Sterling Carr, former United States district attorney here, was named receiver.

In asking a receiver, attorney Harold Morton, representing a group of creditors, described Fleishhacker's financial dealings as "shocking" and a "sorry mess."

The appointment abruptly ended a hearing of Fleishhacker's petition for more time under the bankruptcy act to meet liabilities listed as $3,831,000. He said that with orderly marketing of his holdings he would have assets of $4,928,000.

ASK U S INQUIRY TO FIX CAUSE OF ZINC PRICE CUT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy was urged today to determine whether a recent reduction in the price of zinc in the Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma district was brought about by collusion and conspiracy of the companies controling the price of the ore.

Senator Thomas [D., Okla.], representing a committee of senators and representatives from six states, wrote Murphy the recent drop of $5 a ton in the price of zinc ore had caused discharge of one-third of the miners employed in the district and a cut of 50 cents a day in wages of the remainder.

Thomas said he had received a telegram from the Tri-State Zinc and Lead Ore Producers' association, Picher, Okla., opposing such an investigation. The association, he said, contended there was no monopoly in control of the field and that the recent drop in prices was due to the recent Canadian trade agreement, which decreased zinc tarif 20 per cent, and to the London market. It added the producers did not fear an investigation "except as a means of drawing public attention away from the mistake made in reducing the zinc tarif."

STORES' SALES DECLINE 15 PCT. BELOW YEAR AGO

Sales of the nation's department stores in the week ended Jan. 7 sank 15 per cent below the turnover in the corresponding week a year ago, the federal reserve board announced yesterday. The Jan. 2 holiday shortened the business week and was partly responsible for the drop.

A gain of 3 per cent was recorded during the four weeks ended Jan. 7, compared with those in the corresponding period a year ago, the survey said.

The largest drop in sales in the week ended Jan. 7 was in the New York federal reserve district, where the turnover tumbled 22 per cent. Boston district stores lost 19 per cent; Cleveland, 17 per cent, and Richmond and San Francisco, 16 per cent.

In the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago area] department store sales slumped 12.1 per cent, but showed a gain of 4 per cent in the four-week period. Chicago stores' sales fell 14 per cent in the week.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—With 83 per cent of the total representing new money, the sum of $20,712,780 was obtained in new financing during the week ended yesterday, Poor's Publishing company reported today. The allocation follows:

Reserve Board Simplifies Bank Condition Reports

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today the adoption by federal and state agencies of a simplified, uniform report form to be used by banks in publishing periodic condition reports. The bulletin said the uniform form will benefit particularly state banks which must file reports with two or more state and federal agencies which formerly required widely varying information.

Milwaukee Ry. Adds to Fleet of Fast Trains

A new high speed train will be placed in service between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis on Saturday, Jan. 21, the Milwaukee road announced yesterday. It will be called the Morning Hiawatha and will be made up of the same new equipment as the original Hiawatha that leaves Chicago and the Twin Cities early in the afternoon.

The new trains will be pulled by brightly colored streamlined steam locomotives capable of 120 miles an hour or more.

Train Connections Considered.

The Morning Hiawatha will leave Minneapolis at 7:50 a. m. and St. Paul at 8:25 a. m., after arrival of trains from the north and west, and will arrive in Chicago at 2:55 p. m. in time for connection with the fast trains to the east. The running time, 6½ hours between St. Paul and Chicago, will be the same as that of the original Hiawatha.

Northbound the train will make more stops than the southbound train and consequently will not be so fast. It will leave Chicago at 10 a. m. and arrive at St. Paul at 5:50 p. m. and at Minneapolis at 6:30 p. m.

Makeup of New Train.

The two new trains will consist of new air conditioned coaches, parlor cars, a taproom car, and a dining car seating forty-eight persons—said to be the largest diners in the country. Mail and express will be carried.

Since the Milwaukee road put the first Hiawatha trains in service on May 29, 1935, they have carried up to Dec. 31, 1938, a total of 1,075,422 paying passengers, or an average of 819 daily. Extra sections have been put into service frequently.

Ward's estimated that production this week at 86,925 units, compared with 76,685 last-week and 65,735 in the like 1938 week.

The General Motors corporation reported yesterday that its sales of automobiles and trucks to dealers in the overseas markets during 1938 totaled 354,188 units, a decline of 2.6 per cent from the 1937 figure. Sales in December totaled 27,524 units, against 29,070 in December, 1937. CONGRESS GETS PROGRAM FOR RELIEF OF RAILS

Plan Gives Broader Powers to I. C. C.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—An omnibus railroad aid bill to pave the way for rehabilitation of the financially bogged railroads, was introduced in congress today by Representative Clarence F. Lea [D., Cal.]. He is chairman of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee.

Rep. Clarence Lea.

The administration's bill would increase the powers of the interstate commerce commission and would encourage railroad reorganization. The I. C. C. would have rate control over all forms of interstate transportation. The bill's recommendations are based largely upon the report of the special committee named by President Roosevelt to draft suggestions for aiding the rail industry.

Hearings are scheduled to start before the house committee next Tuesday. The first witness will be Walter M. W. Splawn, interstate commerce commissioner and chairman of the President's committee.

Wheeler to Act in Senate.

The bill will be introduced in the senate by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Provisions of the Lea bill are:

1. The membership of the interstate commerce commission would be increased from 11 to 14. A body of nine would handle rate cases and the remaining five, the finance division, would handle administrative functions.

2. The interstate commerce commission rate division would be given rate regulation powers over all carriers in interstate commerce—railroads, buses, trucks, coastwise shipping, inland waterway carriers, air lines, and pipe lines.

3. A special interstate commerce commission appeal board would handle appeals from administrative orders of the finance division. The chairman of the appeals board would be named by the President and would act as chairman of the entire commission. At present the chairmanship is rotated by seniority.

Provides Legislative Study.

4. The President would appoint a special administrator charged with making transportation studies for the purpose of recommending favorable legislation.

5. A railroad reorganization court of three members would be established by the chief justice of the Supreme court. Its three members would be named from federal district or Circuit courts. Appeals from the court would be taken directly to the Supreme court.

6. Carriers would be given authority to propose consolidations, mergers, leases, purchases, and acquisitions of control.

7. The interstate commerce commission would be empowered to authorize pooling of trafic and earnings.

8. The interstate commerce commission would be empowered to coördinate rates, to prescribe different minimum rates for the various types of carriers and to restrict cut throat competition among the same or different types of carriers.

Permits RFC Loans.

9. The RFC would be authorized to make loans to carriers to enable them to comply with interstate commerce commission capital expenditure orders when they cannot obtain money in the open market.

10. The RFC would be authorized to make loans not exceeding 300 million dollars for equipment purchases and to encourage employment of additional labor.

11. Land grant railroads [those which received land from the federal government as an encouragement to build] would be permitted to charge the government the commercial rate for hauling government officials, employés, and property. Abolition of preferred rates would add seven millions annually to railroad income, it was estimated.

12. The RFC would have authority to make loans to finance reorganizations, consolidations, purchase of railroad obligations, and maintenance of property when earnings gave reasonable assurance the RFC was protected.

Ignores Long Haul Clause.

Representative Lea made no mention in his bill of the controversial long and short haul clause of the railroad act which the President's committee suggested should be repealed. The clause provides that railroads may not charge less for long freight hauls than the sum of short hauls in the same direction. It was believed that Senator Wheeler, who is opposed to repeal of the clause, kept this recommendation out of the bill.

He also ignored the committee recommendation which urged legislation to relieve railroads of certain allegedly unjust tax burdens.

California's Gold Output Sets High Mark Since 1862

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—California produced more gold in 1938 than in any year since 1862, the bureau of mines reported today. It estimated last year's output at 1,294,400 ounces; its worth at $45,304,000.

Hull Agrees to Draft Plea for Lobby Quiz

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Secretary Hull emerged from a critical barrage of senate committee questioning on his trade program today with an unofficial commission to draft legislation for an investigation of tarif lobbyists who, he said, were intent on wrecking it.

The white haired secretary of state was called before the senate finance committee for questioning about his department's policy in making reciprocal trade treaties.

Senators from sugar producing states wanted to ask him particularly about reports that the United States, without waiting for public hearings on a proposed revision of the trade treaty with Cuba, had already promised Cuba that the American duty on sugar would be cut from 90 to 75 cents a hundredweight.

Flatly Denies Reports.

Hull flatly denied the reports and swung quickly to the attack by charging that "this town now is swarming with sugar lobbyists."

"I think it is only due the American people, when our foreign trade is falling off, to know that the city is swarming with lobbyists who are hanging on our flanks to attack the trade agreements program," he added.

His remarks brought immediate protests from Senators Adams [D., Colo.] and O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] that the only sugar lobbyists they had seen were bona fide sugar beet raisers or processors who came here at the invitation of the state department.

Adams declared, "I don't think these people should be pilloried as lobbyists or the inference left that they are being paid to use their influence."

Hitting at Professionals.

Hull replied that he alluded only to professional lobbyists who were attempting to undermine and discredit the trade agreements program.

"And," he added vigorously, "I don't intend to sit silent in the midst of all this activity."

O'Mahoney said he thought the secretary was "condemning the sugar people on the basis that it's a good thing to give a dog a bad name before you hang him." O'Mahoney then challenged Hull to draft legislation for a congressional investigation of sugar lobbyists.

"I will if you will include all of the tarif lobbyists," Hull replied. O'Mahoney said that was agreeable to him.

MO. PACIFIC ASKS I. C. C. TO REJECT EXAMINER'S PLAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad asked the interstate commerce commission today to reject an examiner's proposed plan of reorganization for it, and to allow it to effect a "composition" with its creditors.

"Denial of an opportunity to submit to a vote of its creditors a proposal for composition will take from the debtor [Missouri Pacific] a right given it by congress," the railroad said in a brief.

The composition theory, the Missouri Pacific explained, is that an insolvent debtor may make an agreement of compromise with its creditors whereby the creditors relinquish some portion of their rights and the debtor is enabled to retain its property and business.

Under the reorganization plan recommended some time ago by Examiner R. H. Jewell, present holders of Missouri Pacific preferred and common stock would have no participation in the reorganized company.

GRAIN MARKETS DECLINE AFTER EARLY FIRMNESS

Grain markets turned downward yesterday after showing fair strength in the early trading. Reports of additional moisture in parts of Kansas and Nebraska led to some selling of wheat futures early, but buying of May at 69 cents a bushel for resting orders prevented any demonstration on the bear side.

Selling orders came into the pit in a persistent manner and the buying orders were finally filled, resulting in a dip shortly before the close. Final trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel. Winnipeg prices were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

Corn showed an easy undertone from the start and closed ¼ to ½ cent lower. Oats declined ¼ to ⅝ cent on selling attributed to a cash house, presumably representing hedging operations. Soy beans were ⅛ cent a bushel lower, after a small advance early had carried all deliveries into new high ground for the season.

CONT. ILLINOIS DIVIDEND LIFTED TO $3 ANNUALLY

Cummings Explains Income Report.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday boosted its dividend to $3 annually, Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board, announced at the annual stockholders' meeting. It declared a semi-annual payment of $1.50. The bank in recent years has been paying $1 semi-annually. Payment will be made Feb. 1 to stock of record Jan. 20.

Walter J. Cummings.

Yesterday's meeting passed off quietly. None of the 150 or more stockholders present took advantage of Cummings' offer to answer any questions on the conduct of the bank's business during 1938. All were content to stand on the announcement that the bank had earned $15,565,517 in the year.

Explains Income Sources.

Cummings analyzed the earnings statement. He explained that the total income of $27,984,378 for 1938 was derived from the following sources:

Interest earned	$18,127,566
Trust department and other fees, commis., service charges, etc..	4,186,453
Bank bldg. [excl. of bk. quart.]	1,130,036
Net prof from the sale of sec..	4,540,321
Total	$27,984,378

Expenses of the bank were divided as follows:
Salaries and wages paid	$ 6,400,254
Interest paid	1,583,309
Federal deposit insurance	799,221
Pension fund	426,405
Other oper exp and taxes	3,209,769
Total	$12,418,880

Cummings said that income from the bank building gave a return of 4.24 per cent on its book value. He explained that the bank's profits did not include recoveries on investments.

During 1938 the bank had an average of 3,037 employés on its pay roll.

No Reduction in Preferred.

The directors decided to refrain for the present from reducing the bank's $25,000,000 of preferred stock which is held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"We had a good year in 1938," Cummings said, "and we are looking forward to 1939 with confidence that it will be an exceptionally fine year."

Payment of the $1.50 a share dividend, he said, will total about $2,250,000 on the bank's approximately 1,500,000 shares of common stock.

All the bank's nineteen directors were reëlected. The directors made the following changes in the official staf: H. P. O'Connell, a second vice president, was elected a vice president; Harry L. MacGregor and John W. Nichols, assistant cashiers, were elected second vice presidents; A. G. Bradt and Boyd J. Simmons were made assistant cashiers; and Elmer A. Degen and F. W. Lagerholm were made assistant secretaries.

All officers and directors of the Main State, Oak Lawn Trust and Savings, and Pioneer Trust and Savings banks were reëlected yesterday. The Main State reported surplus accounts amounted to $200,000 and equaled the bank's capital. A year ago the surplus was $135,000.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—A rally in bonds was partly canceled in late trading today, leaving final prices mixed. Traders supported rail loans for a time, but failing to enlist a larger following many turned sellers before the end.

Low yield bonds attracted enough supporting bids to keep them close to the high average they have held for several months. A further increase in excess reserves, disclosed by the weekly bank statements, was said to be a factor in their firmness. United States governments split their course and ended 5/32ds lower to 4/32ds higher. Trading was quiet.

Bonds of Associated Gas and Electric company, listed on the curb exchange, broke sharply on announcement by the Securities and Exchange commission of a hearing to consider delisting of the company's shares for an alleged overstatement of property account. The 5s of '68 sold off 5¼ to 29¾, 5s of '50 down 5 to 31, and 4½s of '49 down 4 at 28¾.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were almost unchanged in light trading yesterday. Twenty-five thousand shares changed hands, and the Tribune average of 20 stocks finished at 11.10, up 0.03 from Thursday.

Volume leaders moved in a narrow range. Midland Utilities 7 per cent preferred stock finished at ¼, off ⅛. Commonwealth Edison closed at 26⅞, off an equal fraction. General Motors was off ¾ at 46⅛. Middle West gained ⅛ to 7⅛, and Chicago corporation was up ⅛ at 2.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks declined $1 to $3 yesterday in desultory trading, dealers said. Losses of $1 were registered by shares of the City National Bank and Trust company, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and the First National bank. Harris Trust and Savings bank stock declined $3. Other shares were unchanged.

ATTORNEY TELLS VIEW OF NLRB ON SITDOWN STRIKER

Can Be Dismissed After Reinstatement, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Charles Fahy, general counsel of the National Labor Relations board, told the Supreme court today that an employer could dismiss an employé for participation in a sitdown strike if the workman were first reinstated to his position. His statement was made in response to a volley of questions from members of the court.

Fahy was defending an order directing the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago to reinstate employés who engaged in a sitdown strike in 1937 and held two key buildings for nine days.

Max Swiren of the Chicago law firm of Levinson, Becker, Peebles & Swiren, Fansteel attorneys, argued that the board had exceeded its authority in seeking to compel the reemployment of men "admittedly discharged" because of participation in the sitdown.

Expect Decision in Few Weeks.

After Swiren's argument the court took the case under advisement. A decision is expected in a few weeks.

Fahy contended that a workman, "no matter how guilty," continued as an employé if his employer had committed an unfair labor practice. The board, he said, would require his reinstatement if that would "effectuate the purposes" of the National Labor Relations act.

Justice Stone asked if men restored to positions could then be discharged for participation in the strike.

"They could be," Fahy replied, "if they were discharged after reinstatement."

"How long would the employer have to keep them—one day?" Stone asked.

"There would be no question of time," Fahy said.

Workers Act Illegally.

Questioned by Justice Butler, Fahy said the men had acted illegally in seizing the plant.

"I don't think the act condones unlawful conduct," he asserted. He added, however, that when an employer is guilty of an unfair labor practice the board can direct the reinstatement of employés "to effectuate the purposes of the act."

Chief Justice Hughes asked:

"Is there no conduct at all, no matter how illegal, which would justify discharge of an employé following an unfair labor practice?"

"That is the scope of my argument," Fahy replied.

39 Fight Contempt Ruling.

While the argument was in progress today, an appeal was filed in the court on behalf of 39 Fansteel employés who participated in the sitdown and were convicted of contempt by a Lake county [Illinois] court, appealed to the high tribunal.

The contempt charges resulted from alleged violations of an injunction against the sit-down strikers.

The appeal was on the ground that the state tribunal was without jurisdiction to punish for contempt because the federal government had "preëmpted the field of labor relations" by passing the National Labor Relations act.

Investors' Guide

AVIATION CORPORATION.

Investors' Guide: A friend of mine who seems to know about investments has advised me to buy stock in the Aviation corporation. He says the company began to pay dividends on the common last year, and is on its way to big profits. I should like to have your opinion of the stock and one of your reports on the company. Does it make airplanes or operate an air line or both? I want a safe stock that pays dividends regularly.—Q. R. O.

Answer: Increased orders in 1938 for military and commercial planes sent sales and profits of Aviation corporation booming. In the nine months ended Aug. 31, sales were more than 60 per cent larger than those for the corresponding 1937 volume. For the nine months they were $5,215,000. Net income for the period totaled $402,000 or 14 cents a common share, in contrast to net loss of $82,700 in the corresponding months of 1937.

Before 1935 this company manufactured airplanes and operated air lines through a controling interest in American Airlines, Inc. Under the air mail act of 1934, however, transport and manufacturing operations had to be separated, and stock in American Airlines was distributed. Aviation corporation is now in the manufacturing business only.

The company had net losses running from $430,000 to $7,500,000 from 1929 through 1935. Having disposed of the air line, it made net income of $104,000 in 1936, had a loss of $437,000 in 1937, and made money again in 1938.

The first cash dividend since the company began business in 1929 was paid on July 1 of last year, when common stockholders received 18½ cents a share. The stock is not on a regular dividend basis. It is about 30 per cent owned by Aviation and Transportation corporation, formerly Cord corporation.

It is a speculative stock.

THEY ALL PAY.

Investors' Guide: Will you please recommend a 6 per cent preferred stock that has never passed any part of its dividend? I want a stock selling for par or slightly under. I am a business man owning $20,000 worth of preferred stocks, real estate bonds, and common stock investment trusts. All of these are paying interest or dividends.—L. E. Y.

Answer: We do not recommend specific securities for investment or speculation. We shall be glad, however, to send you a report on any company or security you request.

REVEAL FEDERAL TAXES, POLICIES TIE UP CAPITAL

Survey of Stockholders Is Given to Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A survey of 3,000 stockholders that showed federal taxes and legislative policies were impeding the flow of new capital into industry, has been referred to congress. The survey was presented by Howard Coonley, new president of the National Association of Manufacturers, it was learned today. He referred it to the banking and currency committee of the senate and to the house ways and means committee.

Picking the 3,000 names at random from stockholders lists, the association asked this question:

"Do you have money available which would could invest and would like to invest in new securities of either new or existing productive enterprises, but which you do not care to invest in such securities at present?"

Views on Low Profits.

The question brought 75.1 affirmative and 24.9 negative answers. Those answering "yes" were then asked to state the reasons for their unwillingness to make new investments.

Of the 38.4 per cent who cited "inadequate profits" as the cause for their hesitancy, 76.4 per cent blamed the low profit prospect on existing legislation: 74:8 per cent mentioned existing taxes; 73.6 per cent, possible new legislation; 72.7 per cent, new taxes; 62.6 per cent, labor difficulties, and 19.5 per cent, international troubles. A total of 61.9 per cent said that they preferred new corporate securities to tax-exempt government bonds.

Factors which would create willingness to invest, according to the answers, would be improvement in government policies and attitudes toward business, change in government spending and budgetary policies, less government competition with business, reduced taxes, and a change in federal labor legislation.

Tax Is Big Drawback.

Only 8.1 per cent of the investors queried said that better industrial management was a factor necessary to bring about a willingness to invest. A large majority said that even if adequate profits were earned now, or should be earned in the future, investment is not worthwhile because:

A. The government takes too much in taxes directly from the company, and

B. The government takes too much in taxes directly from the individual taxpayer.

COTTON

Operations in American cotton markets continued restricted yesterday. Closing trades on cotton futures were .05 cent lower to .01 cent a pound higher. Weakness in securities and decline in Liverpool had a depressing effect.

The Egyptian government yesterday reimposed minimum prices on cotton futures in the Alexandria market in an effort to prevent a further decline.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .02 cent lower, with New York, 8.83 cents; New Orleans, 8.58 cents; Galveston, 8.32 cents and Houston at 8.35 cents a pound. Prices follow:
